United States, Britain, France Condemn Move

Benes' Alleged Role Mystifies Officials

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new Communist-controlled government was jointly and bitterly denounced today by the United States, France and Great Britain. They called it a "disguised dictatorship."

Their condemnation was issued in the form of an extraordinary public declaration. It presented the three Western Powers as forming a solid front against what the Communists have done to the Czechs.

Meanwhile it was learned here that American officials are highly uncertain over exactly what has happened at Prague in the last two days. They are particularly in the dark as to the alleged role of President Eduard Benes. He has been a long time friend of Western democracy as well as an advocate of friendly relations with Russia.

Benes' Talk Cancelled

Some significance was attached by diplomatic officials here to the fact that Benes was supposed to have made a broadcast to the world yesterday afternoon. The talk was cancelled about the same time that Communist Premier Klement Gottwald announced that Benes has approved the formation of a Cabinet excluding all elements of opposition to absolute Communist domination.

If Benes actually did what Gottwald reported it would support the Communists' argument that their seizure of power has been entirely legal. But if it should appear that Benes had been forced to accept the new regime or that Gottwald had distorted his position, the Communist case would be greatly weakened.

Officials are convinced the whole affair was Moscow directed. Proving it is another matter.

One result appeared certain to flow from today's announcement. Czechoslovakia may lose, for the immediate future at least, all hope of obtaining its requested $350,000,000 loan from the United States Export-Import Bank. The Czechs have been after this money for reconstruction for many months.

Precedent For Denying Aid

There is considerable precedent for denying American economic assistance to Eastern European governments, once the basis has been laid for disapproval of the nature or acts of those governments.

Indications were that today's denunciation had one other purpose.

In the great propaganda battle between Russia and the West this statement is supposed to dramatize the rise of a new tyranny in Czechoslovakia. In that way it is supposed to lower Russian prestige in the countries of Western Europe. There the big issue is European recovery under the Marshall plan.

The statement did not mention Russia by name nor, for that matter, the Communists. But in relation to the situation to which it was applied there could be no mistaking its meaning.

It said that the American, French and British governments had watched events in Czechoslovakia "which place in jeopardy the very existence of the principles of liberty to which all democratic nations are attached."

Jury Told Meyers Got "Kickbacks"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Bieriot H. Lamarre testified today that the bulk of the fat wartime salaries he and another official received from an aviation parts concern actually went to Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers.

Lamarre, self-styled "dummy" president of the Aviation Electric Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, told a federal court jury that Meyers was "the boss" and got most of the profits.

Meyers is being tried on a charge that he induced Lamarre to lie to a Senate committee last year during an inquiry into Meyers' private dealings during the war.

All told, Lamarre said, Meyers received approximately $150,000 from Aviation Electric. Most of this, he testified, was in salary "kickbacks" to Meyers from himself and Thomas E. Readnower. Lamarre and Readnower, former vice president of the firm, are brothers-in-law.

The payments to Meyers, Lamarre said, were in addition to repayment of $34,000 which Meyers had lent the company.

Most of the payments to Meyers were by cashier's checks, Lamarre said.

"He told me that cashier's checks would not appear on the books of the company," he added.

Lamarre said that Readnower was continued on the company's books at a salary of $1,250 a month after he was inducted into the Army. He was allowed to keep only $100 of this, Lamarre testified.

Mukden Ring Tightens

NANKING, Feb. 26 (AP)—Chinese Communists tightened their ring around Mukden in savage fighting today, leading to predictions that the great Manchurian city soon would face frontal assault.

Secretary Marshall Asks Swift, Additional Military Aid To Greece And Turkey

Administration Seeks $275,000,000 More

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Swift action by Congress to provide $275,000,000 more military aid to Greece and Turkey was urged by Secretary of State Marshall today. He said "totalitarian groups" are waiting to take over if United States assistance to these nations stops.

Speaking for President Truman, Marshall proposed legislation which would maintain the flow of American guns and munitions through June 30, 1949.

"It is in my judgment," he said, "definitely in our self interest as a nation and consistent with the principles of the United Nations Charter to help these free people retain their freedom."

The $400,000,000 approved by Congress last May for help to Greece and Turkey has nearly all been spent. Without new funds the United States must stop aiding these two countries, June 30.

Turkey "Under Pressure"

Marshall made the administration's new request in letters to House Speaker Martin and Senate President Vandenberg.

Marshall noted Turkey is "under constant pressure" to grant military bases in the Dardanelles to "a foreign power" and to cede some of its territory to the same power. He did not name the power but obviously meant Russia.

"The northern neighbors of Greece (Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania) have furnished moral and material support to Greek Communist guerrillas who are attempting to overthrow the legal Greek government and establish a dictatorship of a foreign-inspired minority," he said.

Marshall did not specify how much each country would get. But most of the new funds would go to Greece to help government forces launch a grand spring offensive against the guerrillas.

The United States has promised to send more mountain artillery, machine guns and perhaps help the Greeks increase the size of their army and militia to around 200,000 men.

MacVeagh To Portugal

This would give the government a 10 to 1 advantage over the estimated 20,000 men the guerilla leader, Markos, has at his command.

Meanwhile, it was learned President Truman intends to reshuffle the administrative setup in Athens to eliminate friction between Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh and Aid Administrator Dwight Griswold.

MacVeagh, it was said will be sent to Portugal as American minister, leaving Griswold in charge until at least July when an American ambassador will be appointed. MacVeagh is currently in the United States recuperating from an operation.

BODY FOUND—The body of pretty four-year-old Norma Brunner (above), daughter of a bakery salesman who disappeared from her home at Ballston Spa, N. Y., Wednesday, was found yesterday in an icy creek near her home. Acting State Police Inspector Martin F. Dillon said there was no evidence of foul play. He said the child apparently stumbled over a low fence at the top of the 15-foot embankment bordering the creek and was drowned.

U. S. Carrier, Two Destroyers Visit Middle East

Movement Termed "Good Will" Trip

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (INS) — The 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Valley Forge and two destroyers were dispatched to Persian Gulf ports and the Suez Canal today in what was interpreted to be a United States "show of force" in the troubled Middle East.

Sailing orders for the three war vessels were announced by the Navy Department in Washington, which termed the movement a "good will" trip to "stimulate" enlistments.

The three ships will leave their present station at Tsingtao, China, on March 1. The ports to be visited in the Persian Gulf and the Suez Canal area were not made public, but the Navy announced that no ports in the Mediterranean would be visited.

The Navy said that 2,500 officers and men—approximately the normal complement—will sail on the three vessels.

Navy officials refused to link the trip with reports that the United States will supply sailors and marines instead of soldiers to the United Nations if this government decides to participate in any enforcement of the Palestine partition plan.

It was noted that if the Navy had decided to bring the ships from China to their home port of San Diego they could have done it by a more direct route than a trip around the world.

Adm. Martin In Command

The Valley Forge is commanded by Capt. W. R. Ruble. Accompanying the Valley Forge will be the destroyers Lawe and Lloyd Thomas, commanded by Commanders G. R. Lee and J. E. Cone, respectively.

Rear Adm. H. M. Martin will be in overall command of the operation.

The Navy emphasized that permission to stop at the various ports has been given by the various nations and will be "no surprise" to those nations.

In addition to Middle Eastern ports the ships will also visit Singapore, Ceylon, Gibraltar and Trinidad before making the passage of the Panama Canal for San Diego.

CONGRESS REJECTS BID TO HELP PROSECUTE CIO

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Congress has turned down a Justice Department invitation to help prosecute the CIO on charges of illegal political spending under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The invitation was made in a letter to the Senate-House Labor Study Committee. This "watchdog" group was created by the Taft-Hartley Act to study the operation of the Labor laws.

Sen. Ball (R-Minn), committee chairman, replied:

"We are agreed we should not participate." He explained that the committe has a policy of not injecting itself or interfering in any specific case or controversy.

The letters were made public today by the Justice Department and the committee.

The CIO case is the first court test of whether the Taft-Hartley Act violates the Constitution by forbidding unions and corporations to make expenditures in connection with federal elections.

The CIO and President Philip Murray were indicted February 11 under this provision of the law.

Officers, Despite Wounds, Denied Disability Benefits

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—An Army lieutenant and three captains testified today that, despite crippling war wounds, they haven't been able to get disability retirements.

They told their stories to a House Armed Services Subcommittee which is looking into Army and Navy retirement procedures. The inquiry was touched off by reports that high-ranking officers got disability retirement pay even though able to earn a good living in post-war civilian life.

The stories, as related by the young officers today:

First Lt. Thomas L. Frazer, Adrian, Ga.—

He flew 15 combat missions in the Pacific with a broken neck which had been diagnosed as a muscle strain. After he made repeated complaints, medical officers corrected the earlier diagnosis and grounded him.

Frazer said he was injured when he crashed in flames in the China Sea. During subsequent flights, he related, he flew strapped to his seat with a board strapped to his back, until one arm became paralyzed.

Capt. Carlos Ogden, San Jose, Calif., a winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor—

He has been trying for more than a year to get the Army to decide finally on his case for disability retirement. He said he was wounded three times in action in Europe and when discharged last April his right hand was still in a cast.

Capt. Frederick J. Bready, North Wilbraham, Mass.—

Deal Between GOP And Dixie Demos Urged

Committee Vote On Lynch Bill Blocked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Southern Democrats launched a move today to bar Harry S. Truman's name from state ballots in the traditionally solid South.

And the Republican Party was urged by Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) to put up a presidential candidate "acceptable" to southerners so as to destroy the Democrats' 80-year-old supremacy below the Mason-Dixon line.

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath denounced Hoffman's proposal as "dishonest and contemptible."

"Whatever our differences of opinion," McGrath said in a statement, "members of the Democratic Party from all sections of the country seek to solve our problems upon a basis of honest conviction and moral principle."

McGrath said he could not see "a strong and healthy South selling itself" to the party which once "ravaged it" during a period of "repression, corruption and abuses" after 1865.

Anti-Lynch Bill Blocked

These developments came as Dixie Democrats, up in arms against President Truman's civil rights program, blocked at least until next week one of the President's proposals—a bill to make lynching a federal offense.

The anti-Truman drive was touched off in Virginia, where Gov. Tuck asked the Legislature for a law which would keep the names of presidential candidates off the ballot next November.

Thus the state's 11 electoral votes could be cast for Mr. Truman, if he is the Democratic candidate for President, or for someone else—whichever Virginia's Democratic leaders decided.

The Virginia Governor also asked a law which would bar third party candidates—this would include Henry A. Wallace—from the Old Dominion ballot.

Tuck openly raised the possibility that "other southern states" might follow the course he outlined.

Acting as a unit, the "solid South" could withhold well over 100 electoral votes from Mr. Truman—far more than enough to swing a close election to another candidate.

Hoffman Proposes "Deal"

Hoffman, speaking in the House, proposed a "deal" between Republicans and "rebel" southern Democrats.

He suggested that both sides "get together in some kind of conference, agree on someone agreeable to both, and elect him."

By "someone agreeable," Hoffman told reporters later, he meant a presidential candidate opposed to "legislation which interferes with state rights as to anti-lynch and anti-poll tax proposals."

Those favoring such laws, the Michigander declared, "are trying to bring back carpetbag days."

Hoffman's proposal found no immediate takers. Many leading Republicans are backing Mr. Truman's civil rights program. And the southern "revolt" has not reached

Strike Outbreak In France Feared

PARIS, Feb. 26 (AP)—A new battle over the barricades at Marseille raised fears today that the Communist victory in Czechoslovakia will be followed by a second round of strike troubles for France.

Press reports from Marseille said 2,000 strikers at the big Mediterranean port city blocked approaches to a sugar refinery there yesterday and fought with troops who cleared them away.

Strikes and disturbances at Marseille set off the string of troubles last November and December which almost developed into a general walkout through the nation.

Moderate labor circles eyed the calendar anxiously. They speculated on the charges which have been made by right-wing leaders that Communists are planning a spring offensive to start March 1 in France and Italy and reach a peak about April 15.

Socialists in the Belgian government recently declared Communists were trying to bring that country into the strike operation.

The events in Czechoslovakia pointed up the possibility of an international drive. The Communist Daily Worker in London openly mentioned the possibility that France and Italy would be the next Communist objectives.

The Daily Worker said the "hysteria" of the London press over Czechoslovak events was "a measure of the uncertainty in ruling circles of the future of the capitalist system." It said these circles "realize they face the same challenge in Italy and France."

PRISON TOUR—Jimmy Melton (right), 12-year-old convicted slayer, made a tour of the Colorado Penitentiary yesterday with Warden Roy Best (left) and Best's dogs. Although young Melton was sentenced on a second degree murder charge for shooting his sister, the warden said he would keep the boy in his home rather than place him in a cell inside the prison walls.

USSR Asks Voice For Its Satellites In German Talks

Notes Dispatched To Western Powers

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 27 (AP)—Russia has urged the three western powers to allow Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia to take part in planning Germany's future, the Moscow radio said today.

The broadcast said the Soviet Union had sent notes to that effect to the governments of the United States, Great Britain and France.

It was heard here only a few hours after diplomats said last night the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia might speed the work of the three western powers in gearing Western Germany's economy to the Marshall plan.

Says Merger War Threat

The radio quoted the notes as saying Russia concurred with Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia, who jointly declared recently at Prague that any merging of the three western zones of Germany carried the threat of another war. The declaration said such a merger violated the Potsdam and Yalta decisions.

"The Soviet government," the broadcast quoted the notes as saying, "has informed the governments of Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia it shares the attitude expounded in the xxx declaration and considers that satisfaction should be given to the request of the governments of the above-mentioned states for consultation between the occupying powers in Germany and the governments of other United Nations on the German question in accordance with the declaration of governments of the U.S.S.R., Britain, the U.S.A. and France of June 5, 1945 (Potsdam).

Benelux Nations Take Part

"At the same time, one cannot but recognize that Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia are among those powers which are particularly interested in a solution of the German question in accordance with the interests of peace and the security of the peoples."

Prior to the Prague meeting of the three Eastern European states, Russia had protested the current London meeting is in violation of the Potsdam pact and four-power control of Germany.

In yesterday's confidential talks here among the major Western powers, a joint delegation from the Benelux Customs Union countries—Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—participated for the first time.

Beaten Girl Found In Fraternity House

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 26 (AP) — A 20-year-old girl was found in a Washburn University fraternity house today, badly beaten and clad only in a slip.

She was unable to explain her injuries or how she got to the Kappa Sigma house, officers said.

The girl, Virginia Schwemmer, a waitress, was hospitalized for severe shock and deep scalp wounds.

Police said they believed she was the victim of an attack on a residential street several blocks from the campus.

Warden To Raise Youthful Slayer "Like Own Kid"

CANON CITY, Colo., Feb. 26 (AP)—Rough, tough Warden Roy Best said today he was going to raise Jimmy Melton, 12-year-old convicted killer, "like my own kid."

"I can't put that kid behind bars to be with the toughest thugs and bums in the state," Best declared. "I'm going to take him into my home, let him go to school."

Jimmy, who wears glasses and has a mild appearance, pleaded guilty yesterday at Las Animas to second degree murder in the killing of his sister. Phyllis Marie Melton, 16, died, five bullets in her body, last December 15 as she wrapped Christmas presents.

The boy, sentenced to serve not less than 12 years to life imprisonment, was brought to the state penitentiary here yesterday.

OCULISTS ACCUSED OF GETTING GLASSES REBATES TO BE NAMED

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. (AP)—The government got the go-ahead today to obtain the names of the 5,000 oculists it alleges received rebates on glasses sold to patients.

The order was issued by Federal Judge Walter J. La Buy, hearing an anti-trust suit against two large companies supplying glasses.

He directed Bausch and Lomb of Rochester, N. Y., to turn over to the government within 45 days the names of 1,500 oculists. He also ordered four Bausch and Lomb subsidiaries to submit a list of any physicians who have received more than $500 in alleged rebates.

Subsidiaries involved are Riggs Optical Company Inc., San Francisco; Riggs Optical Company, Consolidated, Chicago; Southeastern Optical Company, Richmond, Va., and McIntyre, Magee and Brown Company, Philadelphia. They were given 60 days to produce the names.

The government already has listed 2,700 medical doctors as obtaining rebates.

Printers Stay Home

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26 (AP) — Twenty-eight major Philadelphia printing firms were closed today as 900 union workers stayed home. A union leader denied the stop-work action was a strike.

Gromyko Quotes Twain In Attack On United States

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 26 (AP) —Russia's Andrei Gromyko has become a Mark Twain fan but is still a severe critic of Twain's homeland.

Gromyko's target for today was the Dutch-Indonesian truce arranged by an American-Australian-Belgian committee of the United Nations Security Council aboard the U. S. S. Renville off Java.

In council debate he singled out the United States for a major attack contending this country is pro-Dutch, anti-Indonesian.

Then he said "the great American writer and satirist, Mark Twain," had written a line that could describe the truce committee's efforts:

"It laid a standard egg and cackled as if it had been a planet."

Lie Calls On U.N. To Act And Avert Holy Land Chaos

Prestige At Stake, Secretary Asserts

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 26 (AP) — Trygve Lie said today that chaos will envelope Palestine unless the United Nations acts quickly.

The United Nations Secretary-General told his weekly news conference that a United Nations failure to carry out the Holy Land partition plan would reduce the prestige of the United Nations.

He emphasized that the United Nations would be responsible only after the British leave Palestine.

The British meanwhile repeated their determination to end the Palestine mandate by May 15 and take all British soldiers out of Palestine by August 1.

A Colombian delegate told a reporter during the day that "Palestine partition looks like a corpse to me." Colombia, which abstrained on the 1947 United Nations Assembly vote for partition, has raised the possibility of a special Assembly session to reconsider the partition decision.

Russia Keeps Hand Concealed

As Lie spoke Soviet Russia was carefully concealing her hand on this hottest question now facing the United Nations.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, refused to say whether he would make a statement on the issue of a United Nations Palestine police force to the Security Council tomorrow at 3 p. m. (EST). Some delegates said they believed he is ready to speak, however.

Late today no speakers had been listed for tomorrow but it was expected that Lebanon would make a declaration against partition.

In other United Nations developments today:

1. Gromyko accused the United States in the Security Council of trying to enslave the Indonesian Republic. The council adjourned the Dutch-Indonesian case until Saturday morning without acting on a Canadian resolution to approve the work of the council's good offices committee. This committee brought about a truce in Indonesia.

Korean Election Plans Approved

2. The Little Assembly voted 31 to 2 to advise the United Nations Korean Commission to go ahead with elections wherever possible in Korea. The commission has been barred from the Russian zone in Northern Korea. Canada and Australia voted against the majority on the grounds that the Little Assembly lacked authority. Canada was considering withdrawing from the nine-nation Korean Commission.

3. The Security Council in the afternoon heard Pakistan announce refusal to recognize the recent plebiscite by which India claimed the formerly Moslem-ruled state of Junagadh, calling it a "farce." India said she was willing to have a plebiscite under suitable auspices but did not believe the result would be different.

Czech Leader May Announce Decision Today

Dr. Vladimir Krajina, War Hero, Arrested

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 26 (AP)—Information from a source of proved reliability said tonight President Eduard Benes was considering resigning from the helm of this Communist-ruled republic which he helped found in 1918.

The information, although from a reliable source who is anti-Communist, was not confirmed.

The source said if Benes resigned he would be succeeded as chief of state by Zdenek Fierlinger, pro-Communist leader of the Social Democratic Party.

The President was expected to make his definite decision known at 11 a. m. tomorrow when he is to receive the new Communist-loaded Cabinet which he approved yesterday after what was reported to have been a stormy session with Communist Premier Klement Gottwald.

Workers at Prague headquarters of the National Socialist Party said Dr. Vladimir Krajina, former general secretary of the party, was arrested today. Krajina, a botanist, was one of Czechoslovakia's greatest underground heroes during the war.

University Professors Fired

The workers said Krajina returned to headquarters to get some papers and was taken from the building by police.

The government radio said tonight that 30 "reactionary professors" had been fired from 600-year-old Charles University in Prague. It added that a committee soon would interview Dr. Karel Inglis, named university chancellor two months ago.

Benes, an old-time revolutionary in the days of the Hapsburg monarchy and a respected leader of the republic from the earliest days of its inception, was pictured tonight as being in council with only his oldest friends and advisors.

He had not yet spoken to his people in the broadcast promised yesterday. Of late years he has been almost a recluse, and tonight he appeared almost cut off from the people.

The informant said, however, he had approved Gottwald's new government only after Gottwald threatened to take over the power if the President withheld his consent.

A close friend of Benes said he had given his approval in order to avoid bloodshed.

Gottwald, in making the announcement of Benes approval yesterday, acknowledged the President had gone against his own desires.

Fierlinger was ousted from leadership of the Social Democratic Party last November when he insisted upon continuing an alliance with the Communists.

Reorganization Begins

He returned to leadership of the party Tuesday, and gave Gottwald the support he needed to put over his new government.

During the First World War Benes was general secretary of the Czechoslovak council in Paris which became the basis of the first Czechoslovak government. He was one of the closest collaborators of Thomas G. Masaryk, the republic's first president. He has been For-

British Cruiser Honduras-Bound

LONDON, Feb. 26—(AP)—The British cruiser Sheffield steamed through the Caribbean tonight with orders to block any attempt by "irresponsible elements" from Guatemala to cause trouble in British Honduras.

A Foreign Office spokesman said there are many opportunities for incidents along the 200-mile frontier dividing Guatemala from Britain's small Central American colony. He added that the 9,100-ton Sheffield was being sent to Belize, capital of British Honduras, to prevent trouble.

This marked the second time in the last 10 days that Britain has dispatched a cruiser to a trouble spot in the Western Hemisphere. In the South Atlantic, 6,500 miles south of the Caribbean, the British cruiser Nigeria tonight reached Port Stanley in the Falkland Islands. She sailed from Simons Town, South Africa, February 16.

Argentina and Chile have staked out claims in the Falkland Island dependencies which include territory in the Antarctic.

Recent events in the South Atlantic and Antarctic intensified a newspaper campaign in Guatemala for British Honduras, the foreign Office spokesman said. The Guatemalan press has launched a "virulent campaign" against Britain, the spokesman said.

Guatemala Ready To Mediate

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, Feb. 26. (AP)—Foreign Minister Enrique Munoz Meany said tonight Guatemala was ready to mediate with Britain her claim for possession of Belize (British Honduras).

Munoz said British action in ordering a cruiser into "Guatemalan territorial waters" had fanned Guatemalan patriotism and united the Americas behind Guatemala in its claim for the Central American country.

Skipper Says Reds Trying To "Grab" Liner America

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (INS)—Commodore Harry Manning, captain of the luxury liner America, queen of the United States Merchant Marine, charged tonight that Communist "commissars" are trying to take over his ship just as the Communists seized Czechoslovakia.

Manning, hero of many epic ocean rescues during a lifetime spent on the high seas, levelled his charges in demanding that full light be thrown on a union dispute involving the America's crew.

The giant liner docked in New York today from England with 773 passengers and the union battle leaped at once to the forefront.

Union spokesmen said the dispute involved the dismissal of two stewards, members of the CIO National Maritime Union, but Commodore Manning angrily declared that "the real issue is who is running my ship."

Manning said the issue was such a serious one he believed the Federal Bureau of Investigation should look carefully into the entire subject of Communist infiltration of the American Marchant Marine.

"It's times something was done about these Communists," the veteran ocean liner skipper declared. "It's a sad fact that the commissar seems to have more power on my vessel than I have and I am sick of it."

Demanding a "showdown," Manning said that "we are always being plagued by Communist agitators and the sooner the public is aware of it the happier all of us will be."

The tug-of-war over "mastery" of the America between Commodore Manning and the union threatens to delay the United States Lines's ship's next scheduled sailing on Wednesday.

Committee Vote On Lynch Bill Blocked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Southern Democrats launched a move today to bar Harry S. Truman's name from state ballots in the traditionally solid South.

And the Republican Party was urged by Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) to put up a presidential candidate "acceptable" to southerners so as to destroy the Democrats' 80-year-old supremacy below the Mason-Dixon line.

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath denounced Hoffman's proposal as "dishonest and contemptible."

"Whatever our differences of opinion," McGrath said in a statement, "members of the Democratic Party from all sections of the country seek to solve our problems upon a basis of honest conviction and moral principle."

McGrath said he could not see "a strong and healthy South selling itself" to the party which once "ravaged it" during a period of "repression, corruption and abuses" after 1865.

Anti-Lynch Bill Blocked

These developments came as Dixie Democrats, up in arms against President Truman's civil rights program, blocked at least until next week one of the President's proposals—a bill to make lynching a federal offense.

The anti-Truman drive was touched off in Virginia, where Gov. Tuck asked the Legislature for a law which would keep the names of presidential candidates off the ballot next November.

Thus the state's 11 electoral votes could be cast for Mr. Truman, if he is the Democratic candidate for President, or for someone else—whichever Virginia's Democratic leaders decided.

The Virginia Governor also asked a law which would bar third party candidates—this would include Henry A. Wallace—from the Old Dominion ballot.

Tuck openly raised the possibility that "other southern states" might follow the course he outlined.

Hoffman Proposes "Deal"

Hoffman, speaking in the House, proposed a "deal" between Republicans and "rebel" southern Democrats.

He suggested that both sides "get together in some kind of conference, agree on someone agreeable to both, and elect him."

By "someone agreeable," Hoffman told reporters later, he meant a presidential candidate opposed to "legislation which interferes with state rights as to anti-lynch and anti-poll tax proposals."

Those favoring such laws, the Michigander declared, "are trying to bring back carpetbag days."

Hoffman's proposal found no immediate takers. Many leading Republicans are backing Mr. Truman's civil rights program. And the southern "revolt" has not reached

PRISON TOUR—Jimmy Melton (right), 12-year-old convicted slayer, made a tour of the Colorado Penitentiary yesterday with Warden Roy Best (left) and Best's dogs. Although young Melton was sentenced on a second degree murder charge for shooting his sister, the warden said he would keep the boy in his home rather than place him in a cell inside the prison walls.

Gromyko Quotes Twain In Attack On United States

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 26 (AP)—Russia's Andrei Gromyko has become a Mark Twain fan but is still a severe critic of Twain's homeland.

Gromyko's target for today was the Dutch-Indonesian truce arranged by an American-Australian-Belgian committee of the United Nations Security Council aboard the U. S. S. Renville off Java.

In council debate he singled out the United States for a major attack contending this country is pro-Dutch, anti-Indonesian.

Then he said "the great American writer and satirist, Mark Twain," had written a line that could describe the truce committee's efforts:

"It laid a standard egg and cackled as if it had been a planet."

Lie Calls On U.N. To Act And Avert Holy Land Chaos

Prestige At Stake, Secretary Asserts

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 26 (AP) — Trygve Lie said today that chaos will envelope Palestine unless the United Nations acts quickly.

The United Nations Secretary-General told his weekly news conference that a United Nations failure to carry out the Holy Land partition plan would reduce the prestige of the United Nations.

He emphasized that the United Nations would be responsible only after the British leave Palestine.

The British meanwhile repeated their determination to end the Palestine mandate by May 15 and take all British soldiers out of Palestine by August 1.

A Colombian delegate told a reporter during the day that "Palestine partition looks like a corpse to me." Colombia, which abstrained on the 1947 United Nations Assembly vote for partition, has raised the possibility of a special Assembly session to reconsider the partition decision.

Russia Keeps Hand Concealed

As Lie spoke Soviet Russia was carefully concealing her hand on this hottest question now facing the United Nations.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, refused to say whether he would make a statement on the issue of a United Nations Palestine police force to the Security Council tomorrow at 3 p. m. (EST). Some delegates said they believed he is ready to speak, however.

Late today no speakers had been listed for tomorrow but it was expected that Lebanon would make a declaration against partition.

In other United Nations developments today:

1. Gromyko accused the United States in the Security Council of trying to enslave the Indonesian Republic. The council adjourned the Dutch-Indonesian case until Saturday morning without acting on a Canadian resolution to approve the work of the council's good offices committee. This committee brought about a truce in Indonesia.

Korean Election Plans Approved

2. The Little Assembly voted 31 to 2 to advise the United Nations Korean Commission to go ahead with elections wherever possible in Korea. The commission has been barred from the Russian zone in Northern Korea. Canada and Australia voted against the majority on the grounds that the Little Assembly lacked authority. Canada was considering withdrawing from the nine-nation Korean Commission.

3. The Security Council in the afternoon heard Pakistan announce refusal to recognize the recent plebiscite by which India claimed the formerly Moslem-ruled state of Junagadh, calling it a "farce." India said she was willing to have a plebiscite under suitable auspices but did not believe the result would be different.

Czech Leader May Announce Decision Today

Dr. Vladimir Krajina, War Hero, Arrested

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 26 (AP)—Information from a source of proved reliability said tonight President Eduard Benes was considering resigning from the helm of this Communist-ruled republic which he helped found in 1918.

The information, although from a reliable source who is anti-Communist, was not confirmed.

The source said if Benes resigned he would be succeeded as chief of state by Zdenek Fierlinger, pro-Communist leader of the Social Democratic Party.

The President was expected to make his definite decision known at 11 a. m. tomorrow when he is to receive the new Communist-loaded Cabinet which he approved yesterday after what was reported to have been a stormy session with Communist Premier Klement Gottwald.

Workers at Prague headquarters of the National Socialist Party said Dr. Vladimir Krajina, former general secretary of the party, was arrested today. Krajina, a botanist, was one of Czechoslovakia's greatest underground heroes during the war.

University Professors Fired

The workers said Krajina returned to headquarters to get some papers and was taken from the building by police.

The government radio said tonight that 30 "reactionary professors" had been fired from 600-year-old Charles University in Prague. It added that a committee soon would interview Dr. Karel Inglis, named university chancellor two months ago.

Benes, an old-time revolutionary in the days of the Hapsburg monarchy and a respected leader of the republic from the earliest days of its inception, was pictured tonight as being in council with only his oldest friends and advisors.

He had not yet spoken to his people in the broadcast promised yesterday. Of late years he has been almost a recluse, and tonight he appeared almost cut off from the people.

The informant said, however, he had approved Gottwald's new government only after Gottwald threatened to take over the power if the President withheld his consent.

A close friend of Benes said he had given his approval in order to avoid bloodshed.

Gottwald, in making the announcement of Benes approval yesterday, acknowledged the President had gone against his own desires.

Fierlinger was ousted from leadership of the Social Democratic Party last November when he insisted upon continuing an alliance with the Communists.

Reorganization Begins

He returned to leadership of the party Tuesday, and gave Gottwald the support he needed to put over his new government.

During the First World War Benes was general secretary of the Czechoslovak council in Paris which became the basis of the first Czechoslovak government. He was one of the closest collaborators of Thomas G. Masaryk, the republic's first president. He has been For-

U. S. Carrier, Two Destroyers Will Visit Middle East

Movement Termed "Good Will" Trip

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (INS) — The 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Valley Forge and two destroyers were dispatched to Persian Gulf ports and the Suez Canal today in what was interpreted to be a United States "show of force" in the troubled Middle East.

Sailing orders for the three war vessels were announced by the Navy Department in Washington, which termed the movement a "good will" trip to "stimulate" enlistments.

The three ships will leave their present station at Tsingtao, China, on March 1. The ports to be visited in the Persian Gulf and the Suez Canal area were not made public, but the Navy announced that no ports in the Mediterranean would be visited.

The Navy said that 2,500 officers and men—approximately the normal complement—will sail on the three vessels.

Navy officials refused to link the trip with reports that the United States will supply sailors and marines instead of soldiers to the United Nations if this government decides to participate in any enforcement of the Palestine partition plan.

It was noted that if the Navy had decided to bring the ships from China to their home port of San Diego they could have done it by a more direct route than a trip around the world.

Adm. Martin In Command

The Valley Forge is commanded by Capt. W. R. Ruble. Accompanying the Valley Forge will be the destroyers Lawe and Lloyd Thomas, commanded by Commanders G. R. Lee and J. E. Cone, respectively.

Rear Adm. H. M. Martin will be in overall command of the operation.

The Navy emphasized that permission to stop at the various ports has been given by the various nations and will be "no surprise" to those nations.

In addition to Middle Eastern ports the ships will also visit Singapore, Ceylon, Gibraltar and Trinidad before making the passage of the Panama Canal for San Diego.

CONGRESS REJECTS BID TO HELP PROSECUTE CIO

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Congress has turned down a Justice Department invitation to help prosecute the CIO on charges of illegal political spending under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The invitation was made in a letter to the Senate-House Labor Study Committee. This "watchdog" group was created by the Taft-Hartley Act to study the operation of the Labor laws.

Sen. Ball (R-Minn), committee chairman, replied:

"We are agreed we should not participate." He explained that the committe has a policy of not injecting itself or interfering in any specific case or controversy.

The letters were made public today by the Justice Department and the committee.

The CIO case is the first court test of whether the Taft-Hartley Act violates the Constitution by forbidding unions and corporations to make expenditures in connection with federal elections.

The CIO and President Philip Murray were indicted February 11 under this provision of the law.

Strike Outbreak In France Feared

PARIS, Feb. 26 (AP)—A new battle over the barricades at Marseille raised fears today that the Communist victory in Czechoslovakia will be followed by a second round of strike troubles for France.

Press reports from Marseille said 2,000 strikers at the big Mediterranean port city blocked approaches to a sugar refinery there yesterday and fought with troops who cleared them away.

Strikes and disturbances at Marseille set off the string of troubles last November and December which almost developed into a general walkout through the nation.

Moderate labor circles eyed the calendar anxiously. They speculated on the charges which have been made by right-wing leaders that Communists are planning a spring offensive to start March 1 in France and Italy and reach a peak about April 15.

Socialists in the Belgian government recently declared Communists were trying to bring that country into the strike operation.

The events in Czechoslovakia pointed up the possibility of an international drive. The Communist Daily Worker in London openly mentioned the possibility that France and Italy would be the next Communist objectives.

The Daily Worker said the "hysteria" of the London press over Czechoslovak events was "a measure of the uncertainty in ruling circles of the future of the capitalist system." It said these circles "realize they face the same challenge in Italy and France."

USSR Asks Voice For Its Satellites In German Talks

Notes Dispatched To Western Powers

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 27 (AP)—Russia has urged the three western powers to allow Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia to take part in planning Germany's future, the Moscow radio said today.

The broadcast said the Soviet Union had sent notes to that effect to the governments of the United States, Great Britain and France.

It was heard here only a few hours after diplomats said last night the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia might speed the work of the three western powers in gearing Western Germany's economy to the Marshall plan.

Says Merger War Threat

The radio quoted the notes as saying Russia concurred with Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia, who jointly declared recently at Prague that any merging of the three western zones of Germany carried the threat of another war. The declaration said such a merger violated the Potsdam and Yalta decisions.

"The Soviet government," the broadcast quoted the notes as saying, "has informed the governments of Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia it shares the attitude expounded in the x x x declaration and considers that satisfaction should be given to the request of the governments of the above-mentioned states for consultation between the occupying powers in Germany and the governments of other United Nations on the German question in accordance with the declaration of governments of the U.S.S.R., Britain, the U.S.A. and France of June 5, 1945 (Potsdam).

Benelux Nations Take Part

"At the same time, one cannot but recognize that Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia are among those powers which are particularly interested in a solution of the German question in accordance with the interests of peace and the security of the peoples."

Prior to the Prague meeting of the three Eastern European states, Russia had protested the current London meeting is in violation of the Potsdam pact and four-power control of Germany.

In yesterday's confidential talks here among the major Western powers, a joint delegation from the Benelux Customs Union countries—Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—participated for the first time.

Beaten Girl Found In Fraternity House

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 26 (AP) — A 20-year-old girl was found in a Washburn University fraternity house today, badly beaten and clad only in a slip.

She was unable to explain her injuries or how she got to the Kappa Sigma house, officers said.

The girl, Virginia Schwemmer, a waitress, was hospitalized for severe shock and deep scalp wounds.

Police said they believed she was the victim of an attack on a residential street several blocks from the campus.

Warden To Raise Youthful Slayer "Like Own Kid"

CANON CITY, Colo., Feb. 26 (AP)—Rough, tough Warden Roy Best said today he was going to raise Jimmy Melton, 12-year-old convicted killer, "like my own kid."

"I can't put that kid behind bars to be with the toughest thugs and bums in the state," Best declared. "I'm going to take him into my home, let him go to school."

Jimmy, who wears glasses and has a mild appearance, pleaded guilty yesterday at Las Animas to second degree murder in the killing of his sister. Phyllis Marie Melton, 16, died, five bullets in her body, last December 15 as she wrapped Christmas presents.

The boy, sentenced to serve not less than 12 years to life imprisonment, was brought to the state penitentiary here yesterday.

OCULISTS ACCUSED OF GETTING GLASSES REBATES TO BE NAMED

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. (AP)—The government got the go-ahead today to obtain the names of the 5,000 oculists it alleges received rebates on glasses sold to patients.

The order was issued by Federal Judge Walter J. La Buy, hearing an anti-trust suit against two large companies supplying glasses.

He directed Bausch and Lomb of Rochester, N. Y., to turn over to the government within 45 days the names of 1,500 oculists. He also ordered four Bausch and Lomb subsidiaries to submit a list of any physicians who have received more than $500 in alleged rebates.

Subsidiaries involved are Riggs Optical Company Inc., San Francisco; Riggs Optical Company, Consolidated, Chicago; Southeastern Optical Company, Richmond, Va., and McIntyre, Magee and Brown Company, Philadelphia. They were given 60 days to produce the names.

The government already has listed 2,700 medical doctors as obtaining rebates.

Printers Stay Home

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26 (AP) — Twenty-eight major Philadelphia printing firms were closed today as 900 union workers stayed home. A union leader denied the stop-work action was a strike.

British Cruiser Honduras-Bound

LONDON, Feb. 26—(AP)—The British cruiser Sheffield steamed through the Caribbean tonight with orders to block any attempt by "irresponsible elements" from Guatemala to cause trouble in British Honduras.

A Foreign Office spokesman said there are many opportunities for incidents along the 200-mile frontier dividing Guatemala from Britain's small Central American colony. He added that the 9,100-ton Sheffield was being sent to Belize, capital of British Honduras, to prevent trouble.

This marked the second time in the last 10 days that Britain has dispatched a cruiser to a trouble spot in the Western Hemisphere. In the South Atlantic, 6,500 miles south of the Caribbean, the British cruiser Nigeria tonight reached Port Stanley in the Falkland Islands. She sailed from Simons Town, South Africa, February 16.

Argentina and Chile have staked out claims in the Falkland Island dependencies which include territory in the Antarctic.

Recent events in the South Atlantic and Antarctic intensified a newspaper campaign in Guatemala for British Honduras, the foreign Office spokesman said. The Guatemalan press has launched a "virulent campaign" against Britain, the spokesman said.

Guatemala Ready To Mediate

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, Feb. 26. (AP)—Foreign Minister Enrique Munoz Meany said tonight Guatemala was ready to mediate with Britain her claim for possession of Belize (British Honduras).

Munoz said British action in ordering a cruiser into "Guatemalan territorial waters" had fanned Guatemalan patriotism and united the Americas behind Guatemala in its claim for the Central American country.

Jury Told Meyers Got "Kickbacks"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Bleriot H. Lamarre testified today that the bulk of the fat wartime salaries he and another official received from an aviation parts concern actually went to Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers.

Lamarre, self-styled "dummy" president of the Aviation Electric Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, told a federal court jury that Meyers was "the boss" and got most of the profits.

Meyers is being tried on a charge that he induced Lamarre to lie to a Senate committee last year during an inquiry into Meyers' private dealings during the war.

All told, Lamarre said, Meyers received approximately $150,000 from Aviation Electric. Most of this, he testified, was in salary "kickbacks" to Meyers from himself and Thomas E. Readnower. Lamarre and Readnower, former vice president of the firm, are brothers-in-law.

The payments to Meyers, Lamarre said, were in addition to repayment of $34,000 which Meyers had lent the company.

Most of the payments to Meyers were by cashier's checks, Lamarre said.

"He told me that cashier's checks would not appear on the books of the company," he added.

Lamarre said that Readnower was continued on the company's books at a salary of $1,250 a month after he was inducted into the Army. He was allowed to keep only $100 of this, Lamarre testified.

Mukden Ring Tightens

NANKING, Feb. 26 (AP)—Chinese Communists tightened their ring around Mukden in savage fighting today, leading to predictions that the great Manchurian city soon would face frontal assault.

Officers, Despite Wounds, Denied Disability Benefits

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—An Army lieutenant and three captains testified today that, despite crippling war wounds, they haven't been able to get disability retirements.

They told their stories to a House Armed Services Subcommittee which is looking into Army and Navy retirement procedures. The inquiry was touched off by reports that high-ranking officers got disability retirement pay even though able to earn a good living in post-war civilian life.

The stories, as related by the young officers today:

First Lt. Thomas L. Frazer, Adrian, Ga.—

He flew 15 combat missions in the Pacific with a broken neck which had been diagnosed as a muscle strain. After he made repeated complaints, medical officers corrected the earlier diagnosis and grounded him.

Frazer said he was injured when he crashed in flames in the China Sea. During subsequent flights, he related, he flew strapped to his seat with a board strapped to his back, until one arm became paralyzed.

Capt. Carlos Ogden, San Jose, Calif., a winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor—

He has been trying for more than a year to get the Army to decide finally on his case for disability retirement. He said he was wounded three times in action in Europe and when discharged last April his right hand was still in a cast.

Capt. Frederick J. Bready, North Wilbraham, Mass.—

Skipper Says Reds Trying To "Grab" Liner America

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (INS)—Commodore Harry Manning, captain of the luxury liner America, queen of the United States Merchant Marine, charged tonight that Communist "commissars" are trying to take over his ship just as the Communists seized Czechoslovakia.

Manning, hero of many epic ocean rescues during a lifetime spent on the high seas, levelled his charges in demanding that full light be thrown on a union dispute involving the America's crew.

The giant liner docked in New York today from England with 773 passengers and the union battle leaped at once to the forefront.

Union spokesmen said the dispute involved the dismissal of two stewards, members of the CIO National Maritime Union, but Commodore Manning angrily declared that "the real issue is who is running my ship."

Manning said the issue was such a serious one he believed the Federal Bureau of Investigation should look carefully into the entire subject of Communist infiltration of the American Marchant Marine.

"It's times something was done about these Communists," the veteran ocean liner skipper declared. "It's a sad fact that the commissar seems to have more power on my vessel than I have and I am sick of it."

Demanding a "showdown," Manning said that "we are always being plagued by Communist agitators and the sooner the public is aware of it the happier all of us will be."

The tug-of-war over "mastery" of the America between Commodore Manning and the union threatens to delay the United States Lines's ship's next scheduled sailing on Wednesday.

Attack By Lewis Delighted Garner

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Former Vice President John N. Garner, it turns out, was secretly delighted when John L. Lewis called him a "labor-baiting, poker-playing, whisky-drinking evil old man."

Bascom N. Timmons, Washington correspondent, disclosed Garner's reaction today in a Collier's magazine article. Timmons has written a series of stories on the Texan's relations with the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and other national figures.

Timmons said Garner merely chuckled when reporters told him of Lewis' attack. He quoted the vice president as saying later:

"There has never been anything that caused me more happiness than Lewis' outburst. I think the majority of the people will feel that anyone Lewis can't control is all right."

The coal mine chief's criticism of Garner was delivered in 1939 when the Texan was shown by political polls to be a leading possibility for the presidential nomination in 1940.

Garner said, the article continued, that President Roosevelt "quit inviting me for luncheons at his desk after the polls began showing me high in the list of his possible successors."

"I'm not responsible for the polls," he said, "but they've stopped my luncheon invitations."

USSR Charge U. S. Refused To Help Czechs Is Denied

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall labelled obviously untrue today Russian charges that the United States deliberately refused to help liberate Czechoslovakia from the Nazis.

He was asked at the news conference whether he could say why American troops in the final months of the war halted their forward drive within 50 miles of Prague.

The questioner said the Russian radio is telling the Czechs the Americans stopped because they wanted Czechoslovak people to be killed. Marshall replied that of course the reporter knew that was not true. As to the actual reasons why the drive stopped, we said, he would have to check over the records to refresh his memory. Marshall was Army chief-of-staff during the war.

Two Arabs Are Killed In Fierce Mortar Battle

JERUSALEM, Feb. 26 (AP)—Two Arabs were killed and 17 Arabs and Jews were wounded today in a fierce mortar battle near the ancient Garden of Gethsemane outside Jerusalem.

After the engagement Arabs threatened Vengeance against Madassah Hospital and the Hebrew University.

An Arab spokesman claimed Jewish fighters on the roofs of the American-financed hospital and university fired mortars and machine guns at Arab houses in Wadi Joz. But British police said the Arabs had attacked the hospital on Mount Scopus first and were driven back by the Jews.

The Arabs were reported to have penetrated a Jewish cemetery on the Mount of Olives and fired from behind tombstones.

Missing Mother Returns Home; Had Been Visiting

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Feb. 26 (AP) — A mother of seven, missing since Tuesday with $1,300 in her purse, returned home today and her husband said "everything is all right."

She said she had been visiting friends in Greenbrier County, W. Va.

Mrs. Nora May Mullins, 38, left home to attend a movie. In her purse she carried receipts from her husbands garage.

The car was found abandoned, its ignition wires ripped loose.

The husband, Ortha Mullins, notified police and a statewide search was launched.

Today Mrs. Mullins came home at noon. She said she left a note in the car, explaining her plans, but said the note must have blown away.

Bready was injured in the back, he related, in a plane accident over Sicily in October, 1943. He said he returned to duty several times but each time had to resume treatment of his weak back.

Five Army retirement boards have recommended a "permanently disabled" retirement in his case but in each instance the Surgeon General's office has overruled them, Bready said.

Capt. Thaddeus S. Moore, Highland Park, Mich.—

After being wounded in artillery fire in France in July of 1944, Moore said, there followed more than three years of treatment in hospitals — and assignment last month to duty in Japan. Moore said he still can not use his right hand.

Cheltenham School Superintendent Ousted

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26 (AP)—Calvin L. Kiah, a former Cambridge High School official, was removed as superintendent of the Cheltenham School for Boys today by the institution's Board of Managers.

The removal was voted unanimously at a board meeting Tuesday after it received a report from a special committee named to advise on his retention as superintendent on a permanent basis.

Kiah, a war veteran, was appointed head of the Prince Georges County school under the merit system, subjected to a six-month probationary period.

In a letter to Kiah, Board Chairman Thomas B. Sprague said:

"The cause for your rejection as superintendent x x is that, in the considered judgment of the board x x you have failed to demonstrate during your probationary period that you possess the requisite administrative ability, judgment, temperament and leadership to justify your appointment and retention as superintendent on a permanent basis."

Heat Is Put On Calif. "Bookies"

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26 (AP)—The law put the heat on bookmakers in Northern California today—and put it where it hurt.

Authorities struck at the leased wires used by Pioneer News Company of San Francisco, pooling agent for national track results distributed by Continental Racing News Service of Cleveland, Ohio.

District Attorney Edmund G. Brown, of San Francisco asked the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and Western Union to discontinue their sending facilities at Pioneer's penthouse headquarters in the San Francisco financial district.

Both utilities acted promptly to comply. Telephone workers moved in on Pioneer's Montgomery Street offices even before the state public utilities commission had concluded a two-day hearing which prompted the crack-down. Western Unions said it would cut off Pioneer's outgoing lines to customers in Northern California.

Warren Olney III, attorney for Governor Warren's commission on organized crime, termed the action a death blow to bookmaking "as an organized large-scale racket in Northern California." His group instigated the hearings to determine whether the public utilities commission could do anything to curtail bookmaking.

J. B. Norcross, Western Union executive, said Pioneer News would continue to receive Continental Wire Service. Brown's letter did not refer to Continental, which, by Norcross' testimony yesterday, has a number of "drops" in Los Angeles, San Diego, Arrowhead, Bakersfield and Central California points. Most of these subscribers cancelled their service "temporarily" as the present investigation began.

the point where Republican candidates are being considered.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) endorsed Gov. Tuck's action "without reservation" in a Senate speech, saying it "may well become historic."

Wallace Manager Raps Action

Wallace's campaign manager, C. B. Baldwin, said in New York:

"We are firmly opposed to attempts to restrict the voters' choice of candidates as we are to the racial bigotry which impels Gov. Tuck's proposals."

Tuck made his recommendation after conferring with governors of and Arkansas who tried and failed North and South Carolina, Texas earlier this week to have the national Democratic Party reverse its stand on civil rights.

The governors and a number of senators who met with them said "free" state slates, such as Tuck proposed, were being considered along with efforts to prevent Mr. Truman's nomination.

Southerners in Congress delayed a House Judiciary Committee vote on the anti-lynch measure by invoking the rule book. They argued successfully that a committee may not sit while the House is in session. And the House met (11 a. m., EST), before the committee voted.

The Republican-dominated committee is practically sure to approve the bill tomorrow, however, and Chairman Leo Allen (R-Ill), of the Rules Committee, has promised it quick clearance for House debate.

Revolutionary "action committees began reorganizing everything in Czechoslovakia today, from Parliament to the Boy Scouts.

It appeared they soon would transform the little republic, modelled after the United States at its birth after the First World War, into a copy of a new godfather, Soviet Russia.

Communist flags, which look so much like Russia's, flew from all public buildings and many homes as the country observed a two-day holiday ordered by the government to celebrate Communist success in capturing the government yesterday.

Note To Heiress Figures In Suit

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 26 (AP) — Socially prominent Mrs. William Henry Grimditch, Sr., Philadelphia, testified today she found on her New York hotel room door a note to her son's wife from another man.

Mrs. Grimditch, Sr., took the witness stand in Superior Court to support her son's cross-complaint for divorce from Gould Heiress Gioia Barker Grimditch and custody of their two children.

She said that five days after Gioia had left New York she found the note on her door.

Mrs. Grimditch, Sr., testified it read:

"Gioia — Either you stood me up or I forgot date of date. If you can call me tomorrow I'll be at room 2025 New York hospital or Manhassed 3283."

It was signed, she said, "Allen, the — — —, and damn you too."

The mother said she opposed her son's marriage in 1943 "because of divorces in the Gould family," but finally consented because Gioia was "a sweet little thing."

Grimditch, Sr., vice-president of an electronics corporation, told the court he and his wife were "more than willing" to take care of their son's children if the habeas corpus action for their custody proves successful.

Young Grimditch, 24, has charged his 23-year-old wife with intimate relations with several men in his absence overseas during the war. She is seeking divorce on grounds of desertion.

Gioia calmly denied from the witness stand that she had been intimate with any other man.

Three Men Are Killed In Tenn. Plane Crash

SPRINGFIELD, Tenn., Feb. 26 (AP) —Three men were killed when a four-place plane crashed and burned in a field near here today.

The crash victims were tentatively identified by Sheriff Frank James as Leslie W. Coombs, Harry F. Brand and E. A. Eich, all of Chicago.

Sheriff James said the bodies were burned beyond recognition, but tentative identification was established through a check book and other partly burned papers. The bodies were brought to a funeral home here.

Action On Price Supports Is Asked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Price supports for many farm products almost certainly will be discontinued at the end of this year unless Congress says otherwise.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, announcing this tonight, appealed however for early congressional action on future government price support policies.

He said if a letter to Chairman Capper (R-Kans.), of the Senate Agriculture Committee, that the department would be "very reluctant" to continue "Steagall" price supports after December 31 without definite direction from Congress.

"Steagall" commodities get their name from a former member of Congress who sponsored price support legislation.

They include potatoes, sweet potatoes, eggs, hogs, chickens, turkeys, milk and butter fat, dried peas, dried beans, soy beans, flax seed, peanuts produced for oil and American-Egyptian cotton.

No decision has been made yet on ending price supports for wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, rice and peanuts grown for the edible trade. These products are referred to by law as the "basic" commodities.

Prices are supported through government purchase of surpluses or through extension of loans to farmers on surpluses. In either case the surplus, which would bring prices down, is withdrawn from the market.

Attack By Lewis Delighted Garner

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Former Vice President John N. Garner, it turns out, was secretly delighted when John L. Lewis called him a "labor-baiting, poker-playing, whisky-drinking evil old man."

Bascom N. Timmons, Washington correspondent, disclosed Garner's reaction today in a Collier's magazine article. Timmons has written a series of stories on the Texan's relations with the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and other national figures.

Timmons said Garner merely chuckled when reporters told him of Lewis' attack. He quoted the vice president as saying later:

"There has never been anything that caused me more happiness than Lewis' outburst. I think the majority of the people will feel that anyone Lewis can't control is all right."

The coal mine chief's criticism of Garner was delivered in 1939 when the Texan was shown by political polls to be a leading possibility for the presidential nomination in 1940.

Garner said, the article continued, that President Roosevelt "quit inviting me for luncheons at his desk after the polls began showing me high in the list of his possible successors."

"I'm not responsible for the polls," he said, "but they've stopped my luncheon invitations."

USSR Charge U. S. Refused To Help Czechs Is Denied

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall labelled obviously untrue today Russian charges that the United States deliberately refused to help liberate Czechoslovakia from the Nazis.

He was asked at the news conference whether he could say why American troops in the final months of the war halted their forward drive within 50 miles of Prague.

The questioner said the Russian radio is telling the Czechs the Americans stopped because they wanted Czechoslovak people to be killed. Marshall replied that of course the reporter knew that was not true. As to the actual reasons why the drive stopped, we said, he would have to check over the records to refresh his memory. Marshall was Army chief-of-staff during the war.

Two Arabs Are Killed In Fierce Mortar Battle

JERUSALEM, Feb. 26 (AP)—Two Arabs were killed and 17 Arabs and Jews were wounded today in a fierce mortar battle near the ancient Garden of Gethsemane outside Jerusalem.

After the engagement Arabs threatened Vengeance against Madassah Hospital and the Hebrew University.

An Arab spokesman claimed Jewish fighters on the roofs of the American-financed hospital and university fired mortars and machine guns at Arab houses in Wadi Joz. But British police said the Arabs had attacked the hospital on Mount Scopus first and were driven back by the Jews.

The Arabs were reported to have penetrated a Jewish cemetery on the Mount of Olives and fired from behind tombstones.

Missing Mother Returns Home; Had Been Visiting

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Feb. 26 (AP) — A mother of seven, missing since Tuesday with $1,300 in her purse, returned home today and her husband said "everything is all right."

She said she had been visiting friends in Greenbrier County, W. Va.

Mrs. Nora May Mullins, 38, left home to attend a movie. In her purse she carried receipts from her husbands garage.

The car was found abandoned, its ignition wires ripped loose.

The husband, Ortha Mullins, notified police and a statewide search was launched.

Today Mrs. Mullins came home at noon. She said she left a note in the car, explaining her plans, but said the note must have blown away.

Five Army retirement boards have recommended a "permanently disabled" retirement in his case but in each instance the Surgeon General's office has overruled them, Bready said.

Cheltenham School Superintendent Ousted

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26 (AP)—Calvin L. Kiah, a former Cambridge High School official, was removed as superintendent of the Cheltenham School for Boys today by the institution's Board of Managers.

The removal was voted unanimously at a board meeting Tuesday after it received a report from a special committee named to advise on his retention as superintendent on a permanent basis.

Kiah, a war veteran, was appointed head of the Prince Georges County school under the merit system, subjected to a six-month probationary period.

In a letter to Kiah, Board Chairman Thomas B. Sprague said:

"The cause for your rejection as superintendent x x is that, in the considered judgment of the board x x you have failed to demonstrate during your probationary period that you possess the requisite administrative ability, judgment, temperament and leadership to justify your appointment and retention as superintendent on a permanent basis."

Heat Is Put On Calif. "Bookies"

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26 (AP)—The law put the heat on bookmakers in Northern California today—and put it where it hurt.

Authorities struck at the leased wires used by Pioneer News Company of San Francisco, pooling agent for national track results distributed by Continental Racing News Service of Cleveland, Ohio.

District Attorney Edmund G. Brown, of San Francisco asked the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and Western Union to discontinue their sending facilities at Pioneer's penthouse headquarters in the San Francisco financial district.

Both utilities acted promptly to comply. Telephone workers moved in on Pioneer's Montgomery Street offices even before the state public utilities commission had concluded a two-day hearing which prompted the crack-down. Western Unions said it would cut off Pioneer's outgoing lines to customers in Northern California.

Warren Olney III, attorney for Governor Warren's commission on organized crime, termed the action a death blow to bookmaking "as an organized large-scale racket in Northern California." His group instigated the hearings to determine whether the public utilities commission could do anything to curtail bookmaking.

J. B. Norcross, Western Union executive, said Pioneer News would continue to receive Continental Wire Service. Brown's letter did not refer to Continental, which, by Norcross' testimony yesterday, has a number of "drops" in Los Angeles, San Diego, Arrowhead, Bakersfield and Central California points. Most of these subscribers cancelled their service "temporarily" as the present investigation began.

the point where Republican candidates are being considered.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) endorsed Gov. Tuck's action "without reservation" in a Senate speech, saying it "may well become historic."

Wallace Manager Raps Action

Wallace's campaign manager, C. B. Baldwin, said in New York:

"We are firmly opposed to attempts to restrict the voters' choice of candidates as we are to the racial bigotry which impels Gov. Tuck's proposals."

Tuck made his recommendation after conferring with governors of and Arkansas who tried and failed North and South Carolina, Texas earlier this week to have the national Democratic Party reverse its stand on civil rights.

The governors and a number of senators who met with them said "free" state slates, such as Tuck proposed, were being considered along with efforts to prevent Mr. Truman's nomination.

Southerners in Congress delayed a House Judiciary Committee vote on the anti-lynch measure by invoking the rule book. They argued successfully that a committee may not sit while the House is in session. And the House met (11 a. m., EST), before the committee voted.

The Republican-dominated committee is practically sure to approve the bill tomorrow, however, and Chairman Leo Allen (R-Ill), of the Rules Committee, has promised it quick clearance for House debate.

Revolutionary "action committees began reorganizing everything in Czechoslovakia today, from Parliament to the Boy Scouts.

It appeared they soon would transform the little republic, modelled after the United States at its birth after the First World War, into a copy of a new godfather, Soviet Russia.

Communist flags, which look so much like Russia's, flew from all public buildings and many homes as the country observed a two-day holiday ordered by the government to celebrate Communist success in capturing the government yesterday.

Note To Heiress Figures In Suit

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 26 (AP) — Socially prominent Mrs. William Henry Grimditch, Sr., Philadelphia, testified today she found on her New York hotel room door a note to her son's wife from another man.

Mrs. Grimditch, Sr., took the witness stand in Superior Court to support her son's cross-complaint for divorce from Gould Heiress Gioia Barker Grimditch and custody of their two children.

She said that five days after Gioia had left New York she found the note on her door.

Mrs. Grimditch, Sr., testified it read:

"Gioia — Either you stood me up or I forgot date of date. If you can call me tomorrow I'll be at room 2025 New York hospital or Manhassed 3283."

It was signed, she said, "Allen, the — — —, and damn you too."

The mother said she opposed her son's marriage in 1943 "because of divorces in the Gould family," but finally consented because Gioia was "a sweet little thing."

Grimditch, Sr., vice-president of an electronics corporation, told the court he and his wife were "more than willing" to take care of their son's children if the habeas corpus action for their custody proves successful.

Young Grimditch, 24, has charged his 23-year-old wife with intimate relations with several men in his absence overseas during the war. She is seeking divorce on grounds of desertion.

Gioia calmly denied from the witness stand that she had been intimate with any other man.

Three Men Are Killed In Tenn. Plane Crash

SPRINGFIELD, Tenn., Feb. 26 (AP) —Three men were killed when a four-place plane crashed and burned in a field near here today.

The crash victims were tentatively identified by Sheriff Frank James as Leslie W. Coombs, Harry F. Brand and E. A. Eich, all of Chicago.

Sheriff James said the bodies were burned beyond recognition, but tentative identification was established through a check book and other partly burned papers. The bodies were brought to a funeral home here.

Action On Price Supports Is Asked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Price supports for many farm products almost certainly will be discontinued at the end of this year unless Congress says otherwise.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, announcing this tonight, appealed however for early congressional action on future government price support policies.

He said if a letter to Chairman Capper (R-Kans.), of the Senate Agriculture Committee, that the department would be "very reluctant" to continue "Steagall" price supports after December 31 without definite direction from Congress.

"Steagall" commodities get their name from a former member of Congress who sponsored price support legislation.

They include potatoes, sweet potatoes, eggs, hogs, chickens, turkeys, milk and butter fat, dried peas, dried beans, soy beans, flax seed, peanuts produced for oil and American-Egyptian cotton.

No decision has been made yet on ending price supports for wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, rice and peanuts grown for the edible trade. These products are referred to by law as the "basic" commodities.

Prices are supported through government purchase of surpluses or through extension of loans to farmers on surpluses. In either case the surplus, which would bring prices down, is withdrawn from the market.

Czechs See Democracy Die by Familiar Methods

While writers of advertising copy, to be inserted in American magazines, urging tourists to "Come to Czechoslovakia," and see what life is like behind the Iron Curtain, they did not anticipate what would and has happened in a country which has boasted of its immunity from the fate of others behind the Iron Curtain. Czechoslovakia is a victim of the Communist power-grab, adding another to the lengthening list of Soviet puppets.

The subjection of the Czechs followed a familiar pattern. National elections were scheduled for May. Late President Benes and Foreign Minister Masaryk have been confidently predicting gains for the non-Communists. Evidently Communist Premier Gottwald has been expecting the same thing. To insure control of the polls, Communist Interior Minister Nosek packed the police force with Reds. Two weeks ago he named eight Communists to command the police districts in and out of Prague. The coalition cabinet instructed him to withdraw the names. When he refused, twelve ministers, representing three non-Communist parties, resigned in protest.

That was a mistake, as it turned out. Gottwald at once proposed twelve Communist sympathizers for the cabinet. Sensing the danger of a Communist coup, President Benes tried to ward it off in refusing to accept the resignations. Thereupon Gottwald resorted to force. He ordered the security police to arrest opposition leaders, seize their party headquarters, censor the press and radio, stop all travel out of the country and surround government offices.

The coup was under way. It has succeeded, and President Benes has bowed to the demands of the Communists. He accepted a new cabinet submitted by Gottwald, which is composed chiefly of Communists and their supporters on the left. The purge is on.

By an interesting series of coincidences, which preceded the grab of Czechoslovakia, the Communist-led labor federation was in session, Russian deputy foreign minister Zorin "happened" to be in Prague and a plot was "discovered" for an "anti-democratic revolt" in the interest of a "certain foreign power."

The whole spectacle was tragically familiar. That is the way democracies die. The freedom-loving Czechs might have had a chance had they burned their Western bridges, in the supposition—based partly on the fear and partly on naive self-confidence—that they could get along with the Russians.

Senate's Approval Of Budget Cut Is Good Sign

The Senate's approval, by voice vote and without debate, of a cut of $2,500,000,000 in the President's budget, shows good intentions at least. A tax-harassed public will hope that nothing happens to keep this high resolve from being translated into effective action.

No one doubts that the budget can be reduced. It will take determination and, in an election year, some political courage. It will require particularly that Congress brace itself firmly against the onslaughts of the noisy minorities which have pet projects to promote and which claim, falsely in most cases, that they control large blocs of votes.

That there are vulnerable spots in the budget which the President presented is open to no question. Some of the funds asked for the ordinary operations of government can be pared without harm to anyone and with no drop in the quality of public service.

Beyond that—and here lies the greatest opportunity for practicing economy—Mr. Truman's program calls for new ventures in the field of federal paternalism. They may be useful enough in themselves but they will all cost money and sooner or later will lead to more government regulation and regimentation. This is a good time to forget them.

Inasmuch as the Senate's vote does not actually commit anybody to anything but is rather an expression of opinion, no assurance can be given that the budget, as finally adopted, will be reduced to the extent recommended. So it is too early for the people to let go with the applause.

Yet they will hail this sign that Congress means to attack seriously one of the nation's most pressing domestic problems—the high cost of government.

A New Point in the Story by James Farley

His book, "Jim Farley's Story—The Roosevelt Years," is interesting and contains some new points.

One of the significant things was Farley's story of one incident which occurred during the campaign in 1936. He recounts how Franklin D. Roosevelt said that "it would be a good idea to have speeches made by the ministers and ambassadors who are or will be in the country. They could speak effectively in cities where there are a goodly number of inhabitants from the countries they represent abroad. They could bring out forcefully the fact that this country is a peaceful nation and that all the others in North and South America are living in a peaceful manner, while the governments in Europe are crumbling. . . They could say that the people in this country have confidence in Roosevelt as do the people abroad."

Mr. Farley didn't think it such a hot idea at the time. "This employment of envoys to unite various groups of nationals behind the New Deal," he says, "although most effective in both the 1940 and 1944 campaigns was a mistake. For men charged with representing this nation in foreign lands should not run political errands. I said so at the time."

That this confidence in Roosevelt's ability to prevent fighting existed, is evidence of the size of this country's sucker list. We didn't continue to live together in a peaceful manner very long and the man in whom all that confidence was reposed got us into the tragedies of Yalta and Teheran, and landed the world in its most dangerous crisis in a thousand years.

Of course no president should use ministers and ambassadors to influence racial groups in American politics. It is even worse for a president of the United States to chart his course in foreign affairs, not on the basis of the broad national interests, but of votes for himself.

Since the snow melted Kansas wheat crop will be blown out by high winds, say the pessimists. There seems to be no concerted move on the part of farmers to sell their combines, however.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Uses For Blood Cells

Blood is good medicine. Many individuals have been saved by transfusions in the past few decades. A still greater number owe their lives to plasma administered during the war, and stories are still being told of its usefulness on the battlefield. The discovery of this remedy is only the beginning of a new epic in medicine.

Dr. Van Dellen

Plasma is the liquid portion of the blood and in its preparation, the red and white corpuscles are removed. At first the cells were thrown away but this was wasteful and before long Yankee ingenuity found so many ways to utilize the corpuscles that the agent has become almost as valuable as the plasma.

Now that we are at peace, less plasma is needed but cells are more in demand. Furthermore, fewer men and women are donating blood because the war stimulant has passed. The old law of supply and demand is also entering the picture and we must dig into our pockets to pay for these by-products that were once discarded.

An adequate amount of blood can still be obtained from the various banks throughout the country but it cannot be kept indefinitely. Hence that which is not used may be turned over to laboratories to recover its cells. This will have to do for the present because Americans, unlike the Russians, do not care to utilize cadavers.

One of the first uses of this by-product was in the treatment of anemia. These sufferers have plenty of plasma but lack red corpuscles so the cells were mixed with an appropriate solution and administered into veins. The procedure is called "red cell transfusion" and has been employed in several hundred cases with startling results.

The blood elements in question also contain ingredients that are essential to clotting. After they are extracted and incorporated into an absorbable gelatin or foamy substance, a remedy is provided to stop internal bleeding. For example, the material can be placed over an oozing surface especially in bleeders and has proved helpful to the dentist, brain surgeon, and many others.

The corpuscles are also incorporated into a paste and applied to skin ulcers, infected wounds, burns, bedsores, and the like. Many varicose ulcers which did not respond to the usual methods of treatment, healed after the application of this new form of therapy. The salve not only promotes repair but seems to discourage infection. Pain too is decreased because a veneer-like crust forms over the raw surface.

No one knows why the cells act as they do except that they contain nutritional elements and proteins that are ultilized by the tissues. This stimulates the local growth of cells which in turn closes open lesions.

These little fellows are really hoggish. They not only bite but place their heads under the skin and proceed to burrow. Irritation results, more so if the head is pulled off in the process of removing the insect. The area becomes red and itching is intense.

No, as the drug your physician prescribed is generally used to reduce irritation.

Long standing nasal infection.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The story is going around Hollywood that Howard Hughes, Inc. is trying to purchase a controlling interest in R K O.

We'll know about it soon enough. If he's successful he'll probably put a propeller and landing gear on the studio and install a hostess.

I imagine it will be a lot tougher if he gets investigated again this year. . .he'll have to fly the studio to Washington.

Hughes is a genial fellow and it probably won't be as hard for tourists to get into RKO as it is for them to get into other studios . . .that is; of course, provided your name isn't Senator Brewster.

If he buys RKO, I hear that Howard is going to sell his tremendous flying boat to Crosby for a piggy bank.

Naturally, there'll be a great many changes out on the lot with Hughes in charge. All the directors will be called pilots. And when they're shooting a picture, instead of yelling "action. . .camera" they'll just shout "Roger."

Instead of B pictures. . .they'll be making B-29 pictures.

And when they have a preview at the studio, naturally all the critics will be strapped in.

This airplane influence in a movie studio would be nothing new to me. I've had to keep a parachute handy for years. . .Paramount is always threatening to drop me.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION MIGHT BE WORTH A POUND OF CURE

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

As Secretary Of State, George Marshall Lacks Foresight; A Good Secretary Of State Must Solve Problems Before They Reach Boiling Point As Palestine

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Having known and liked George Marshall ever since he was an Army colonel, I don't relish criticizing him in his difficult role of Secretary of State.

However, it seems to me Marshall's greatest fault has been the failure to apply to peace a lesson he must have learned long ago in war—namely that victory goes to the side which takes the offensive.

This axiom is just as true for the diplomat as it is for the soldier. No Secretary of State can be static and be successful. He cannot wait for trouble to edge up on him. He has to go out and meet his diplomatic problems before they become too tough to unravel. In diplomacy as in war, he has to pick the most advantageous battlefield.

This is the chief reason why the Palestinian problem has become so dangerous.

Always difficult, Secretary Marshall has made it more so by a policy of delay. While precious minutes have ticked by, tempers flared and the Palestine problem became more insoluble, George Marshall has done little except complain to his Undersecretary, Bob Lovett, that Lovett got him into an awful mess.

And while the Secretary of State stood almost pathetic in his paralysis, his Cabinet colleagues, James Forrestal, and his own Near Eastern experts were almost openly flaunting the official U. S. policy on Palestine.

The effect on the Arabs of this open opposition was quite simple. It lit bonfires under the Arab hopes—thereby making Marshall's problem all the more difficult.

A Lesson From Kellogg

The last time war upset the peace of the Western Hemisphere was about twenty years ago when Bolivia threatened to invade Paraguay. Frank B. Kellogg was then Secretary of State—not a polished diplomat, but one who believed in heading off trouble before he had to meet it head on.

At the first sign of Paraguayan-Bolivian belligerency, Kellogg summoned the leading Latin-American statesmen to Washington, enlisted the prestige of Charles Evans Hughes and rolled up such a solid public opinion against war that hostilities were stopped. In fact, Kellogg's shirtsleeve diplomacy held off war for two solid years, and the only thing that defeated him was a $20,000,000 munitions loan to the Bolivian Army by the banking firm of the very same James Forrestal who now champions the Arabs.

Another Secretary of State who believed in heading off diplomatic trouble before it got started was Henry L. Stimson. When Russia and China began making faces over the Chinese Eastern Railroad in 1930, Stimson summoned the entire diplomatic corps, wrote strong diplomatic notes, made those notes public, and vigorously mobilized world opinion against war.

The two armies were demobilized.

Again when the Japanese Army staged its famous Manchurian incident in 1931, Stimson saw this isolated skirmish for what it really was—the beginning of the Jap conquest of China.

And for two years, using diplomatic pressure, public opinion and the feeble power of the League of Nations, he kept the Japs at bay. If he had had any kind of support from the isolationist President then in the White House—Herbert Hoover—he might have succeeded.

War Secrets Told

Unfortunately, George Marshall, even when Chief of Staff, did not seem to realize that ability to look ahead is the measure of true statesmanship.

Wartime secrecy obscured many of the vital decisions in which Marshall was involved, but here are two of them.

Early in 1940, Roosevelt was urged to send England and France a quantity of old American rifles, some left over from World War I, some even from the Spanish-American War. The British had dangerously depleted their arsenals and Churchill was frantic. He told Roosevelt the British Army would have to resist with bare hands and bottles.

But while the U. S. Army admitted these old rifles were of no value to us, General Marshall, then Chief of Staff, opposed sending them to France and England. He maintained that Congress wouldn't like it. Roosevelt, however, overruled him. The rifles were shipped.

50,000 Airplanes

One year earlier, the Chief of Staff had shown similar lack of foresight when it came to aviation planning. And at one historic White House session it fell to the lot of a civilian to argue the generals into a big air program.

The civilian was the late Herman Oliphant, then General Counsel of the Treasury Department. The military men present were General Marshall, Gen. Hap Arnold, head of the Air Corps, and Adm. Harold Stark, Chief of Naval Operations.

The meeting was early in 1939. At it Oliphant argued (1) that there was certain to be war in Europe; (2) that when war came the job of the United States would be to give its friends in Western Europe not a handful of planes, but a minimum of 20,000 planes; and (3) the United States must immediately launch a program of $50,000 new airplanes.

General Marshall, however, was opposed. He thought the idea of 50,000 planes was preposterous. So did General Arnold. And the significant thing is that the 1939 Army budget, prepared for 1940 by the General Staff which Marshall headed, provided for only six flying fortresses. This is a matter of record which any Doubting Thomas can check for himself.

In other words, the Chief of Staff simply lacked the ability to look ahead and see what airpower would mean in the impending war.

Roosevelt and Henry Morgenthau, however, overruled the generals and backed up Oliphant. That White House meeting in 1939 was how the 50,000 - airplane program began.

Getting back to diplomacy, there are quite a few moves which a Secretary of State could have made to head off trouble in Palestine—in fact, still can make. Tomorrow this column will discuss some of them.

Excess-Profits Tax Revival Would Wreck Economic System

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — The favorite way of needling American business nowadays is to threaten to revive the excess-profits tax.

If such a move really had any support in Congress—which it decidedly has not—there would be a panic in the markets of the country that would lead directly to a depression.

The reason is that a revival of the excess-profits tax would ruin most businesses today and paralyze the entire economic system. It is one thing to impose an excess-profits tax when there is one customer, like the government, spending billions of dollars a month in wartime with no competition between producers and no problem of raising capital. It's quite another to strangle industry in the post-war period by putting a ceiling on profits from which expansion money and working capital is derived.

Base To Be Used Ignored

Such proposals for a revival of the excess-profits tax as are made usually ignore the question of what base is to be used as "normal." If last year or the year before were used or if wartime years were to be considered the base, some of the larger companies would come out pretty well. Others would suffer. If the old base of 1936-1939 were used, the well-entrenched or well-heeled companies would still pay less percentage of taxes than the companies that were growing up in that period or which operated in the red. This is believed to be the base planned by the radicals.

It is the small— or moderate-sized business, however, which is hurt by an excess-profits-tax law. This happened during World War II. The New Deal certainly wrote an excess-profits law that favored the large companies. Some ambiguously worded clauses were inserted in the law supposedly to give "relief" to smaller companies, but these have largely proved unworkable and the unsettled cases are numerous.

Anyone who talks about reviving the excess-profits tax without studying what happened with the war tax and how the big companies benefitted and the smaller ones were hurt is ignoring the economic facts of life.

If an excess-profits tax were imposed in peacetime, however, there would be a collapse of many important businesses because they could no longer finance the large operations in which they are now engaged. At the very time when more working capital than ever is needed to handle turnover of products required to overcome shortages, the government would be stopping production by impairing capital formation.

The trouble with an excess-profits tax or any ceiling on profits is that it inevitably must lead to a freezing of wages. If profits are squeezed down and wage rates are permitted to rise, the end result is bankruptcy or receiverships and plenty of unemployment.

Worst Enemy of Worker

The worst enemy of the workingman in America is the man who today proposes a revival of the excess-profits tax without at the same time providing for a freeze on wages and prices. In other words, if one segment of the economy is uncontrolled and the other segments are not, a serious maladjustment results. The worker would be the chief victim of such a destructive policy and the advocates of state socialism would cry out for government capital and government ownership so as to pay deficits and maintain employment.

Under the free-enterprise system of private ownership, prices are allowed to find their natural level. It takes time but evolution is essential. Monopolies are prosecuted under the anti-trust laws. Labor monopolies, however, which fix industry-wide prices of labor, are not subject to the anti-trust laws.

It is significant that in many categories prices already are falling. This is because supply is exceeding demand. The real crisis will come when the volume of sales declines and the profits start downward, too. The so-called "break even" point in many businesses is much higher today in respect to volume of business done than at any time in our economic history. The situation will not be cured by limiting profits and demoralizing production.

Fortunately those who talk so loosely about excess profits know full well there isn't a handful of votes in Congress in favor of such a course.

More To Murray's Indictment Than His Press Freedom Talk

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

The President of the CIO, Mr. Philip Murray, asked to be indicted in order to test the Taft-Hartley Law, and the Department of Justice has complied—with apologies.

Considerable editorial comment has been favorable to Mr. Murray's claim to be a champion of freedom of the press. But as I read between the lines, there is more to it than that.

Last July there was a special election to Congress in Baltimore. The CIO favored the Democratic candidate, Ed Garmatz, who was elected. In a statement published in the CIO News, Mr. Murray said that the Taft-Hartley Law purports to make it illegal for members of unions, acting through their officers, "to expend their common funds" in matters relating to election for federal office. (You will note that he did not limit the expenditures to editoral expression in union newspapers).

Mr. Murray's Claims

Mr. Murray said he believed the law was unconstitutional; that it should be repealed; that candidate Garmatz could be expected to vote to repeal it; and he, therefore, urged all members of the CIO in that district not only to vote for Garmatz, themselves, but to "make every effort to induce their neighbors, friends and all person eligible to vote" to do the same.

Thousands of copies of this appeal and reprints thereof (over and above the regular subscription list of the CIO News) were distributed throughout the district. These extra copies cost money. CIO union funds were used to print and distribute them. This cost was a political expenditure—as much so as any campaign dodger, banner or torchlight parade.

If the appeal to vote for Garmatz had been confined to the regular circulation of the CIO News, a narrower question would be presented to the courts. But no one dry behind the ears believes labor union leaders expect to limit the "expenditure of their common funds" to editorials in regular publications reaching only their own members. The appeal, in fact, was to use "every effort" to get "all persons" to vote.

The question is, therefore, not limited to the freedom of the press of a regularly published newspaper. The real question is whether Congress has the constitutional power to limit the amount of money that may be spent in a campaign.

Years ago Congress passed a Corrupt Practices Act, limiting the amount that might be spent in behalf of a Congressional candidate. More recently it passed the Hatch Act, limiting to $3,000,000 the amount that can be spent by a national committee in a Presidential campaign.

Yet it is reported that labor unions are planning to raise several times $3,000,000 to defeat all members of Congress, Democrat or Republican, who voted for the Taft-Hartley Law. They propose to do this, not through the regular committees of establish parties, but on the outside, through union channels and with union funds.

Could Run Afoul Two Laws

If they can legally do this under cover of "freedom of the press," then the Corrupt Practices Act and Hatch Act are words signifying nothing.

If corporations can be legally forbidden (as they are) to contribute or expend corporate funds to elect or defeat candidates for public office, why can't labor unions be forbidden?

As a side issue, one wonders if the labor leaders are not riding to a fall in their effort to secure the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law. The usually accurate Roper Poll, published by Fortune magazine, reveals that only 14% of all voters think the law too strict; that 57% of union members approve the law as written, and only 36% of union members oppose it. The law, in fact, may prove to be a political asset to Mr. Taft if he is the Republican candidate.

These Days

Representation In China

For some reason, not understandable, President Truman, in 1946, appointed an aged missionary, Dr. Leighton Stuart, as the American ambassador to China. He followed a long line of extraordinary competent men, John Van Antwerp MacMurray, Nelson T. Johnson, Clarence E. Gauss. These men knew China, knew its language, its history, its traditions, its personalities. MacMurray was one of the leading scholars of his time in China's international relations, probably second only to Dr. Westel W. Willoughby of John Hopkins.

The China desk in the State Department has usually been in the charge of an outstanding, world-known authority on Far Eastern affairs, one whose reputation went far beyond the confines of the State Department. The last of men of such calibre was Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, who held the post under various titles from 1928 to 1944, but whose influence waned as the New Dealers became more influential in the control of our foreign policy.

In his place appeared a cabal of intriguing young men who served not the national interest but their private opinion. The Far Eastern section of the State Department became a private club of smart boys.

To China were sent General Pat Hurley, General Joe Stillwell, General George Marshall, General Wedemeyer and the ancient missionary, Dr. Leighton Stuart. Pat Hurley, with his sense of practical politics, saw the picture as it is: namely, that the enemy is Soviet Russia and that the Chinese Communists would sooner or later be instructed to hate the United States. He did not elevate Chiang Kai-shek into an angel of pristine purity; he saw him as the inevitable ally of the United States. That was all that could be required.

General Joe Stillwell saw only himself. He wanted to run the show. He was used to running any show he was appointed to run. The fact that China had a government of its own, an army, a general staff; the further fact that the Chinese, in their primitive way, had managed to withstand and to kill Japanese for more years than Stillwell was a general, did not interest "Vinegar" Joe. He told Chiang Kai-shek to hand over his army —which in war meant the entire country—to him. Chiang told him to clear out. China has survived many Stillwells in its 4,000 years of history.

So along came General George Marshall. He brought the light of the ages: Love thine enemy. No one can question the vitality of the adage, except that Chiang Kai-shek had tried it on and off since 1925. Chiang has had a long experience of trying to do business with Russia and its agents, the Chinese Communists. As a matter of fact, China has had a longer experience, since the Treaty of Narchinsk (1689). But George Marshall thought he would try his hand at it.

He stayed in China more than a year and took a violent dislike to Chiang Kai-shek and the Kuomintang. They reminded him of Boss Hague of New Jersey, Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Boss Crump of Memphis, Boss Kelly of Chicago, Harry Hopkins, George Allen, and lots of other American politicians. He apparently preferred the Chinese Communists because he did not know them. So he came away a complete failure. He blamed Chiang Kai-shek for that. Of course, he might have read some history and he might have known that it is ever thus.

General Wedemeyer went over and made a report which is still secret. Many rumors are afloat as to what the report contains, including the absurdity that Manchuria, which Russia is stealing from China, be internationalized. The general impression, however, is that Wedemeyer proposed that we back Chiang Kai-shek with full military support, so that he may more successfully kill Chinese Communists who are agents of the all-conquering Soviet Russia.

And then there is the aged Leighton Stuart who apparently does not know what has happened in Rumania, Hungary, Western Germany, Northern Korea, and Czechoslovakia and who still believes that sweetness and light will triumpt in the sweet by-and-by. So he wants Chiang Kai-shek and Stalin to kiss and make up.

That is the kind of representation we have been having in China.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Messengers Of Hope

If I accomplish nothing else in this life, I shall forever desire through these brief talks, that I may prove worthy as a humble messenger of Hope. Said Emerson, in one of his earliest lectures: "The scholar must be a bringer of hope, and must reinforce man against himself." And again he said: "A man should make life and nature happier to us or he had better have never been born."

Every thought of peace, every desire for the abolishment of fear, every dream toward the brotherhood of man, every effort consecrated to the alleviation of hunger and homelessness in this world, is in reality a messenger of Hope.

Hope is a movement in the mind and in the heart. But it keeps radiating. Unconsciously others gain its aura and are uplifted by it. Sunshine by day, and the inhabited heaven of stars at night, give to Hope much of its substance. In Nature's great open book we note marked passages by the hand of God. And it is all open for our serious and reverent inspection and meditation. It is all perfumed with the scent of Hope! Every bird call, and every smiling flower is a messenger of Hope.

Every inspiring book is a messenger of Hope. I read my New Testament, my Stevenson, my "Road Mender," my Henry Ryecroft, my Marcus Aurelius, my books of poetry, history and biography — and in them all are to be found expressions that amount to silent messengers of Hope. We live in a world distressed by greed, hates, and wars, but every individual act of kindness and generosity, every acted noble impulse, throws its little candle light afar, as a bleam of Hope. Each ray a divine messenger.

We little realize what a messenger of Hope a mere letter can be. Our soldiers, in the recent war, looked upon letters as better than food, at times. Every letter received from my mother, when away at school, and later in a lonely city, meant more than I can express—each a messenger of Hope. Why not a letter to a neglected friend today? It may come as a messenger of Hope to him, or her—like rain that gives life to the sleeping seed, in dry ground!

Czechs See Democracy Die by Familiar Methods

While writers of advertising copy, to be inserted in American magazines, urging tourists to "Come to Czechoslovakia," and see what life is like behind the Iron Curtain, they did not anticipate what would and has happened in a country which has boasted of its immunity from the fate of others behind the Iron Curtain. Czechoslovakia is a victim of the Communist power-grab, adding another to the lengthening list of Soviet puppets.

The subjection of the Czechs followed a familiar pattern. National elections were scheduled for May. Late President Benes and Foreign Minister Masaryk have been confidently predicting gains for the non-Communists. Evidently Communist Premier Gottwald has been expecting the same thing. To insure control of the polls, Communist Interior Minister Nosek packed the police force with Reds. Two weeks ago he named eight Communists to command the police districts in and out of Prague. The coalition cabinet instructed him to withdraw the names. When he refused, twelve ministers, representing three non-Communist parties, resigned in protest.

That was a mistake, as it turned out. Gottwald at once proposed twelve Communist sympathizers for the cabinet. Sensing the danger of a Communist coup, President Benes tried to ward it off in refusing to accept the resignations. Thereupon Gottwald resorted to force. He ordered the security police to arrest opposition leaders, seize their party headquarters, censor the press and radio, stop all travel out of the country and surround government offices.

The coup was under way. It has succeeded, and President Benes has bowed to the demands of the Communists. He accepted a new cabinet submitted by Gottwald, which is composed chiefly of Communists and their supporters on the left. The purge is on.

By an interesting series of coincidences, which preceded the grab of Czechoslovakia, the Communist-led labor federation was in session, Russian deputy foreign minister Zorin "happened" to be in Prague and a plot was "discovered" for an "anti-democratic revolt" in the interest of a "certain foreign power."

The whole spectacle was tragically familiar. That is the way democracies die. The freedom-loving Czechs might have had a chance had they burned their Western bridges, in the supposition—based partly on the fear and partly on naive self-confidence—that they could get along with the Russians.

Senate's Approval Of Budget Cut Is Good Sign

The Senate's approval, by voice vote and without debate, of a cut of $2,500,000,000 in the President's budget, shows good intentions at least. A tax-harassed public will hope that nothing happens to keep this high resolve from being translated into effective action.

No one doubts that the budget can be reduced. It will take determination and, in an election year, some political courage. It will require particularly that Congress brace itself firmly against the onslaughts of the noisy minorities which have pet projects to promote and which claim, falsely in most cases, that they control large blocs of votes.

That there are vulnerable spots in the budget which the President presented is open to no question. Some of the funds asked for the ordinary operations of government can be pared without harm to anyone and with no drop in the quality of public service.

Beyond that—and here lies the greatest opportunity for practicing economy—Mr. Truman's program calls for new ventures in the field of federal paternalism. They may be useful enough in themselves but they will all cost money and sooner or later will lead to more government regulation and regimentation. This is a good time to forget them.

Inasmuch as the Senate's vote does not actually commit anybody to anything but is rather an expression of opinion, no assurance can be given that the budget, as finally adopted, will be reduced to the extent recommended. So it is too early for the people to let go with the applause.

Yet they will hail this sign that Congress means to attack seriously one of the nation's most pressing domestic problems—the high cost of government.

A New Point in the Story by James Farley

His book, "Jim Farley's Story—The Roosevelt Years," is interesting and contains some new points.

One of the significant things was Farley's story of one incident which occurred during the campaign in 1936. He recounts how Franklin D. Roosevelt said that "it would be a good idea to have speeches made by the ministers and ambassadors who are or will be in the country. They could speak effectively in cities where there are a goodly number of inhabitants from the countries they represent abroad. They could bring out forcefully the fact that this country is a peaceful nation and that all the others in North and South America are living in a peaceful manner, while the governments in Europe are crumbling. . . They could say that the people in this country have confidence in Roosevelt as do the people abroad."

Mr. Farley didn't think it such a hot idea at the time. "This employment of envoys to unite various groups of nationals behind the New Deal," he says, "although most effective in both the 1940 and 1944 campaigns was a mistake. For men charged with representing this nation in foreign lands should not run political errands. I said so at the time."

That this confidence in Roosevelt's ability to prevent fighting existed, is evidence of the size of this country's sucker list. We didn't continue to live together in a peaceful manner very long and the man in whom all that confidence was reposed got us into the tragedies of Yalta and Teheran, and landed the world in its most dangerous crisis in a thousand years.

Of course no president should use ministers and ambassadors to influence racial groups in American politics. It is even worse for a president of the United States to chart his course in foreign affairs, not on the basis of the broad national interests, but of votes for himself.

Since the snow melted Kansas wheat crop will be blown out by high winds, say the pessimists. There seems to be no concerted move on the part of farmers to sell their combines, however.

Uses For Blood Cells

Blood is good medicine. Many individuals have been saved by transfusions in the past few decades. A still greater number owe their lives to plasma administered during the war, and stories are still being told of its usefulness on the battlefield. The discovery of this remedy is only the beginning of a new epic in medicine.

Dr. Van Dellen

Plasma is the liquid portion of the blood and in its preparation, the red and white corpuscles are removed. At first the cells were thrown away but this was wasteful and before long Yankee ingenuity found so many ways to utilize the corpuscles that the agent has become almost as valuable as the plasma.

Now that we are at peace, less plasma is needed but cells are more in demand. Furthermore, fewer men and women are donating blood because the war stimulant has passed. The old law of supply and demand is also entering the picture and we must dig into our pockets to pay for these by-products that were once discarded.

An adequate amount of blood can still be obtained from the various banks throughout the country but it cannot be kept indefinitely. Hence that which is not used may be turned over to laboratories to recover its cells. This will have to do for the present because Americans, unlike the Russians, do not care to utilize cadavers.

One of the first uses of this by-product was in the treatment of anemia. These sufferers have plenty of plasma but lack red corpuscles so the cells were mixed with an appropriate solution and administered into veins. The procedure is called "red cell transfusion" and has been employed in several hundred cases with startling results.

The blood elements in question also contain ingredients that are essential to clotting. After they are extracted and incorporated into an absorbable gelatin or foamy substance, a remedy is provided to stop internal bleeding. For example, the material can be placed over an oozing surface especially in bleeders and has proved helpful to the dentist, brain surgeon, and many others.

The corpuscles are also incorporated into a paste and applied to skin ulcers, infected wounds, burns, bedsores, and the like. Many varicose ulcers which did not respond to the usual methods of treatment, healed after the application of this new form of therapy. The salve not only promotes repair but seems to discourage infection. Pain too is decreased because a veneer-like crust forms over the raw surface.

No one knows why the cells act as they do except that they contain nutritional elements and proteins that are ultilized by the tissues. This stimulates the local growth of cells which in turn closes open lesions.

TICK BITES

These little fellows are really hoggish. They not only bite but place their heads under the skin and proceed to burrow. Irritation results, more so if the head is pulled off in the process of removing the insect. The area becomes red and itching is intense.

No, as the drug your physician prescribed is generally used to reduce irritation.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The story is going around Hollywood that Howard Hughes, Inc. is trying to purchase a controlling interest in R K O.

We'll know about it soon enough. If he's successful he'll probably put a propeller and landing gear on the studio and install a hostess.

I imagine it will be a lot tougher if he gets investigated again this year. . .he'll have to fly the studio to Washington.

Hughes is a genial fellow and it probably won't be as hard for tourists to get into RKO as it is for them to get into other studios . . .that is; of course, provided your name isn't Senator Brewster.

If he buys RKO, I hear that Howard is going to sell his tremendous flying boat to Crosby for a piggy bank.

Naturally, there'll be a great many changes out on the lot with Hughes in charge. All the directors will be called pilots. And when they're shooting a picture, instead of yelling "action. . .camera" they'll just shout "Roger."

Instead of B pictures. . .they'll be making B-29 pictures.

And when they have a preview at the studio, naturally all the critics will be strapped in.

This airplane influence in a movie studio would be nothing new to me. I've had to keep a parachute handy for years. . .Paramount is always threatening to drop me.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION MIGHT BE WORTH A POUND OF CURE

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

As Secretary Of State, George Marshall Lacks Foresight; A Good Secretary Of State Must Solve Problems Before They Reach Boiling Point As Palestine

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Having known and liked George Marshall ever since he was an Army colonel, I don't relish criticizing him in his difficult role of Secretary of State.

However, it seems to me Marshall's greatest fault has been the failure to apply to peace a lesson he must have learned long ago in war—namely that victory goes to the side which takes the offensive.

This axiom is just as true for the diplomat as it is for the soldier. No Secretary of State can be static and be successful. He cannot wait for trouble to edge up on him. He has to go out and meet his diplomatic problems before they become too tough to unravel. In diplomacy as in war, he has to pick the most advantageous battlefield.

This is the chief reason why the Palestinian problem has become so dangerous.

Always difficult, Secretary Marshall has made it more so by a policy of delay. While precious minutes have ticked by, tempers flared and the Palestine problem became more insoluble, George Marshall has done little except complain to his Undersecretary, Bob Lovett, that Lovett got him into an awful mess.

And while the Secretary of State stood almost pathetic in his paralysis, his Cabinet colleagues, James Forrestal, and his own Near Eastern experts were almost openly flaunting the official U. S. policy on Palestine.

The effect on the Arabs of this open opposition was quite simple. It lit bonfires under the Arab hopes—thereby making Marshall's problem all the more difficult.

A Lesson From Kellogg

The last time war upset the peace of the Western Hemisphere was about twenty years ago when Bolivia threatened to invade Paraguay. Frank B. Kellogg was then Secretary of State—not a polished diplomat, but one who believed in heading off trouble before he had to meet it head on.

At the first sign of Paraguayan-Bolivian belligerency, Kellogg summoned the leading Latin-American statesmen to Washington, enlisted the prestige of Charles Evans Hughes and rolled up such a solid public opinion against war that hostilities were stopped. In fact, Kellogg's shirtsleeve diplomacy held off war for two solid years, and the only thing that defeated him was a $20,000,000 munitions loan to the Bolivian Army by the banking firm of the very same James Forrestal who now champions the Arabs.

Another Secretary of State who believed in heading off diplomatic trouble before it got started was Henry L. Stimson. When Russia and China began making faces over the Chinese Eastern Railroad in 1930, Stimson summoned the entire diplomatic corps, wrote strong diplomatic notes, made those notes public, and vigorously mobilized world opinion against war.

The two armies were demobilized.

Again when the Japanese Army staged its famous Manchurian incident in 1931, Stimson saw this isolated skirmish for what it really was—the beginning of the Jap conquest of China.

And for two years, using diplomatic pressure, public opinion and the feeble power of the League of Nations, he kept the Japs at bay. If he had had any kind of support from the isolationist President then in the White House—Herbert Hoover—he might have succeeded.

War Secrets Told

Unfortunately, George Marshall, even when Chief of Staff, did not seem to realize that ability to look ahead is the measure of true statesmanship.

Wartime secrecy obscured many of the vital decisions in which Marshall was involved, but here are two of them.

Early in 1940, Roosevelt was urged to send England and France a quantity of old American rifles, some left over from World War I, some even from the Spanish-American War. The British had dangerously depleted their arsenals and Churchill was frantic. He told Roosevelt the British Army would have to resist with bare hands and bottles.

But while the U. S. Army admitted these old rifles were of no value to us, General Marshall, then Chief of Staff, opposed sending them to France and England. He maintained that Congress wouldn't like it. Roosevelt, however, overruled him. The rifles were shipped.

50,000 Airplanes

One year earlier, the Chief of Staff had shown similar lack of foresight when it came to aviation planning. And at one historic White House session it fell to the lot of a civilian to argue the generals into a big air program.

The civilian was the late Herman Oliphant, then General Counsel of the Treasury Department. The military men present were General Marshall, Gen. Hap Arnold, head of the Air Corps, and Adm. Harold Stark, Chief of Naval Operations.

The meeting was early in 1939. At it Oliphant argued (1) that there was certain to be war in Europe; (2) that when war came the job of the United States would be to give its friends in Western Europe not a handful of planes, but a minimum of 20,000 planes; and (3) the United States must immediately launch a program of $50,000 new airplanes.

General Marshall, however, was opposed. He thought the idea of 50,000 planes was preposterous. So did General Arnold. And the significant thing is that the 1939 Army budget, prepared for 1940 by the General Staff which Marshall headed, provided for only six flying fortresses. This is a matter of record which any Doubting Thomas can check for himself.

In other words, the Chief of Staff simply lacked the ability to look ahead and see what airpower would mean in the impending war.

Roosevelt and Henry Morgenthau, however, overruled the generals and backed up Oliphant. That White House meeting in 1939 was how the 50,000 - airplane program began.

Getting back to diplomacy, there are quite a few moves which a Secretary of State could have made to head off trouble in Palestine—in fact, still can make. Tomorrow this column will discuss some of them.

Excess-Profits Tax Revival Would Wreck Economic System

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — The favorite way of needling American business nowadays is to threaten to revive the excess-profits tax.

If such a move really had any support in Congress—which it decidedly has not—there would be a panic in the markets of the country that would lead directly to a depression.

The reason is that a revival of the excess-profits tax would ruin most businesses today and paralyze the entire economic system. It is one thing to impose an excess-profits tax when there is one customer, like the government, spending billions of dollars a month in wartime with no competition between producers and no problem of raising capital. It's quite another to strangle industry in the post-war period by putting a ceiling on profits from which expansion money and working capital is derived.

Base To Be Used Ignored

Such proposals for a revival of the excess-profits tax as are made usually ignore the question of what base is to be used as "normal." If last year or the year before were used or if wartime years were to be considered the base, some of the larger companies would come out pretty well. Others would suffer. If the old base of 1936-1939 were used, the well-entrenched or well-heeled companies would still pay less percentage of taxes than the companies that were growing up in that period or which operated in the red. This is believed to be the base planned by the radicals.

It is the small— or moderate-sized business, however, which is hurt by an excess-profits-tax law. This happened during World War II. The New Deal certainly wrote an excess-profits law that favored the large companies. Some ambiguously worded clauses were inserted in the law supposedly to give "relief" to smaller companies, but these have largely proved unworkable and the unsettled cases are numerous.

Anyone who talks about reviving the excess-profits tax without studying what happened with the war tax and how the big companies benefitted and the smaller ones were hurt is ignoring the economic facts of life.

If an excess-profits tax were imposed in peacetime, however, there would be a collapse of many important businesses because they could no longer finance the large operations in which they are now engaged. At the very time when more working capital than ever is needed to handle turnover of products required to overcome shortages, the government would be stopping production by impairing capital formation.

The trouble with an excess-profits tax or any ceiling on profits is that it inevitably must lead to a freezing of wages. If profits are squeezed down and wage rates are permitted to rise, the end result is bankruptcy or receiverships and plenty of unemployment.

Worst Enemy of Worker

The worst enemy of the workingman in America is the man who today proposes a revival of the excess-profits tax without at the same time providing for a freeze on wages and prices. In other words, if one segment of the economy is uncontrolled and the other segments are not, a serious maladjustment results. The worker would be the chief victim of such a destructive policy and the advocates of state socialism would cry out for government capital and government ownership so as to pay deficits and maintain employment.

Under the free-enterprise system of private ownership, prices are allowed to find their natural level. It takes time but evolution is essential. Monopolies are prosecuted under the anti-trust laws. Labor monopolies, however, which fix industry-wide prices of labor, are not subject to the anti-trust laws.

It is significant that in many categories prices already are falling. This is because supply is exceeding demand. The real crisis will come when the volume of sales declines and the profits start downward, too. The so-called "break even" point in many businesses is much higher today in respect to volume of business done than at any time in our economic history. The situation will not be cured by limiting profits and demoralizing production.

Fortunately those who talk so loosely about excess profits know full well there isn't a handful of votes in Congress in favor of such a course.

More To Murray's Indictment Than His Press Freedom Talk

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

The President of the CIO, Mr. Philip Murray, asked to be indicted in order to test the Taft-Hartley Law, and the Department of Justice has complied—with apologies.

Considerable editorial comment has been favorable to Mr. Murray's claim to be a champion of freedom of the press. But as I read between the lines, there is more to it than that.

Last July there was a special election to Congress in Baltimore. The CIO favored the Democratic candidate, Ed Garmatz, who was elected. In a statement published in the CIO News, Mr. Murray said that the Taft-Hartley Law purports to make it illegal for members of unions, acting through their officers, "to expend their common funds" in matters relating to election for federal office. (You will note that he did not limit the expenditures to editoral expression in union newspapers).

Mr. Murray's Claims

Mr. Murray said he believed the law was unconstitutional; that it should be repealed; that candidate Garmatz could be expected to vote to repeal it; and he, therefore, urged all members of the CIO in that district not only to vote for Garmatz, themselves, but to "make every effort to induce their neighbors, friends and all person eligible to vote" to do the same.

Thousands of copies of this appeal and reprints thereof (over and above the regular subscription list of the CIO News) were distributed throughout the district. These extra copies cost money. CIO union funds were used to print and distribute them. This cost was a political expenditure—as much so as any campaign dodger, banner or torchlight parade.

If the appeal to vote for Garmatz had been confined to the regular circulation of the CIO News, a narrower question would be presented to the courts. But no one dry behind the ears believes labor union leaders expect to limit the "expenditure of their common funds" to editorials in regular publications reaching only their own members. The appeal, in fact, was to use "every effort" to get "all persons" to vote.

The question is, therefore, not limited to the freedom of the press of a regularly published newspaper. The real question is whether Congress has the constitutional power to limit the amount of money that may be spent in a campaign.

Years ago Congress passed a Corrupt Practices Act, limiting the amount that might be spent in behalf of a Congressional candidate. More recently it passed the Hatch Act, limiting to $3,000,000 the amount that can be spent by a national committee in a Presidential campaign.

Yet it is reported that labor unions are planning to raise several times $3,000,000 to defeat all members of Congress, Democrat or Republican, who voted for the Taft-Hartley Law. They propose to do this, not through the regular committees of establish parties, but on the outside, through union channels and with union funds.

Could Run Afoul Two Laws

If they can legally do this under cover of "freedom of the press," then the Corrupt Practices Act and Hatch Act are words signifying nothing.

If corporations can be legally forbidden (as they are) to contribute or expend corporate funds to elect or defeat candidates for public office, why can't labor unions be forbidden?

As a side issue, one wonders if the labor leaders are not riding to a fall in their effort to secure the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law. The usually accurate Roper Poll, published by Fortune magazine, reveals that only 14% of all voters think the law too strict; that 57% of union members approve the law as written, and only 36% of union members oppose it. The law, in fact, may prove to be a political asset to Mr. Taft if he is the Republican candidate.

Representation In China

For some reason, not understandable, President Truman, in 1946, appointed an aged missionary, Dr. Leighton Stuart, as the American ambassador to China. He followed a long line of extraordinary competent men, John Van Antwerp MacMurray, Nelson T. Johnson, Clarence E. Gauss. These men knew China, knew its language, its history, its traditions, its personalities. MacMurray was one of the leading scholars of his time in China's international relations, probably second only to Dr. Westel W. Willoughby of John Hopkins.

The China desk in the State Department has usually been in the charge of an outstanding, world-known authority on Far Eastern affairs, one whose reputation went far beyond the confines of the State Department. The last of men of such calibre was Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, who held the post under various titles from 1928 to 1944, but whose influence waned as the New Dealers became more influential in the control of our foreign policy.

In his place appeared a cabal of intriguing young men who served not the national interest but their private opinion. The Far Eastern section of the State Department became a private club of smart boys.

To China were sent General Pat Hurley, General Joe Stillwell, General George Marshall, General Wedemeyer and the ancient missionary, Dr. Leighton Stuart. Pat Hurley, with his sense of practical politics, saw the picture as it is: namely, that the enemy is Soviet Russia and that the Chinese Communists would sooner or later be instructed to hate the United States. He did not elevate Chiang Kai-shek into an angel of pristine purity; he saw him as the inevitable ally of the United States. That was all that could be required.

General Joe Stillwell saw only himself. He wanted to run the show. He was used to running any show he was appointed to run. The fact that China had a government of its own, an army, a general staff; the further fact that the Chinese, in their primitive way, had managed to withstand and to kill Japanese for more years than Stillwell was a general, did not interest "Vinegar" Joe. He told Chiang Kai-shek to hand over his army —which in war meant the entire country—to him. Chiang told him to clear out. China has survived many Stillwells in its 4,000 years of history.

So along came General George Marshall. He brought the light of the ages: Love thine enemy. No one can question the vitality of the adage, except that Chiang Kai-shek had tried it on and off since 1925. Chiang has had a long experience of trying to do business with Russia and its agents, the Chinese Communists. As a matter of fact, China has had a longer experience, since the Treaty of Narchinsk (1689). But George Marshall thought he would try his hand at it.

He stayed in China more than a year and took a violent dislike to Chiang Kai-shek and the Kuomintang. They reminded him of Boss Hague of New Jersey, Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Boss Crump of Memphis, Boss Kelly of Chicago, Harry Hopkins, George Allen, and lots of other American politicians. He apparently preferred the Chinese Communists because he did not know them. So he came away a complete failure. He blamed Chiang Kai-shek for that. Of course, he might have read some history and he might have known that it is ever thus.

General Wedemeyer went over and made a report which is still secret. Many rumors are afloat as to what the report contains, including the absurdity that Manchuria, which Russia is stealing from China, be internationalized. The general impression, however, is that Wedemeyer proposed that we back Chiang Kai-shek with full military support, so that he may more successfully kill Chinese Communists who are agents of the all-conquering Soviet Russia.

And then there is the aged Leighton Stuart who apparently does not know what has happened in Rumania, Hungary, Western Germany, Northern Korea, and Czechoslovakia and who still believes that sweetness and light will triumpt in the sweet by-and-by. So he wants Chiang Kai-shek and Stalin to kiss and make up.

That is the kind of representation we have been having in China.

Today's Talk

Messengers Of Hope

If I accomplish nothing else in this life, I shall forever desire through these brief talks, that I may prove worthy as a humble messenger of Hope. Said Emerson, in one of his earliest lectures: "The scholar must be a bringer of hope, and must reinforce man against himself." And again he said: "A man should make life and nature happier to us or he had better have never been born."

Every thought of peace, every desire for the abolishment of fear, every dream toward the brotherhood of man, every effort consecrated to the alleviation of hunger and homelessness in this world, is in reality a messenger of Hope.

Hope is a movement in the mind and in the heart. But it keeps radiating. Unconsciously others gain its area and are uplifted by it. Sunshine by day, and the inhabited heaven of stars at night, give to Hope much of its substance. In Nature's great open book we note marked passages by the hand of God. And it is all open for our serious and reverent inspection and meditation. It is all perfumed with the scent of Hope! Every bird call, and every smiling flower is a messenger of Hope.

Every inspiring book is a messenger of Hope. I read my New Testament, my Stevenson, my "Road Mender," my Henry Ryecroft, my Marcus Aurelius, my books of poetry, history and biography — and in them all are to be found expressions that amount to silent messengers of Hope. We live in a world distressed by greed, hates, and wars, but every individual act of kindness and generosity, every acted noble impulse, throws its little candle light afar, as a bleam of Hope. Each ray a divine messenger.

We little realize what a messenger of Hope a mere letter can be. Our soldiers, in the recent war, looked upon letters as better than food, at times. Every letter received from my mother, when away at school, and later in a lonely city, meant more than I can express—each a messenger of Hope. Why not a letter to a neglected friend today? It may come as a messenger of Hope to him, or her—like rain that gives life to the sleeping seed, in dry ground!

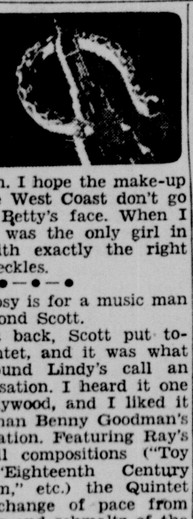
PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose



Billy Rose

I'm going to stop writing this column for a month and sample a little sun and serenity. For a very good reason. The other day I got a telegram from an old friend who said she wanted to see me again. It was signed, "Eleanor."

But before I put my knee on my suitcase and try to snap it shut, I'd like to pitch four posies.

The first is for a funnyman named Henny Youngman who is currently entertaining at the Copacabana. This patter-chatter gent has been around Broadway almost as long as the stores which sell souvenir turtles. I first caught his act twenty years ago in something called the Kentucky Club. I thought Youngman had talent, but I didn't care very much for his jokes.

Unfortunately, I'm not a good audience for joke-tellers. Most of their wheezes were old to me bebore Captain Billy printed them in his Whiz Bang. You see, I bunked with Ralph Spence twenty-five years ago when this movie title writer was assembling the first comprehensive gag file in America. I sat around for years at the old Friar's Club when Georgie Cohan and Willie Collier were swapping comic punches. I listened to Wilson Mizner ad lib for a couple of hundred nights, and I was around when the old Palace had its pick of 200 great next-to-closing acts. My missus knows about my dark past, and has often told me that in fairness to the performers, I should keep my dead pan out of all night clubs, including my own.

And so I was a little sorry for Youngman when they planted me at a ringside table the night he opened. "At least try to look interested," said Eleanor. "Henny has a wife and two kids."

But a minute after the comic got going, I found myself laughing—laughing like I haven't laughed on Broadway in a long time. Thanks to the inspired pencil of a young writer named Danny Shapiro, Youngman has a new routine — glib, giddy, topical and hep. A lot of it may sail over your Aunt Esmerelda's hat, but it's made to order for the wise mob.

The bistro bosses around the country who are currently going snowblind looking at white tablecloths could do a lot worse than hitch on to Henry.

My second posy is for a movie starlet named Betty Ann who'll be playing your neighborhood theatre shortly in a funny hunk of celluloid called "Sitting Pretty." Last season this carrot-topped cutie was listed as Betty Ann Lynn in the chorus of a so-so musical called "Park Avenue." I devoted part of a column to her lace-curtain Irish face and the baby fat which, I thought, on her was becoming.

I never met Betty until she dropped in at my office the day before she left for Hollywood. The youngster told me my piece had gotten her a movie test. She was probably kidding, but it made me feel good anyhow.

Betty has only a small part in "Sitting Pretty," but judging from the jabbering around the trade, it's big enough. I hope the make-up artists on the West Coast don't go fussing with Betty's face. When I saw her, she was the only girl in the world with exactly the right number of freckles.

My third posy is for a music man named Raymond Scott.

Some years back, Scott put together a quintet, and it was what the lads around Lindy's call an overnight sensation. I heard it one night in Hollywood, and I liked it even better than Benny Goodman's small combination. Featuring Ray's own screwball compositions ("Toy Trumpet," "Eighteenth Century Drawing-Room," etc.) the Quintet was a nice change of pace from the sobs, sighs and schmaltz of the big name orchestras.

A year later, Scott disbanded his firecracker five and got himself a big band. And for my money, it was just another big band. For the past five years, Ray has been sustaining himself by doing a series of sustaining broadcasts. I met up with him last November, and being an old buttinsky, I bawled him out for playing it safe.

Now I read that the Raymond Scott Quintet is back together again and doing nice things to the ears of the Chicago citizens who are jamming the North Side club where it is playing. And that the music man is back at the piano, writing the tongue-in-cheek tunes which are his trademark. I'm glad.

My last and loudest holler is about a book by Robert Sylvester called "Rough Sketch." Bob writes a newspaper column, and if you read anything besides the Sears Roebuck catalogue, you figure to know his by-line. Last year he turned out a little book called "Dream Street." It was about Broadway and the minor show people whose names never get up in lights. It was the only book on this subject I ever read which didn't sound as if it had been written by a kibitzer. I thought it painted a more accuarte picture of this crummy thoroughfare than any thousand columns of O. O. MacIntyre.

Eleanor picked up "Rough Sketch" the night I brought it home and didn't lay it down until ten o'clock the following morning. "Read this one, Pop," she told me. "It will give your corpuscles a workout."

And my mermaid was right. "Rough Sketch" is a character study of a theatrical agent as seen through four sets of eyes. In little words which burn holes in the paper, Sylvester spins a story of show business and adventure which is a cinch to wind up on the best-seller lists. It makes most of the yarns I've read this season look as pale as a ghost who has just seen a man.

And that about cleans up the stuff on my desk. This department of dreams and delirium will reopen for business March 29.

Until then, I expect to be following the shade around a palm tree.

THRIFT BALCONY

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I'm going to stop writing this column for a month and sample a little sun and serenity. For a very good reason. The other day I got a telegram from an old friend who said she wanted to see me again. It was signed, "Eleanor."

Billy Rose

But before I put my knee on my suitcase and try to snap it shut, I'd like to pitch four posies.

The first is for a funnyman named Henny Youngman who is currently entertaining at the Copacabana. This patter-chatter gent has been around Broadway almost as long as the stores which sell souvenir turtles. I first caught his act twenty years ago in something called the Kentucky Club. I thought Youngman had talent, but I didn't care very much for his jokes.

Unfortunately, I'm not a good audience for joke-tellers. Most of their wheezes were old to me bebore Captain Billy printed them in his Whiz Bang. You see, I bunked with Ralph Spence twenty-five years ago when this movie title writer was assembling the first comprehensive gag file in America. I sat around for years at the old Friar's Club when Georgie Cohan and Willie Collier were swapping comic punches. I listened to Wilson Mizner ad lib for a couple of hundred nights, and I was around when the old Palace had its pick of 200 great next-to-closing acts. My missus knows about my dark past, and has often told me that in fairness to the performers, I should keep my dead pan out of all night clubs, including my own.

And so I was a little sorry for Youngman when they planted me at a ringside table the night he opened. "At least try to look interested," said Eleanor. "Henny has a wife and two kids."

But a minute after the comic got going, I found myself laughing—laughing like I haven't laughed on Broadway in a long time. Thanks to the inspired pencil of a young writer named Danny Shapiro, Youngman has a new routine — glib, giddy, topical and hep. A lot of it may sail over your Aunt Esmerelda's hat, but it's made to order for the wise mob.

The bistro bosses around the country who are currently going snowblind looking at white tablecloths could do a lot worse than hitch on to Henry.

My second posy is for a movie starlet named Betty Ann who'll be playing your neighborhood theatre shortly in a funny hunk of celluloid called "Sitting Pretty." Last season this carrot-topped cutie was listed as Betty Ann Lynn in the chorus of a so-so musical called "Park Avenue." I devoted part of a column to her lace-curtain Irish face and the baby fat which, I thought, on her was becoming.

I never met Betty until she dropped in at my office the day before she left for Hollywood. The youngster told me my piece had gotten her a movie test. She was probably kidding, but it made me feel good anyhow.

Betty has only a small part in "Sitting Pretty," but judging from the jabbering around the trade, it's big enough. I hope the make-up artists on the West Coast don't go fussing with Betty's face. When I saw her, she was the only girl in the world with exactly the right number of freckles.

My third posy is for a music man named Raymond Scott.

Some years back, Scott put together a quintet, and it was what the lads around Lindy's call an overnight sensation. I heard it one night in Hollywood, and I liked it even better than Benny Goodman's small combination. Featuring Ray's own screwball compositions ("Toy Trumpet," "Eighteenth Century Drawing-Room," etc.) the Quintet was a nice change of pace from the sobs, sighs and schmaltz of the big name orchestras.

A year later, Scott disbanded his firecracker five and got himself a big band. And for my money, it was just another big band. For the past five years, Ray has been sustaining himself by doing a series of sustaining broadcasts. I met up with him last November, and being an old buttinsky, I bawled him out for playing it safe.

Now I read that the Raymond Scott Quintet is back together again and doing nice things to the ears of the Chicago citizens who are jamming the North Side club where it is playing. And that the music man is back at the piano, writing the tongue-in-cheek tunes which are his trademark. I'm glad.

My last and loudest holler is about a book by Robert Sylvester called "Rough Sketch." Bob writes a newspaper column, and if you read anything besides the Sears Roebuck catalogue, you figure to know his by-line. Last year he turned out a little book called "Dream Street." It was about Broadway and the minor show people whose names never get up in lights. It was the only book on this subject I ever read which didn't sound as if it had been written by a kibitzer. I thought it painted a more accuarte picture of this crummy thoroughfare than any thousand columns of O. O. MacIntyre.

Eleanor picked up "Rough Sketch" the night I brought it home and didn't lay it down until ten o'clock the following morning. "Read this one, Pop," she told me. "It will give your corpuscles a workout."

And my mermaid was right. "Rough Sketch" is a character study of a theatrical agent as seen through four sets of eyes. In little words which burn holes in the paper, Sylvester spins a story of show business and adventure which is a cinch to wind up on the best-seller lists. It makes most of the yarns I've read this season look as pale as a ghost who has just seen a man.

And that about cleans up the stuff on my desk. This department of dreams and delirium will reopen for business March 29.

Income Tax Primer

Travel Expenses While On Business May Be Deducted When Figuring Tax

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. (AP) — don't forget that expenses for travel out of town on business for your employer may be deducted in figuring income on which you pay tax.

(The matter of reimbursement of expenses will be discussed in a later article.)

Travel expenses away from home in carrying on your own business or trade also are deductible.

If you claim such expenses, make your return on Form 1040, either the short or long return. You cannot deduct travel expenses if you make your return on a withholding statement. It has no place for them.

You list travel expenses on a separate sheet of paper and fasten it to your form 1040. On the separate sheet write the nature of your business, the number of days away from home on account of business, the total amount of expenses for "travel, meals and lodging" and the total amount of other expenses in connection with travel.

If you make a trip from which you return to your home by the end of the same day, you are not considered traveling away from home regardless of the distance traveled. In that case, cost of transportation may be deducted as an ordinary business expense, but the cost of meals and lodging may not be deducted.

Among the expenses which you may deduct for "travel, meals and lodging" are railroad, airplane, bus and steamship fares, porter charges, excess baggage charges, cost of baggage transfer, taxi fare, hotel expenses and meals. Also expenses of an automobile used in your work or business such as gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent and other necessary operation and upkeep expenditures.

Automobile and other transportation expenses in connection with your work within your home town, if not reimbursed by your employer, may be listed among "miscellaneous deductions" on Page 3, Form 1040. In that case you will have to make out the long return.

If on a business trip to another city you entertain persons at dinner or lunch for business promotion purposes, you may deduct the cost of entertainment as a miscellaneous deduction.

You are not allowed to deduct personal travel expenses. This includes bus and train fare and similar costs of traveling between your home and place of employment, even if you reside in one town and work in another. Also you may not deduct travel expenses of a trip to another city to take a new job or to seek employment.

Suppose you live at or near a factory or other place of business but maintain a home at some other place for your family or dependents. You then are considered "at home" and not allowed to deduct the cost of board or lodging in the quarters at or near your place of business.

On the other hand, suppose you run a business in pour home town but make occasional trips to another town to consult with branch managers of that business. You are allowed to deduct the necessary expenses of those trips even if you stay a long time. You may also deduct expenses of a trip to Washington to consult with the government.

The law allows you to deduct traveling expenses necessary to looking after property held for the production of rents or royalties. These expenses, however, are deducted in Section B, Page 2, Form 1040.

Travel expenses in connection with income-producing investments other than rental or royalty properties may be deducted as a miscellaneous deduction on Page 3, Form 1040. That means making out the long form and itemizing your deductions.

If the commissioner of internal revenue requires it, your claims for deduction of travel expenses must be backed up by showing in detail the amount and nature of the expenses.

(The matter of reimbursement of expenses will be discussed in a later article.)

Travel expenses away from home in carrying on your own business or trade also are deductible.

If you claim such expenses, make your return on Form 1040, either the short or long return. You cannot deduct travel expenses if you make your return on a withholding statement. It has no place for them.

You list travel expenses on a separate sheet of paper and fasten it to your form 1040. On the separate sheet write the nature of your business, the number of days away from home on account of business, the total amount of expenses for "travel, meals and lodging" and the total amount of other expenses in connection with travel.

If you make a trip from which you return to your home by the end of the same day, you are not considered traveling away from home regardless of the distance traveled. In that case, cost of transportation may be deducted as an ordinary business expense, but the cost of meals and lodging may not be deducted.

Among the expenses which you may deduct for "travel, meals and lodging" are railroad, airplane, bus and steamship fares, porter charges, excess baggage charges, cost of baggage transfer, taxi fare, hotel expenses and meals. Also expenses of an automobile used in your work or business such as gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent and other necessary operation and upkeep expenditures.

Automobile and other transportation expenses in connection with your work within your home town, if not reimbursed by your employer, may be listed among "miscellaneous deductions" on Page 3, Form 1040. In that case you will have to make out the long return.

If on a business trip to another city you entertain persons at dinner or lunch for business promotion purposes, you may deduct the cost of entertainment as a miscellaneous deduction.

You are not allowed to deduct personal travel expenses. This includes bus and train fare and similar costs of traveling between your home and place of employment, even if you reside in one town and work in another. Also you may not deduct travel expenses of a trip to another city to take a new job or to seek employment.

Suppose you live at or near a factory or other place of business but maintain a home at some other place for your family or dependents. You then are considered "at home" and not allowed to deduct the cost of board or lodging in the quarters at or near your place of business.

On the other hand, suppose you run a business in pour home town but make occasional trips to another town to consult with branch managers of that business. You are allowed to deduct the necessary expenses of those trips even if you stay a long time. You may also deduct expenses of a trip to Washington to consult with the government.

The law allows you to deduct traveling expenses necessary to looking after property held for the production of rents or royalties. These expenses, however, are deducted in Section B, Page 2, Form 1040.

Travel expenses in connection with income-producing investments other than rental or royalty properties may be deducted as a miscellaneous deduction on Page 3, Form 1040. That means making out the long form and itemizing your deductions.

If the commissioner of internal revenue requires it, your claims for deduction of travel expenses must be backed up by showing in detail the amount and nature of the expenses.

Pennsylvania Leaning Toward GOP In Truman-Dewey-Wallace Race

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director,
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 26—Pennsylvania, carried by the Democrats by a slim margin in 1944, may be pushed over into the Republican column this year because of Henry A. Wallace's candidacy splitting the Democratic vote.

Latest balloting throughout Pennsylvania in the Institute's polls shows that in a three-cornered race involving President Truman on the Democratic ticket, Thomas E. Dewey on the G.O.P. ticket and Wallace as a third party candidate, Dewey runs ahead. Assuming that the Republicans nominate a man with popularity equivalent to that of Dewey, Pennsylvania would have to be put in the doubtful list so far as the Democrats are concerned. The Truman-Dewey-Wallace trial heat figures for Pennsylvania are:

PENNSYLVANIA

Truman	41%
Dewey	46
Wallace	7
No opinion	6

With the no opinion vote eliminated, the results are:

Truman	44%
Dewey	49
Wallace	7

Four years ago the Democrats carried Pennsylvania, with its 35 electorial votes, by only 51.4 per cent of the major party vote, while the Republicans received 48.6 per cent. In 1940 the Democrats got 53.5 per cent, the Republicans 46.5 per cent. In short, the Democratic margin in the last two elections, especially in 1944, was not large.

The serious threat to the Democrats in Pennsylvania this year is matched by equally serious problems facing them in two other states where the Institute has already reported poll findings—New York and Illinois.

In New York the poll found Dewey running ahead in the same Truman-Dewey-Wallace trial heat, the vote of those with opinions being Truman 41 per cent, Dewey 44 per cent, Wallace fifteen per cent. However, it was found that Truman ran ahead in a trial heat with Robert A. Taft as the Republican standard-bearer.

In Illinois, Wallace was found splitting the Democratic vote in Chicago to a sufficient extent to throw that state into Dewey's column in the trial heat. The vote among those with opinions: Truman 40 per cent; Dewey 52 per cent; Wallace eight per cent.

The two principal cities of Pennsylvania — Philadelphia and Pittsburgh—accounted for approximately two-fifths (39 per cent)of the total major party vote cast in 1944. The Democratic percentage of the vote was 58.2 in Philadelphia and Allegheny County combined (Allegheny County is the county containing Pittsburgh), while the Republicans polled 41.8 per cent.

Today's trial heat figures find Wallace taking enough votes away from the Democratic camp in the two urban areas to pull the Democratic figure down substantially there.

BOX SCORE OF STATES

Electorial Votes	State	Who's Ahead
47	New York	Truman 41%
		Dewey 44
		Wallace 15
35	Pennsylvania	Truman 44%
		Dewey 49
		Wallace 7
28	Illinois	Truman 40%
		Dewey 52

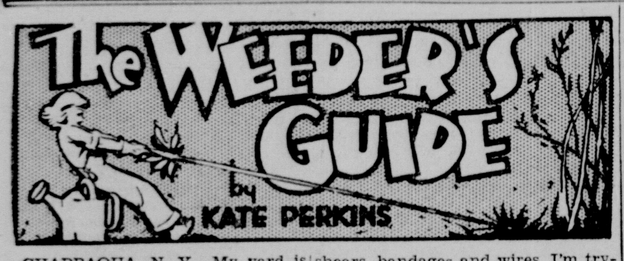
L. BERNSTEIN 9-11 N. CENTRE ST.



CHAPPAQUA, N. Y.—My yard is a hospital ward of fracture patients. And I am Florence Nightingale.

Armed with my little saw, pruning shears, bandages and wires, I'm trying to patch up the open wounds and broken limbs suffered by the trees and shrubs in the course of a three-months pummelling by snow and ice.

The smaller lilacs, for instance, look as though they had been on a winter-long bender. They are heeled over at weird angles after a losing battle with heavy snow. The buds are still there, thank goodness, and they look as though they'd burst into lavender bloom at the touch of a sunbeam.

And the maples! Ice had done them a dirty trick. Some baker's dozen lower boughs had to go. The forsythia seems to have struggled through all right, but the spirea and butterfly bushes look as though a large fat man, maybe Santa Claus, had spent the winter sitting in the middle of each one. The willow, my pride and joy, looks like a lady badly in need of a hairdresser's attention.

First things first, so I began with the broken boughs. I'm the world's most maladroit operator of such things as hammers and saws, but by carefuly following directions I managed to do a fairly workmanlike job of cutting off the limbs. The gimmick in this aperation is important in protecting the tree: first cut about one-half of one-quarter of the way through the limb from THE UNDERSIDE, about a foot ahead of the break, if possible. Then cut all the way through the limb from THE UPPER SIDE, an inch or so closer to the break. That lets the limb fall away clean, without stripping the bark from the tree. Finally, cut away the stub close and parallel to the trunk. If the limb is over an inch in diameter (all mine are, of course) let the wound dry over and then give it a coat of linseed oil, tar, shellac or one of those special preparations. This will seal over a possible avenue of infection. If it's a big wound, keep an eye on it for possible cracks in the coating which should be filled in.

About all one can do to help the shrubs back to beauty is to prune away the broken arms. Contrary to all the urges to get out there and prune now, before the sap starts to run, it is a good idea to get out some book of reference and find out just how and when each variety sets its blossoms. Some should be cut back now. But a pruning shears wielded now on some of the others will result in clipping off the future blooms. When you've a surgical problem on your hands, there's no choice but to hack away.

I've only a couple of evergreens on my domain, and they came through the winter without much damage. But in the event leader shoots have been broken, new ones can be trained with a sprint from a side shoot. Make sure you take the little buds off the remaining shoots in the cluster so that the strength can go into your new leader.

On the plants that have been bent over by the storms, a brace is the only way to straighten them. Be careful when driving the poles so as not to hurt the root systems too much. And when tying the plants up, protect them from sharp wire or strings that can saw into the tender bark. A protective bandage of cloth or rubber under the guy wires is the safest way to handle the retraining of the stock.

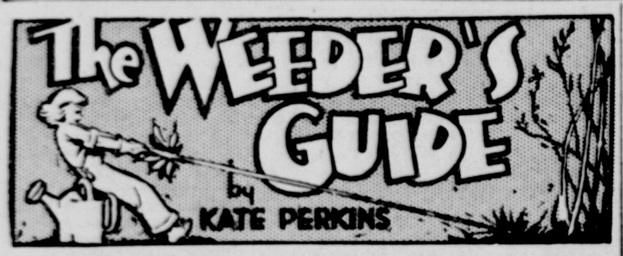
HURRY . . . HURRY! BIG BARGAINS IN EVERY DEPARTMENT! USE YOUR CREDIT TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF EVERY ONE . . . AND SAVE!



CHAPPAQUA, N. Y.—My yard is a hospital ward of fracture patients. And I am Florence Nightingale.

Armed with my little saw, pruning shears, bandages and wires, I'm trying to patch up the open wounds and broken limbs suffered by the trees and shrubs in the course of a three-months pummelling by snow and ice.

The smaller lilacs, for instance, look as though they had been on a

winter-long bender. They are heeled over at weird angles after a losing battle with heavy snow. The buds are still there, thank goodness, and they look as though they'd burst into lavender bloom at the touch of a sunbeam.

And the maples! Ice had done them a dirty trick. Some baker's dozen lower boughs had to go. The forsythia seems to have struggled through all right, but the spirea and butterfly bushes look as though a large fat man, maybe Santa Claus, had spent the winter sitting in the middle of each one. The willow, my pride and joy, looks like a lady badly in need of a hairdresser's attention.

First things first, so I began with the broken boughs. I'm the world's most maladroit operator of such things as hammers and saws, but by carefuly following directions I managed to do a fairly workmanlike job of cutting off the limbs. The gimmick in this operation is important in protecting the tree: first cut about one-half of one-quarter of the way through the limb from THE UNDERSIDE, about a foot ahead of the break, if possible. Then cut all the way through the limb from THE UPPER SIDE, an inch or so closer to the break. That lets the limb fall away clean, without stripping the bark from the tree. Finally, cut away the stub close and parallel to the trunk. If the limb is over an inch in diameter (all mine are, of course) let the wound dry over and then give it a coat of linseed oil, tar, shellac or one of those special preparations. This will seal over a possible avenue of infection. If it's a big wound, keep an eye on it for possible cracks in the coating which should be filled in.

About all one can do to help the shrubs back to beauty is to prune away the broken arms. Contrary to all the urges to get out there and prune now, before the sap starts to run, it is a good idea to get out some book of reference and find out just how and when each variety sets its blossoms. Some should be cut back now. But a pruning shears wielded now on some of the others will result in clipping off the future blooms. When you've a surgical problem on your hands, there's no choice but to hack away.

I've only a couple of evergreens on my domain, and they came through the winter without much damage. But in the event leader shoots have been broken, new ones can be trained with a sprint from a side shoot. Make sure you take the little buds off the remaining shoots in the cluster so that the strength can go into your new leader.

On the plants that have been bent over by the storms, a brace is the only way to straighten them. Be careful when driving the poles so as not to hurt the root systems too much. And when tying the plants up, protect them from sharp wire or strings that can saw into the tender bark. A protective bandage of cloth or rubber under the guy wires is the safest way to handle the retraining of the stock.

Merger Of Two Big Railroad Unions Would End Long Period Of Confusion

CLEVELAND, FEB. 26 - (AP) - One of the biggest mergers in labor history is being attempted here.

If the efforts are successful, one supreme union of Locomotive Crewmen will be formed out of these two ancient, strong, rich unions:

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (BLE), 80,000 members, headed by Alvanley Johnston.

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Enginmen (BLF & E), 112,000 members, headed by D. B. Robertson.

Such a marriage would end a long period of confusion and bitterness during which these organizations have competed for the right to represent the men who travel in locomotive cabs.

The two Brotherhood are "Dual" unions. That means their field of organizing activity is the same. The BLE has many firemen. The BLF & E has many engineers. Perhaps 20,000 to 30,000 men belong to both brotherhoods at the same time.

There is no certainty the merger will go through. It has been tried before with no sucess. There are mountainous legal and financial problems. An impatient minority group of engineers and firemen met Feb. 3 at Chicago and accused the Brotherhoods of being insincere about the whole deal.

But an 18-man "Joint Commttee on Amalgamation" is working at it. This committee was created by the conventions of the two Brotherhoods last summer. Nearly all the members are engineers. They are on leave from their jobs. They have been meeting steadily here since Oct. 13. They are drawing up a merger plan to sumit to the memberships for a referendum vote.

The leaders of the joint committee seem very hopeful.

They say "many points" have already been agreed on.

I entered a meeting of the committee and asked questions. They passed a special resolution letting me in.

A. R. Sampson, co-chairman from the BLF & E, who is a working engineer from New Orleans, said:

The two organizations ought to be together. The men in the Locomotive Cab spend more time with each other than with their own families. There is no reason in the world why they should relong to dual organizations. I have confidence in this committee. I am almost sure we will do the job."

T. J. Buckley, co-chairman from the BLE, who is a working engineer from South Pasadena, Calif., said:

"I believe we have progressed further toward amalgamation than ever before. What the membership wants is a merger of our economic strength. We have been dissipating our strength raiding each other. This is a very sincere effort. We are going to see it through. I have hopes of ultimate success.

Here are two of the problems the committee is wrestling with, aided by lawyers and accountants:

1. Getting a clear picture of the financial structure of each brotherhood. For example, Johnston's BLE owns two big Cleveland office buildings and other real estate. What should be done about such assets?

2. Finding some way of merging the vast insurance programs of the two unions. For one thing, the premiums and benefits differ. For an other, the BLF & E insurance department is unincorporated and the BLE program is incorporated as a separate institution (The Locomotive Engineers' Mutual Life & Accident Association).

President Robertson of the BLF &E says this bill will be working somehow, even if a third insurance company has to be created. Grand Chief Engineer Johnston of the BLE says he's doubtful whether a third company would be possible.

Robertson is openly enthusiastic about the merger. "It's going through," he said.

Johnston was more cautious. Didn't want to predict.

The two head men aren't leaving it all to the joint committee. They often take part in the negotiations in person.

It may be a few more weeks, or months, before the committee ends its work.

In ancient times, Babylon, Egypt and the Hittites strove for nearly 1,000 years for supremacy in the Near East. Then all were conquered successively by the Assyrians, Persians, Greeks and Romans.

Merger Of Two Big Railroad Unions Would End Long Period Of Confusion

CLEVELAND, FEB. 26 - (AP) - One of the biggest mergers in labor history is being attempted here.

If the efforts are successful, one supreme union of Locomotive Crewmen will be formed out of these two ancient, strong, rich unions:

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (BLE), 80,000 members, headed by Alvanley Johnston.

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Enginmen (BLF & E), 112,000 members, headed by D. B. Robertson.

Such a marriage would end a long period of confusion and bitterness during which these organizations have competed for the right to represent the men who travel in locomotive cabs.

The two Brotherhood are "Dual" unions. That means their field of organizing activity is the same. The BLE has many firemen. The BLF & E has many engineers. Perhaps 20,000 to 30,000 men belong to both brotherhoods at the same time.

There is no certainty the merger will go through. It has been tried before with no sucess. There are mountainous legal and financial problems. An impatient minority group of engineers and firemen met Feb. 3 at Chicago and accused the Brotherhoods of being insincere about the whole deal.

But an 18-man "Joint Commttee on Amalgamation" is working at it. This committee was created by the conventions of the two Brotherhoods last summer. Nearly all the members are engineers. They are on leave from their jobs. They have been meeting steadily here since Oct. 13. They are drawing up a merger plan to sumit to the memberships for a referendum vote.

The leaders of the joint committee seem very hopeful.

They say "many points" have already been agreed on.

I entered a meeting of the committee and asked questions. They passed a special resolution letting me in.

A. R. Sampson, co-chairman from the BLF & E, who is a working engineer from New Orleans, said:

The two organizations ought to be together. The men in the Locomotive Cab spend more time with each other than with their own families. There is no reason in the world why they should relong to dual organizations. I have confidence in this committee. I am almost sure we will do the job."

T. J. Buckley, co-chairman from the BLE, who is a working engineer from South Pasadena, Calif., said:

"I believe we have progressed further toward amalgamation than ever before. What the membership wants is a merger of our economic strength. We have been dissipating our strength raiding each other. This is a very sincere effort. We are going to see it through. I have hopes of ultimate success.

Here are two of the problems the committee is wrestling with, aided by lawyers and accountants:

1. Getting a clear picture of the financial structure of each brotherhood. For example, Johnston's BLE owns two big Cleveland office buildings and other real estate. What should be done about such assets?

2. Finding some way of merging the vast insurance programs of the two unions. For one thing, the premiums and benefits differ. For another, the BLF & E insurance department is unincorporated and the BLE program is incorporated as a separate institution (The Locomotive Engineers' Mutual Life & Accident Association).

President Robertson of the BLF &E says this bill will be working somehow, even if a third insurance company has to be created. Grand Chief Engineer Johnston of the BLE says he's doubtful whether a third company would be possible.

Robertson is openly enthusiastic about the merger. "It's going through," he said.

Johnston was more cautious. Didn't want to predict.

The two head men aren't leaving it all to the joint committee. They often take part in the negotiations in person.

It may be a few more weeks, or months, before the committee ends its work.

In ancient times, Babylon, Egypt and the Hittites strove for nearly 1,000 years for supremacy in the Near East. Then all were conquered succesively by the Assyrians. Persians, Greeks and Romans.

Stocks, With Some Exceptions, Lose Ground As Dealings Taper

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Stocks generally back-tracked in today's market although there were scattered exceptions. Dealings tapered to one of the smallest five-hour aggregates of the past year.

The Associated Press 60 - stock composite was off .3 of a point at 60.9. The market narrowed to 910 issues. Of these, 489 fell and 230 rose.

Pleasing dividends and earnings lifted Union Pacific 1⅛ to 157⅛ and added modest amounts to Follansbee Steel at 24¾, Packard at 4½, Lackawanna Railroad at 8¼ and Anaconda at 31⅝. Rock Island preferred was up one at 50½. Improved were Columbia Gas, United States Gypsum, American Tobacco "B", J. C. Penney, General Electric and Woolworth.

American Distilling hit a two-year bottom and finished off 1⅝ at 25¼. Down a point or better were United States Steel at 69⅛, Youngstown Sheet 67⅞, Chrysler 54⅞, Firestone Tire 43½, Montgomery Ward 49¼, International Harvester 85¼, Deere 36, Du Pont 166 and International Paper 45.

The higher priced issues drew the interest of investors today in a quiet bond market.

Government issues were up slightly in over-the-counter dealings. The 2⅞s due 1955-60 topped the Treasury gainers with an advance of a quarter of a point.

Among the leading gainers were Kanawha and Michigan 4s, which went ahead 1½ to 97 and Great Northern 5s, which advanced 1¼ to 118½.

Stocks, With Some Exceptions, Lose Ground As Dealings Taper

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Stocks generally back-tracked in today's market although there were scattered exceptions. Dealings tapered to one of the smallest five-hour aggregates of the past year.

The Associated Press 60 - stock composite was off .3 of a point at 60.9. The market narrowed to 910 issues. Of these, 489 fell and 230 rose.

Pleasing dividends and earnings lifted Union Pacific 1¾ to 157¼ and added modest amounts to Follansbee Steel at 24¾, Packard at 4½, Lackawanna Railroad at 8¼ and Anaconda at 31⅝. Rock Island preferred was up one at 50½. Improved were Columbia Gas, United States Gypsum, American Tobacco "B", J. C. Penney, General Electric and Woolworth.

American Distilling hit a two-year bottom and finished off 1⅝ at 25¾. Down a point or better were United States Steel at 69¼, Youngstown Sheet 67⅝, Chrysler 54⅞, Firestone Tire 43½, Montgomery Ward 49¼, International Harvester 85¼, Deere 36, Du Pont 166 and International Paper 45.

The higher priced issues drew the interest of investors today in a quiet bond market.

Government issues were up slightly in over-the-counter dealings. The 2¾s due 1955-60 topped the Treasury gainers with an advance of a quarter of a point.

Among the leading gainers were Kanawha and Michigan 4s, which went ahead 1½ to 97 and Great Northern 5s, which advanced 1¼ to 118½.

Versatile Limes Go To The Table

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

This has been a big season for limes. Those big limes—green and beautiful to look at—get juicier each year they're grown. Lots of people think of limes, though, only as something to make long cool drinks out of. They're splendid for that. But they're also just right for adding a delicious tang to lots of foods. Here are some ways to use limes:

1. Float a slice of lime in black bean soup, along with the grated hard boiled egg. Or use a slice of lime in any clear soup for decoration and flavor.

2. Serve a wedge of lime with broccoli which has been treated otherwise only with butter.

3. Use a wedge of lime to each serving of fish. You may like it better than lemon and fish and it's also handsomer.

4. Stuff a tomato with shrimp for a luncheon salad and serve a tiny lime wedge with it. All this on a bed of curly chicory.

5. For a tossed dinner salad, combine raw spinach leaves, onion rings, sliced beets, and use only lime juices as a dressing.

6. Top a fresh fruit cup with lime.

Cool drinks are frequently acceptable on warm fall days. When you make limeade, moisten the tops of the glasses and dip them in sugar before mixing the drink. Finish off with a sprig of mint. Delicious!

Lime Chiffon Pie

1 tablespoon plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons grated lime rind
½ cup lime juice
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
1 9-inch baker pastry shell

Soften gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water. Combine slightly beaten egg yolks with remaining 2 tablespoons cold water, one-half cup sugar, salt, lime rind and juice. Cook in top of double boiler about 10 minutes or until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Allow mixture to cool until firm. Gradually beat remaining one-half cup sugar into stiffy beaten egg whites. Combine with whipped cream. Beat gelatin. Then fold in beaten egg whites. Turn into baked pastry shell and chill until firm.

Lime Gelatine Dessert Ring

2 tablespoons gelatine
¼ cup lime juice
1½ cups hot water
½ cup vinegar
½ cup celery, diced fine
1 cup crushed pineapple
1 cuccumber, finely chopped

Soak gelatin in lime juice. Dissolve in hot water. Add vinegar. When gelatin thickens (this can be hastened by putting the bowl in which it was dissolved into a bigger one filled with cracked ice) stir in celery, pineapple and cuccumber. Put in refrigerator to set. Unmold onto a bed of fresh, crisp greens. Serve with mayonnaise.

May Be Cleaned

Although vegetables should not be pared, sliced or cut in the morning in preparation for the evening dinner, they may be cleaned and ready in the refrigerator.

To Use Meat Scraps

No waste of flavor when leftover bits of meat are used in this way. It's recommended for chicken, ham or pork leftovers from the Easter feast. Make an enriched flour muffin batter, using a base of two cups of flour. Into the batter, fold chunks of cooked meat, one to one and one-half cups. Bake as usual and serve split wide open with any leftover gravy.

Easter Breakfast Idea

Easter Sunday breakfast is an ideal time to try old-time favorite—biscuits and syrup. Hot, fluffy biscuits made from enriched flour are good to look at—and eating them is a taste treat as well as a sound way to add B vitamins, iron, protein and energy. As for calories, this breakfast idea will provide plenty of energy, but biscuits are no more fattening than any other food of the same caloric value.

Most yeast dough recipes call for "about" so many cups of enriched flour, rather than mentioning the exact amount. This is done because different flours absorb less liquid than others. Hard wheat flour, for example, usually requires more liquid than does soft wheat flour. Homemakers learn to add just the right amount of flour by a little experience in handling yeast doughs and batters.

PRIMER for PARENTS

Insurance Women Act To Make Bikes Safe

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The Insurance Women's Club of Tulsa has begun a program of equipping all Tulsa bicycles with permanent luminous tape to make night bicycle-riding safer.

The club aims to place the tape on the handle bars, rear fenders and mud guards of bikes.

President Virginia Horne says the bicycle thus will be visible to motorists from every angle.

The club, at a cost of 16 cents a bicycle, hopes to tape 450 a month. More than 8,000 bicycles are registered in the city.

Home tasks are advocated for daily exercises. Sweeping and scrubbing floors, for instance, reduce the waistline. Versatile Limes Go To The Table

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

This has been a big season for limes. Those big limes—green and beautiful to look at—get juicier each year they're grown. Lots of people think of limes, though, only as something to make long cool drinks out of. They're splendid for that. But they're also just right for adding a delicious tang to lots of foods. Here are some ways to use limes:

1. Float a slice of lime in black bean soup, along with the grated hard boiled egg. Or use a slice of lime in any clear soup for decoration and flavor.

2. Serve a wedge of lime with broccoli which has been treated otherwise only with butter.

3. Use a wedge of lime to each serving of fish. You may like it better than lemon and fish and it's also handsomer.

4. Stuff a tomato with shrimp for a luncheon salad and serve a tiny lime wedge with it. All this on a bed of curly chicory.

5. For a tossed dinner salad, combine raw spinach leaves, onion rings, sliced beets, and use only lime juices as a dressing.

6. Top a fresh fruit cup with lime.

Cool drinks are frequently acceptable on warm fall days. When you make limeade, moisten the tops of the glasses and dip them in sugar before mixing the drink. Finish off with a sprig of mint. Delicious!

Serve lime slices, instead of lemon, with tea. It's pretty.

Lime Chiffon Pie

1 tablespoon plain gelatin	grated lime rind
¼ cup cold water	⅓ cup lime juice
4 eggs, separated	½ cup heavy cream, whipped
1 cup sugar	1 9-inch baker pastry shell
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons

Soften gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water. Combine slightly beaten egg yolks with remaining 2 tablespoons cold water, one-half cup sugar, salt, lime rind and juice. Cook in top of double boiler about 10 minutes or until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Allow mixture to cool until firm. Gradually beat remaining one-half cup sugar into stiffy beaten egg whites. Combine with whipped cream. Beat gelatin. Then fold in beaten egg whites. Turn into baked pastry shell and chill until firm.

Lime Gelatine Dessert Ring

2 tablespoons gelatine	½ cup celery, diced fine
¼ cup lime juice	1 cup crushed pineapple
1½ cups hot water	1 cuccumber, finely chopped
⅓ cup vinegar

Soak gelatin in lime juice. Dissolve in hot water. Add vinegar. When gelatin thickens (this can be hastened by putting the bowl in which it was dissolved into a bigger one filled with cracked ice) stir in celery, pineapple and cuccumber. Put in refrigerator to set. Unmold onto a bed of fresh, crisp greens. Serve with mayonnaise.

May Be Cleaned

Although vegetables should not be pared, sliced or cut in the morning in preparation for the evening dinner, they may be cleaned and ready in the refrigerator.

To Use Meat Scraps

No waste of flavor when leftover bits of meat are used in this way. It's recommended for chicken, ham or pork leftovers from the Easter feast. Make an enriched flour muffin batter, using a base of two cups of flour. Into the batter, fold chunks of cooked meat, one to one and one-half cups. Bake as usual and serve split wide open with any leftover gravy.

Easter Breakfast Idea

Easter Sunday breakfast is an ideal time to try old-time favorite—biscuits and syrup. Hot, fluffy biscuits made from enriched flour are good to look at—and eating them is a taste treat as well as a sound way to add B vitamins, iron, protein and energy. As for calories, this breakfast idea will provide plenty of energy, but biscuits are no more fattening than any other food of the same caloric value.

Most yeast dough recipes call for "about" so many cups of enriched flour, rather than mentioning the exact amount. This is done because different flours absorb less liquid than others. Hard wheat flour, for example, usually requires more liquid than does soft wheat flour. Homemakers learn to add just the right amount of flour by a little experience in handling yeast doughs and batters.

Insurance Women Act To Make Bikes Safe

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The Insurance Women's Club of Tulsa has begun a program of equipping all Tulsa bicycles with permanent luminous tape to make night bicycle-riding safer.

The club aims to place the tape on the handle bars, rear fenders and mud guards of bikes.

President Virginia Horne says the bicycle thus will be visible to motorists from every angle.

The club, at a cost of 16 cents a bicycle, hopes to tape 450 a month. More than 8,000 bicycles are registered in the city.

Oysters Provide Lenten Variety

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A favorite dish in the United States since the first settlers in this country found them in abundance, oysters are good to count on for Lenten menus. They grow naturally or are cultivated in the waters of almost every one of our seaboard States, and since millions of pounds of oyster meats are produced annually, they may be purchased just about everywhere in one or the other of three forms: live in the shell, fresh and frozen shucked, and canned.

Shell oysters generally are sold by the dozen and must be alive when purchased. You can tell if they are alive by whether they have a tightly closed shell; if the shell gapes and does not close when it is handled the oysters are probably dead and therefore no longer usable.

Shucked oysters are those that have been removed from the shell and are generally sold by the pint or quart. They should be plump and have a creamy color with clear liquid, and be free from shell particles. Fresh shucked oysters are packed in special containers and should be refrigerated or surrounded by ice. Specialists in the Government's Fish and Wildlife Service say that when properly handled, fresh shucked oysters will remain good for a week or ten days.

Shucked oysters can, of course, be quick-frozen and in this way be available all over the country and all through the year. These frozen oysters should never be thawed until ready for use and once thawed they should never be refrozen.

Canned oysters, packed on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, usually are sold in No. 1 Picnic cans containing about 7½ ounces drained weight of oysters. Oysters packed on the Pacific coast usually are sold in cans containing 5 to 8 ounces drained weight.

Of all the ways to cook oysters, preparing them with crumbs or pastry and baking them seems to be especially welcome—and especially during Lent. Here is a good recipe that utilizes both crumbs and pastry.

OYSTER CRUMB PIE . . . Lenten inspiration

Oyster Crumb Pie

½ cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine
½ cup finely-crushed cracker crumbs
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon celery salt
Dash of pepper
1 pint (about 24) oysters
½ cup oyster liquid and water
Pie crust (using 1 cup flour)

Saute onion in butter about 5 minutes, over medium heat, until partly tender. Add cracker crumbs, salt, celery salt and pepper and mix well. Divide half of the mixture into four equal parts and spread on bottom of four individual baking dishes. Drain oysters; add water to oyster liquid to make ½ cup and pour over crumb mixture in baking dishes. Add oysters. Top with remaining crumbs. Roll pastry ⅛ in. thick and cut in rounds to fit tops of baking dishes. With sharp knife, make slits to permit steam to escape. Place over oyster mixture, pressing edge of dough against edge of dish. Bake in hot oven (400 F.) 35 to 40 minutes. 4 servings.

Note: This mixture may also be baked in an 8-inch pie pan, if desired. Or biscuit crust may be substituted for pie crust. To do this, measure 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, add 1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt and sift again. Cut in ⅓ cup shortening. Add about ⅓ cup milk gradually, stirring until soft dough is formed. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll dough ¼ inch thick. With sharp knife make slits to permit steam to escape. Fit over crumbs and oysters, pressing edge of dough against edge of dish. Bake in hot (400 F.) oven 25 to 30 minutes.

Peanuts 'N Paint

Paint is the latest industrial item to be made from peanuts, researchers say. The laboratory tested paint had good flowing, brushing and spreading qualities, was not sticky to the touch and after six hours was thoroughlly dry.

PRODUCE STUDY MAY CUT COSTS FOR CONSUMERS

AP Newsfeatures

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—A study of retail food stores designed to bring housewives fresh fruits and vegetables in better condition and at possibly lower price is being started by University of Maryland researchers.

The lower prices may result if losses from spoilage are reduced.

Dr. Raymond W. Hoecker, of the university's agricultural economics and marketing department, is directing the project, which will continue for at least a year. The studies will examine various methods of handling fresh vegetables, including displays on beds of crushed ice, refrigeration, and other practices.

Cooperating are the National Association of Ice Industries, Independent Grocers' Alliance, Maryland Extension Service, and Baltimore retailers, wholesale fruit and vegetable distributors and ice companies.

C. P. Austin, ice industry research director, said tests by the university last summer had shown that vegetables stayed in good condition days longer when bedded in crushed ice as compared with displays in open dry air.

For Left Over Home Scraps

Here's an easy way to dramatize leftovers of the Easter ham. Make tricky little biscuit cups and serve creamed ham chunks in them. The biscuit cups are made by cutting circles from enriched biscuit dough and pressing into muffin pans. Prick the bottom with a fork and bake the cups in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) eight to 10 minutes. It may be easier to form the cups by fitting the circles of dough on inverted large greased muffin pans. A four-inch cutter will make circles of just the right size.

March is "bread and gravy" month—time to make economical use of good enriched bread and the tasty gravy made from inexpensive cuts of meat. It's good etiquette to eat every drop of gravy—and it's easy to do when served over bread or toast. Enriched bread contains B vitamins, iron and food energy at a small price.

Hot Breads With Salads

Early spring salads almost demand the companionship of suitable hot breads. Make it fruit muffins with a fish salad, Southern biscuits with a fruit salad, cheese biscuits with a vegetable mold. Make it from enriched flour, too, to be sure that the food value matches the appetite appeal.

There's a reason for scalding milk before using it in a yeast dough. The scalding stops the enzyme action which might otherwise cause some softening in the dough. The simple step of scalding the milk makes the dough easier to handle and improves the texture of the breads made from it.

Lenten Suggestions

If a tuna fish casserole is the featured attraction on a Lenten meal, make it more attractive by weaving a biscuit dough topping. Add two tablespoons chopped parsley to a biscuit dough using two cups enriched flour. Roll out the dough one-fourth inch thick. From half the dough, make linings for individual casseroles. Fill with a favorite tuna fish mixture. From the remaining biscuit dough, cut one-inch strips and weave together loosely to form a topping for each casserole. Cut to fit the shape of the container.

Canned Codfish Cakes

You can now get codfish cakes which need only warming when taken from the can. As the fish-cakes are already fried it saves the housewife the trouble of mixing bread crumbs and eggs.

Oysters Provide Lenten Variety

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A favorite dish in the United States since the first settlers in this country found them in abundance, oysters are good to count on for Lenten menus. They grow naturally or are cultivated in the waters of almost every one of our seaboard States, and since millions of pounds of oyster meats are produced annually, they may be purchased just about everywhere in one or the other of three forms: live in the shell, fresh and frozen shucked, and canned.

Shell oysters generally are sold by the dozen and must be alive when purchased. You can tell if they are alive by whether they have a tightly closed shell; if the shell gapes and does not close when it is handled the oysters are probably dead and therefore no longer usable.

Shucked oysters are those that have been removed from the shell and are generally sold by the pint or quart. They should be plump and have a creamy color with clear liquid, and be free from shell particles. Fresh shucked oysters are packed in special containers and should be refrigerated or surrounded by ice. Specialists in the Government's Fish and Wildlife Service say that when properly handled, fresh shucked oysters will remain good for a week or ten days.

Shucked oysters can, of course, be quick-frozen and in this way be available all over the country and all through the year. These frozen oysters should never be thawed until ready for use and once thawed they should never be refrozen.

Canned oysters, packed on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, usually are sold in No. 1 Picnic cans containing about 7½ ounces drained weight of oysters. Oysters packed on the Pacific coast usually are sold in cans containing 5 to 8 ounces drained weight.

Of all the ways to cook oysters, preparing them with crumbs or pastry and baking them seems to be especially welcome—and especially during Lent. Here is a good recipe that utilizes both crumbs and pastry.

OYSTER CRUMB PIE . . . Lenten inspiration

Oyster Crumb Pie

½ cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine
½ cup finely-crushed cracker crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon celery salt
Dash of pepper
1 pint (about 24) oysters
½ cup oyster liquid and water
Pie crust (using 1 cup flour)

Saute onion in butter about 5 minutes, over medium heat, until partly tender. Add cracker crumbs, salt, celery salt and pepper and mix well. Divide half of the mixture into four equal parts and spread on bottom of four individual baking dishes. Drain oysters; add water to oyster liquid to make ½ cup and pour over crumb mixture in baking dishes. Add oysters. Top with remaining crumbs. Roll pastry ⅛ in. thick and cut in rounds to fit tops of baking dishes. With sharp knife, make slits to permit steam to escape. Place over oyster mixture, pressing edge of dough against edge of dish. Bake in hot oven (400 F.) 35 to 40 minutes. 4 servings.

Note: This mixture may also be baked in an 8-inch pie pan, if desired. Or biscuit crust may be substituted for pie crust. To do this, measure 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, add 1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt and sift again. Cut in ⅓ cup shortening. Add about ⅓ cup milk gradually, stirring until soft dough is formed. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll dough ¼ inch thick. With sharp knife make slits to permit steam to escape. Fit over crumbs and oysters, pressing edge of dough against edge of dish. Bake in hot (400 F.) oven 25 to 30 minutes.

Peanuts 'N Paint

Paint is the latest industrial item to be made from peanuts, researchers say. The laboratory tested paint had good flowing, brushing and spreading qualities, was not sticky to the touch and after six hours was thoroughlly dry.

PRODUCE STUDY MAY CUT COSTS FOR CONSUMERS

AP Newsfeatures

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—A study of retail food stores designed to bring housewives fresh fruits and vegetables in better condition and at possibly lower price is being started by University of Maryland researchers.

The lower prices may result if losses from spoilage are reduced.

Dr. Raymond W. Hoecker, of the university's agricultural economics and marketing department, is directing the project, which will continue for at least a year. The studies will examine various methods of handling fresh vegetables, including displays on beds of crushed ice, refrigeration, and other practices.

Cooperating are the National Association of Ice Industries, Independent Grocers' Alliance, Maryland Extension Service, and Baltimore retailers, wholesale fruit and vegetable distributors and ice companies.

C. P. Austin, ice industry research director, said tests by the university last summer had shown that vegetables stayed in good condition days longer when bedded in crushed ice as compared with displays in open dry air.

For Left Over Home Scraps

Here's an easy way to dramatize leftovers of the Easter ham. Make tricky little biscuit cups and serve creamed ham chunks in them. The biscuit cups are made by cutting circles from enriched biscuit dough and pressing into muffin pans. Prick the bottom with a fork and bake the cups in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) eight to 10 minutes. It may be easier to form the cups by fitting the circles of dough on inverted large greased muffin pans. A four-inch cutter will make circles of just the right size.

March is "bread and gravy" month—time to make economical use of good enriched bread and the tasty gravy made from inexpensive cuts of meat. It's good etiquette to eat every drop of gravy—and it's easy to do when served over bread or toast. Enriched bread contains B vitamins, iron and food energy at a small price.

Hot Breads With Salads

Early spring salads almost demand the companionship of suitable hot breads. Make it fruit muffins with a fish salad, Southern biscuits with a fruit salad, cheese biscuits with a vegetable mold. Make it from enriched flour, too, to be sure that the food value matches the appetite appeal.

There's a reason for scalding milk before using it in a yeast dough. The scalding stops the enzyme action which might otherwise cause some softening in the dough. The simple step of scalding the milk makes the dough easier to handle and improves the texture of the breads made from it.

Lenten Suggestions

If a tuna fish casserole is the featured attraction on a Lenten meal, make it more attractive by weaving a biscuit dough topping. Add two tablespoons chopped parsley to a biscuit dough using two cups enriched flour. Roll out the dough one-fourth inch thick. From half the dough, make linings for individual casseroles. Fill with a favorite tuna fish mixture. From the remaining biscuit dough, cut one-inch strips and weave together loosely to form a topping for each casserole. Cut to fit the shape of the container.

Canned Codfish Cakes

You can now get codfish cakes which need only warming when taken from the can. As the fish-cakes are already fried it saves the housewife the trouble of mixing bread crumbs and eggs.

Fire Fighters Tell How To Start Fires

AP Newsfeatures

NEW YORK—Safety engineers who specialize in fire prevention got a jolt when they were appealed to for advice on how to start a fire.

The unusual request was made by a county agricultural agent in Arkansas. He said many farm houses and cabins had been burned down in his district because farmers apparently did not know a proper way to start a fire safely in their stoves and fireplaces.

So the county agent appealed to the National Board of Fire Underwriters on the grounds that experts on preventing fires ought to know how to start them.

The board's engineers, drawing on their knowledge of the behavior of fire, compiled a set of rules for the county agent, who now plans to publish them in a booklet for distribution among farmers.

The first rule for starting any fire safely, the experts pointed out, is never to use kerosene or any flammable liquid.

To Start A Fire In A Fireplace

1. Remove metal screen—there should be one!—in front of the fireplace.
2. See that the chimney and fireplace are clean. Remove all combustible material near the fireplace or on the hearth.
3. Open the damper.
4. Twist several sheets of newspaper tightly, and place them in the center of the fireplace.
5. Place a backlog in the rear of the fireplace on the andirons.
6. Place two smaller split logs in front of the backlog, about one-quarter inch apart.
7. Light the paper with a safety match. When the fire is burning well, replace the metal screen in front of the fireplace to prevent sparks and embers from flying out.

Note: The wood should be well-seasoned. Green or wet logs will be hard to start and will make considerable smoke. Do not use kerosene.

To Start A Fire In A Stove

1. Clean the stove and remove ashes and partly burned fuel from the grate and ashpit.
2. Open the damper.
3. Bring coal or wood in a metal receptacle and place it on the metal pad—there should be one!—beneath the stove.
4. Twist several sheets of newspaper, bending them horseshoe style in the combustion chamber, putting dry kindling on top of the paper.
5. Light the fire from beneath.
6. Shut the door of the ashpit and partially close the side openings. Open the draft in the ashpit door.
7. After the kindling has caught fire, place large pieces of wood in the stove and cover with several shovels of coal. If there is not enough wind for a good draft, it may be necessary to open the slides of the ashpit door.
8. Remove any fuel away from the stove. Do not use kerosene.

To Start A Fire Outdoors:

Fires should be built away from grass, leaves or trees. Do not build fires in forest areas without a permit. Use outdoor fireplaces where provided.

If an outdoor fire is to be used for cooking, dig a shallow pit, piling the dirt to one side so it can be used later for burying and extinguishing the fire.

Place a backlog or stones behind the fire. You can use these to support cooking pots or utensils.

If you wish to burn leaves or rubbish outdoors, use a leaf burner or other metal incinerator.

Do not build outdoor fires on windy days. The wind can easily fan a fire out of control or carry flying brands to nearby houses or woods.

Always extinguish an outdoor fire with water or earth before leaving it.

So the county agent appealed to the National Board of Fire Underwriters on the grounds that experts on preventing fires ought to know how to start them.

The board's engineers, drawing on their knowledge of the behavior of fire, compiled a set of rules for the county agent, who now plans to publish them in a booklet for distribution among farmers.

The first rule for starting any fire safely, the experts pointed out, is never to use kerosene or any flammable liquid.

To Start A Fire In A Fireplace

1. Remove metal screen—there should be one!—in front of the fireplace.
2. See that the chimney and fireplace are clean. Remove all combustible material near the fireplace or on the hearth.
3. Open the damper.
4. Twist several sheets of newspaper tightly, and place them in the center of the fireplace.
5. Place a backlog in the rear of the fireplace on the andirons.
6. Place two smaller split logs in front of the backlog, about one-quarter inch apart.
7. Light the paper with a safety match. When the fire is burning well, replace the metal screen in front of the fireplace to prevent sparks and embers from flying out.

Note: The wood should be well-seasoned. Green or wet logs will be hard to start and will make considerable smoke. Do not use kerosene.

To Start A Fire In A Stove

1. Clean the stove and remove ashes and partly burned fuel from the grate and ashpit.
2. Open the damper.
3. Bring coal or wood in a metal receptacle and place it on the metal pad—there should be one!—beneath the stove.
4. Twist several sheets of newspaper, bending them horseshoe style in the combustion chamber, putting dry kindling on top of the paper.
5. Light the fire from beneath.
6. Shut the door of the ashpit and partially close the side openings. Open the draft in the ashpit door.
7. After the kindling has caught fire, place large pieces of wood in the stove and cover with several shovels of coal. If there is not enough wind for a good draft, it may be necessary to open the slides of the ashpit door.
8. Remove any fuel away from the stove. Do not use kerosene.

To Start A Fire Outdoors:

Fires should be built away from grass, leaves or trees. Do not build fires in forest areas without a permit. Use outdoor fireplaces where provided.

If an outdoor fire is to be used for cooking, dig a shallow pit, piling the dirt to one side so it can be used later for burying and extinguishing the fire.

Place a backlog or stones behind the fire. You can use these to support cooking pots or utensils.

If you wish to burn leaves or rubbish outdoors, use a leaf burner or other metal incinerator.

Do not build outdoor fires on windy days. The wind can easily fan a fire out of control or carry flying brands to nearby houses or woods.

Major And His Watch

Meet "Duke" Cumberland

Injury Bothers DeLuca

Roy Tipped Beam At 110

By C. V. BURNS

Major John J. Cavanaugh, coach of Fort Hill High School's Scintillating Sentinels, steps up to the plate with one of the best stories of the season.

It concerns Fort Hill's trip to Davis, W. Va., last Saturday night for that exciting overtime battle in which the Hilltoppers bagged the Tucker County Wildcats.

Fort Hill was about to make a substitution and in view of the fact that a team is allowed 30 seconds Cavanaugh held the watch on Jimmie Eckard before sending him into the game.

Several of the spectators near the Fort Hill bench thought it rather odd that a coach should hold a watch on one of his players.

"Why do you think the coach is timing that player?" one spectator asked another.

"I suppose the boy has a weak heart and the coach is taking his pulse," was the reply.

When Mrs. Bigler, who overheard the conversation, told Cavanaugh the story, the major had to be revived with smelling salts.

The negro star was relating his experiences in his high school days and was telling a group about his high school coach.

"Prior to each game the coach would tell each player what he expected of them," the Ohioan said. "For instance, he'd tell one forward to shoot from a corner. Another player would be given instructions on how to guard an opposing player, etc."

"Did the coach ever tell you anything, Duke?" Cumberland was asked.

"I was the star of the team in those days," the negro player reminisced," and the coach told me the same thing before each game."

"What was it?" came the query.

"Duke, just go out there and play your usual good game," Cumberland replied without cracking a smile.

And Mr. Whip requests us to inform the readers that the Cumberland Dukes were named after the Duke of Cumberland and not "Duke" Cumberland.

Answer to telephone query:

Our records show Earl Smith and Bobby Goss fought once and Goss was returned the winner. They met in the finals of the 112-pound open class in the American Legion tournament on June 9, 1947. It was a split decision.

Jimmie Deetz, who knocked out Donnie Booth Monday night, used to be the trial horse for Goss and Smith. He lost three straight to Goss and won one out of three from Smith.

Sammy DeLuca, regular first sacker of the 1947 Cumberland Amvets and leading base pilferer in the Bi-State League last season, is bothered by the recurrence of an injury he received in 1947.

It was during a hectic battle at Taylor Field that a visiting player ran head-on into DeLuca on a play at the initial sack. The latter's right eye was injured so badly that the thin covering of the eyeball was peeled and Sammy spent two days in the hospital and seven days confined to his bed at home.

DeLuca was telling us that in recent days he has been bothered by sharp pains in his right eye and if the trouble doesn't clear up he may have to undergo an operation.

The next local amateur boxing show will be held on Monday, March 15, at the State Armory. It will be the 13th of the current season.

Weight fluctuations of local boxers in recent amateur matches have been compared to the stock market.

The night Roy Richardson of Prostburg boxed Marty Mull the weights were announced as Mull 124 and Richardson 110.

Matchmaker Jim Klosterman said there was an awful mistake made in Richardson's weight, adding that Roy was 120 instead of 110.

Last Monday night Richardson's weight was 112 for his bout with Dick Nagy. And Roy had both arms and legs when he entered the ring.

"I weighed 110 for Mull and don't let them tell you anything different," Roy told the writer after the fight.

In the Royale A. C. show of November 24, Bill Lafferty's weight was given as 140 and Jimmie Catanese's 135. Last Monday night in his match with Joe Depan, Catanese's weight was announced as 125.

Wonder if Catanese could be on a diet?

Those who failed to see the Philadelphia SPHAS in action here last Sunday night against the Dukes missed one of the classiest professional teams to show here in many moons.

The SPHAS were one of the most accurate shooting teams we've ever seen. Every player on the squad was a Deadeye Dick when it came to sinking shots close-up as well as far out.

Tommy Mont, former Allegany High School and University of Maryland football and basketball ace, is now an instructor in the ROTC (Reserve Officers' Training Corps) unit at the state university, College Park. He will rejoin the Washington Redskins football team in the fall.

DukesHaveMathematical Chance To Crash Playoffs

Play Important Game With Altoona Sunday

Cumberland's Dukes have a mathematical chance to gain a spot in the All-American Pro Basketball League playoffs but it's mighty slim.

The locals now occupy fifth place in the six-club league with a record of 7 wins and 14 losses. They have four more games to play before the regular season ends.

Altoona is in fourth place with seven wins and eight losses and must play five more games.

All of Cumberland's remaining games at home while Altoona has three at home at two on the road.

A defeat at the hands of Altoona here Sunday night will put Cumberland out of the running but that's one of four games Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's floormen hope to win as the season nears a finish.

Sunday night's game here will get under way at 9 o'clock and the local management is hopeful that the fans will patronize the remaining games as the team is "slightly in the red" and has four $225 guarantees to meet before the final bell.

Here are the remaining games on the league schedule:

Feb. 28—Youngstown at Altoona.
Feb. 29—Altoona at Cumberland.
March 1—Altoona at Wheeling.
March 5—Columbus at Cumberland.
March 6—Columbus at Altoona.
March 7—Youngstown vs. Columbus at Dayton; Wheeling at Cumberland.
March 8—Youngstown at Wheeling.
March 13—Youngstown at Altoona; Columbus at Wheeling.
March 14—Youngstown at Cumberland; Zanesville at Columbus.

One week after the Dukes' final league game with Youngstown, the locals will play the Globe Trotters here.

voters of the city elect to run this city, should have the authority and power to say just what should be done within the corporate limits of our city. There would not be any trouble if the jobs of Mayor and City Commissioners were attractive enough to attract the men to the jobs who would be compensated enough for the services, rendered the city to justify them to devote their entire time to the city's affairs. I think we would have a much better government, and I don't think we need a city manager.

Western Kentucky, Texas And St. Louis Get Tourney Spots

Five Others Will Vie In New York Contests

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (AP)—The first three of eight spots in the 11th annual National Invitational Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden were filled today by St. Louis, Texas and Western Kentucky State.

Asa Bushnell, director of the tourney to be played on the nights of March 11, 13, 15 and 17, said all three had accepted, although Texas must go through the formality of getting permission from a majority of the members of the Southwest Conference.

A Dallas dispatch said a mail poll of Southwest Conference members was started today, with favorable response needed from four of the remaining six members. Rice was granted similar permission in 1944.

Texas has won 18 of its 22 starts this season. Western Kentucky, which has a 2-2 record in previous tournaments, has won 23 games and lost only one this season.

St. Louis has lost only two of its 21 games played to date, both defeats coming at the hands of Oklahoma A. and M.

Manhattan Selected For Tournament Play

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 26. (AP)—Selection of Manhattan College as the New York-New Jersey representative of the National Intercollegiate Basketball Association tournament was announced today.

Mal Eiken, University of Buffalo basketball coach and chairman of the NIBA district committee, said he and committee members John Reitemeier of Seton Hall and Kenneth (Red) Norton of Manhattan had chosen Manhattan over Siena.

Manhattan has won 17 games and lost 5 this season while Siena has won 19 and lost 5, but Eiken said the decision was based on the nature of each college's opponents as well as the win-loss record.

To Determine Entrant

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Feb. 26. (AP)—Beloit will meet River Falls State Teachers College in the Beloit fieldhouse March 4 to determine the Wisconsin entrant in the National Association Intercollegiate Basketball tournament, it was announced today.

W. L. Zorn, N.A.I.B. District No. 14 chairman, said athletic directors George Schlagenhauf of River Falls and Dolph Stanley of Beloit had agreed to the game.

80,000 May Witness Santa Anita Handicap

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 26—(AP)—The estimate may be overly optimistic, but a crowd of more than 80,000 is expected to witness the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap Saturday.

A record turnout of 85,500 saw the fixture last year, and Los Angeles Turf Club officials think the figure may be matched or topped, this year.

Walcott Agrees To Oppose Louis In Title Fight

Match Set June 23 At Yankee Stadium

By ORLO ROBERTSON

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 26 (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott tonight agreed to meet champion Joe Louis in a 15-round heavyweight bout at Yankee Stadium, June 23.

Walcott's attorney, A. D. Malandra, said a contract would be signed tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the New York office of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

Louis, before leaving for an exhibition tour in England, threatened to fight "anybody else" if Walcott didn't agree to terms in two weeks.

The two week ultimatum was nearly over.

Walcott agreed to Louis' terms. His managers said "this is one fight we couldn't let go."

Jersey Joe lost a 15-round split decision to the Brown Bomber in a Madison Square Garden fight last December.

The 34-year-old challenger thought he won—so sure in fact, that he demanded 30 percent of the purse in a return title go. Walcott was offered 20 per cent, Louis 40.

After much haggling, Walcott finally agreed to 20 per cent figure. But then a new hitch developed—Jersey Joe wanted a 30 percent cut of the movie rights.

New York Promoter Mike Jacobs said "No"—not a cent more than 20.

Malandra said Walcott would get 22½ percent of the movie income.

"I am going to do my best to whip that man Louis this time so they'll be no question about the winner," Walcott says. "I thought I won fair and square the other time."

So did the weekly magazine Police Gazette. Tonight that publication awarded Walcott its own "heavyweight championship belt" in a public ceremony witnessed by some 5,000 cheering fans.

It was quite an affair. First off, there was a cocktail party. Then a dinner with Camden's Mayor George Brunner officiating. Then the presentation in Convention Hall here. Then Walcott said he'd fight Louis.

Maryland To Crown Cage Champs In Four Classes By March 19-20

Tournament Plans Outlined By Ramey

Champions in four divisions of the Maryland scholastic basketball tournaments for boys' and girl's teams in 23 counties will be determined a week before Easter, Arthur G. Ramey of the Allegany County Board of Education, announced yesterday.

District championship games must be finished by March 10, inter-district games on the western and eastern shores must be completed by March 17 and the state finals will be played on March 19 or 20. Easter comes on March 28. The Easter vacation begins at 1 p. m., March 25 and schools will reopen on March 30.

High schools with an enrollment of 500 or more are designated in Class "A." The "B" schools are those with 300 to 499, "C" from 150 to 299 and "D" under 150.

Five Teams In County

Allegany county will be represented by three boys' and two girls' teams this year.

Fort Hill's girls have qualified for the "A" tourney while either Bruce or Central will vie in the Class "C" games, depending on which team wins Monday's playoff game in Lonaconing.

The winner of the Fort Hill-Allegany game next Wednesday will represent Allegany county in the boys "A" tourney. The "C" representative will come out of the Bruce-Central playoff on Tuesday at Westernport. Barton already has qualified to compete for "D" honors.

If any of the Allegany county schools figure they have a chance of going to the state finals they should be interested to know they'll play on the Eastern Shore if they're in Class "D" and on the Western Shore if they're in Classes "A" or "C". This arrangemtnt is the same for both boys and girls teams.

Throughout the tournament all games will be played on the home floors of one of the teams involved. There will be no so-called neutral courts.

Will Meet March 6

Final plans for inter-district games will be formulated at a meeting to be held Saturday, March 6, at the Baltimore office of the Baltimore County Board of Education. Those attending will be Herbert Steiner of District No. 3, Vincent Holochwost of District No. 2 and Arthur G. Ramey of District No. 1, comprising Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties.

Major And His Watch
Meet "Duke" Cumberland
Injury Bothers DeLuca
Roy Tipped Beam At 110

By C. V. BURNS

Major John J. Cavanaugh, coach of Fort Hill High School's Scintillating Sentinels, steps up to the plate with one of the best stories of the season.

It concerns Fort Hill's trip to Davis, W. Va., last Saturday night for that exciting overtime battle in which the Hilltoppers bagged the Tucker County Wildcats.

Fort Hill was about to make a substitution and in view of the fact that a team is allowed 30 seconds Cavanaugh held the watch on Jimmie Eckard before sending him into the game.

Several of the spectators near the Fort Hill bench thought it rather odd that a coach should hold a watch on one of his players.

"Why do you think the coach is timing that player?" one spectator asked another.

"I suppose the boy has a weak heart and the coach is taking his pulse," was the reply.

When Mrs. Bigler, who overheard the conversation, told Cavanaugh the story, the major had to be revived with smelling salts.

The negro star was relating his experiences in his high school days and was telling a group about his high school coach.

"Prior to each game the coach would tell each player what he expected of them," the Ohioan said. "For instance, he'd tell one forward to shoot from a corner. Another player would be given instructions on how to guard an opposing player, etc."

"Did the coach ever tell you anything, Duke?" Cumberland was asked.

"I was the star of the team in those days," the negro player reminisced," and the coach told me the same thing before each game."

"What was it?" came the query.

"Duke, just go out there and play your usual good game," Cumberland replied without cracking a smile.

And Mr. Whip requests us to inform the readers that the Cumberland Dukes were named after the Duke of Cumberland and not "Duke" Cumberland.

Answer to telephone query:

Our records show Earl Smith and Bobby Goss fought once and Goss was returned the winner. They met in the finals of the 112-pound open class in the American Legion tournament on June 9, 1947. It was a split decision.

Jimmie Deetz, who knocked out Donnie Booth Monday night, used to be the trial horse for Goss and Smith. He lost three straight to Goss and won one out of three from Smith.

Sammy DeLuca, regular first sacker of the 1947 Cumberland Amvets and leading base pilferer in the Bi-State League last season, is bothered by the recurrence of an injury he received in 1947.

It was during a hectic battle at Taylor Field that a visiting player ran head-on into DeLuca on a play at the initial sack. The latter's right eye was injured so badly that the thin covering of the eyeball was peeled and Sammy spent two days in the hospital and seven days confined to his bed at home.

DeLuca was telling us that in recent days he has been bothered by sharp pains in his right eye and if the trouble doesn't clear up he may have to undergo an operation.

The next local amateur boxing show will be held on Monday, March 15, at the State Armory. It will be the 13th of the current season.

Weight fluctuations of local boxers in recent amateur matches have been compared to the stock market.

The night Roy Richardson of Prostburg boxed Marty Mull the weights were announced as Mull 124 and Richardson 110.

Matchmaker Jim Klosterman said there was an awful mistake made in Richardson's weight, adding that Roy was 120 instead of 110.

Last Monday night Richardson's weight was 112 for his bout with Dick Nagy. And Roy had both arms and legs when he entered the ring.

"I weighed 110 for Mull and don't let them tell you anything different," Roy told the writer after the fight.

In the Royale A. C. show of November 24, Bill Lafferty's weight was given as 140 and Jimmie Catanese's 135. Last Monday night in his match with Joe Depan, Catanese's weight was announced as 125.

Wonder if Catanese could be on a diet?

Those who failed to see the Philadelphia SPHAS in action here last Sunday night against the Dukes missed one of the classiest professional teams to show here in many moons.

The SPHAS were one of the most accurate shooting teams we've ever seen. Every player on the squad was a Deadeye Dick when it came to sinking shots close-up as well as far out.

Tommy Mont, former Allegany High School and University of Maryland football and basketball ace, is now an instructor in the ROTC (Reserve Officers' Training Corps) unit at the state university, College Park. He will rejoin the Washington Redskins football team in the fall.

DukesHaveMathematical Chance To Crash Playoffs

Play Important Game With Altoona Sunday

Cumberland's Dukes have a mathematical chance to gain a spot in the All-American Pro Basketball League playoffs but it's mighty slim.

The locals now occupy fifth place in the six-club league with a record of 7 wins and 14 losses. They have four more games to play before the regular season ends.

Altoona is in fourth place with seven wins and eight losses and must play five more games.

All of Cumberland's remaining games at home while Altoona has three at home at two on the road.

A defeat at the hands of Altoona here Sunday night will put Cumberland out of the running but that's one of four games Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's floormen hope to win as the season nears a finish.

Sunday night's game here will get under way at 9 o'clock and the local management is hopeful that the fans will patronize the remaining games as the team is "slightly in the red" and has four $225 guarantees to meet before the final bell.

Here are the remaining games on the league schedule:

Feb. 28—Youngstown at Altoona.
Feb. 29—Altoona at Cumberland.
March 1—Altoona at Wheeling.
March 5—Columbus at Cumberland.
March 6—Columbus at Altoona.
March 7—Youngstown vs. Columbus at Dayton; Wheeling at Cumberland.
March 8—Youngstown at Wheeling.
March 13—Youngstown at Altoona; Columbus at Wheeling.
March 14—Youngstown at Cumberland; Zanesville at Columbus.

One week after the Dukes' final league game with Youngstown, the locals will play the Globe Trotters here.

Tom Rigney, business manager of the Waterloo White Hawks, a Sox farm team, said he had received word of the action.

Rigney said the fine was assessed in connection with Chandler's decision that the signing of pitcher Robert Buhl by the Sox violated high school player regulations.

voters of the city elect to run this city, should have the authority and power to say just what should be done within the corporate limits of our city. There would not be any trouble if the jobs of Mayor and City Commissioners were attractive enough to attract the men to the jobs who would be compensated enough for the services, rendered the city to justify them to devote their entire time to the city's affairs. I think we would have a much better government, and I don't think we need a city manager.

"Since I was retired in 1945 as a Baltimore and Ohio mechanic, I have been able to devote my entire time to city affairs during the past two years," Light concluded.

Western Kentucky, Texas And St. Louis Get Tourney Spots

Five Others Will Vie In New York Contests

NEW YORK, Feb. 26. (AP)—The first three of eight spots in the 11th annual National Invitational Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden were filled today by St. Louis, Texas and Western Kentucky State.

Asa Bushnell, director of the tourney to be played on the nights of March 11, 13, 15 and 17, said all three had accepted, although Texas must go through the formality of getting permission from a majority of the members of the Southwest Conference.

A Dallas dispatch said a mail poll of Southwest Conference members was started today, with favorable response needed from four of the remaining six members. Rice was granted similar permission in 1944.

Texas has won 18 of its 22 starts this season. Western Kentucky, which has a 2-2 record in previous tournaments, has won 23 games and lost only one this season.

St. Louis has lost only two of its 21 games played to date, both defeats coming at the hands of Oklahoma A. and M.

Manhattan has won 17 games and lost 5 this season while Siena has won 19 and lost 5, but Eiken said the decision was based on the nature of each college's opponents as well as the win-loss record.

80,000 May Witness Santa Anita Handicap

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 26—(AP)—The estimate may be overly optimistic, but a crowd of more than 80,000 is expected to witness the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap Saturday.

A record turnout of 85,500 saw the fixture last year, and Los Angeles Turf Club officials think the figure may be matched or topped, this year.

Walcott Agrees To Oppose Louis In Title Fight

Match Set June 23 At Yankee Stadium

By ORLO ROBERTSON

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 26 (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott tonight agreed to meet champion Joe Louis in a 15-round heavyweight bout at Yankee Stadium, June 23.

Walcott's attorney, A. D. Malandra, said a contract would be signed tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the New York office of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

Louis, before leaving for an exhibition tour in England, threatened to fight "anybody else" if Walcott didn't agree to terms in two weeks.

The two week ultimatum was nearly over.

Walcott agreed to Louis' terms. His managers said "this is one fight we couldn't let go."

Jersey Joe lost a 15-round split decision to the Brown Bomber in a Madison Square Garden fight last December.

The 34-year-old challenger thought he won—so sure in fact, that he demanded 30 percent of the purse in a return title go. Walcott was offered 20 per cent, Louis 40.

After much haggling, Walcott finally agreed to 20 per cent figure. But then a new hitch developed—Jersey Joe wanted a 30 percent cut of the movie rights.

New York Promoter Mike Jacobs said "No"—not a cent more than 20.

Malandra said Walcott would get 22½ percent of the movie income.

"I am going to do my best to whip that man Louis this time so they'll be no question about the winner," Walcott says. "I thought I won fair and square the other time."

So did the weekly magazine Police Gazette. Tonight that publication awarded Walcott its own "heavyweight championship belt" in a public ceremony witnessed by some 5,000 cheering fans.

It was quite an affair. First off, there was a cocktail party. Then a dinner with Camden's Mayor George Brunner officiating. Then the presentation in Convention Hall here. Then Walcott said he'd fight Louis.

Maryland To Crown Cage Champs In Four Classes By March 19-20

Tournament Plans Outlined By Ramey

Champions in four divisions of the Maryland scholastic basketball tournaments for boys' and girl's teams in 23 counties will be determined a week before Easter, Arthur G. Ramey of the Allegany County Board of Education, announced yesterday.

District championship games must be finished by March 10, inter-district games on the western and eastern shores must be completed by March 17 and the state finals will be played on March 19 or 20. Easter comes on March 28. The Easter vacation begins at 1 p. m., March 25 and schools will reopen on March 30.

High schools with an enrollment of 500 or more are designated in Class "A." The "B" schools are those with 300 to 499, "C" from 150 to 299 and "D" under 150.

Five Teams In County

Allegany county will be represented by three boys' and two girls' teams this year.

Fort Hill's girls have qualified for the "A" tourney while either Bruce or Central will vie in the Class "C" games, depending on which team wins Monday's playoff game in Lonaconing.

The winner of the Fort Hill-Allegany game next Wednesday will represent Allegany county in the boys "A" tourney. The "C" representative will come out of the Bruce-Central playoff on Tuesday at Westernport. Barton already has qualified to compete for "D" honors.

If any of the Allegany county schools figure they have a chance of going to the state finals they should be interested to know they'll play on the Eastern Shore if they're in Class "D" and on the Western Shore if they're in Classes "A" or "C". This arrangemtnt is the same for both boys and girls teams.

Throughout the tournament all games will be played on the home floors of one of the teams involved. There will be no so-called neutral courts.

Will Meet March 6

Final plans for inter-district games will be formulated at a meeting to be held Saturday, March 6, at the Baltimore office of the Baltimore County Board of Education. Those attending will be Herbert Steiner of District No. 3, Vincent Holochwost of District No. 2 and Arthur G. Ramey of District No. 1, comprising Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties.

Blue And White Favored To Take Final Of Series

Ridgeley Seeks 10th In Row Over Jackets

Ancient rivals in basketball, LaSalle High School and Allegany High School will tangle tonight at Campobello in the 55th game of their series which was launched in 1921.

In the 54 games played to date, including Allegany's 47-20 victory in this season's opener, Blue and White teams have emerged victorious 34 times to the Explorers' 20.

Allegany is favored to win tonight's game over a team that has lost eight of its last nine starts.

The teams will swing into action at 8 o'clock. LaSalle and Allegany Reserves will meet in the preliminary at 7 o'clock.

If Allegany comes through as predicted that Campers will have tied Fort Hill for city honors with three wins and one loss each. Such a tie will be broken next Wednesday when AHS and Fort Hill clash on SS. Peter and Paul court for the W.M.I. League and Allegany county Class "A" titles.

Ridgeley will be shooting for its tenth consecutive victory in the Potomac Valley Conference when it plays the Moorefield High Yellow Jackets tonight at Moorefield, W. Va.

Other games on tonight's slate include:

Davis at Parsons.
Piedmont at Romney (PVC).
Bedford at Ferndale.
Elk Garden at Bruce.

Hogan Sets Pace In St. Petersburg

Ben Fires 9-Under-Par 63 In Initial Round

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26 (INS)—Little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., fired a blistering nine-under-par 63 today to snatch a four-stroke lead on the field in the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf tourney.

Hogan's 30-33 broke the St. Petersburg course record of 66 which was set by Johnny Revolta, of Evanston, Ill., in 1940. The Hershey pro carded ten birdies in his sensational opening round and slipped over par only once. Hogan took a bogey on the 12th hole.

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis dentist, turned in a 67 to take a second place while five others tied for third with 68's.

Bobby Locke, of Johannesburg, South Africa; Eric Monte, Santa Monica, Calif.; Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C.; Lawson Little, Cleveland, and Jim Milward, Northernaire, Wis., all had 68's.

Seven golfers tied 69. They were Otto Griner, Baltimore; former national open winner Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa.; Norman Von Nida, Sydney, Australia; Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C.; Walter Burkemo, Detroit; Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill.; and Ky LaFoon, St. Andrews, Ill.

Skee Riegel of Los Angeles and Woody Wever of St. Petersburg tied for low amateur honors with 71's.

Gavilan To Test "Ike" Williams In Non-Title Go

Champ Is 2-1 Choice In Fight At Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Kid Gavilan's ring rhumba meets the big test tomorow night in Ike Williams, the lightweight champion. Their 10-round Madison Square Garden bout will be non-title as Ike will be giving away about six pounds to the 2 to 1 Havana underdog.

If the flashy kid from Cuba can neutralize Ike's cold, efficient punching power, a major upset could be in the making. Seldom has a new fighter caught on with the fans as quickly as Gavilan.

Although the kid will be making his first star bout appearance in the Garden, he already is a proven drawing card. A loyal horde of transplanted Cubans rends the air with "Arribas" every time he fights. His bouncing style, with bolo punches and tricky foot work, catches the eye.

Gavilan's big hit two weeks ago against Vinnie Rossano earned him this overweight scrap with Williams. It promises to be a profitable evening for all. Garden officials estimate a $70,000 gate. The 1948 high was the $66,317 drawn last week by Beau Jack and Terry Young.

Cumberland Seeks July Race Dates

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26 (AP) — More juggling of Maryland's horse racing dates for 1948 involving three half mile tracks is expected next month, Stuart S. Janney, racing commission chairman, has announced.

Janney said Cumberland, Bel Air and Marlboro probably will be allowed to swap dates at a commission meeting March 9. The mile track schedule already has been revised because of a conflict with New Jersey racing.

The half mile changes are being made at Cumberland's request, Janney reported. Cumberland's original dates, Aug. 17-28, would have conflicted with racing at Wheeling, W. Va.

Under the proposed set-up, Cumberland will take Bel Air's dates of July 21—July 31. Marlboro will move up to Cumberland's original schedule and Bel Air will take over Marlboro's dates of Sept. 15-25.

Hagerstown and Timonium, Maryland's other two half mile tracks, will be unaffected by the revised schedule. Hagerstown is booked for Aug. 3-14 and Timonium for Sept. 1-11.

Staller Is Optioned

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26 (AP)—George Staller, outfielder and captain of the 1947 Baltimore Orioles, has been optioned to Portsmouth in the Ohio-Indiana Class D baseball league, Manager Tommy Thomas of the Birds announced today.

Thomas said Staller will be playing manager of the Portsmouth club, which is a farm team of the Philadelphia Athletics. Staller had a brief try with the A's in 1944.

Terp Goes On Honeymoon

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 26—(AP)—Bill Brown, University of Maryland's leading scorer, missed tonight's basketball game at Richmond to go on his honeymoon.

Brown and the former Virginia Morse, a university coed, were married last night in Washington, D. C. The bride's home is in Swarthmore, Pa., and Brown is from Sturgin, Ky.

LEWIS TO RETIRE FOR 1948 SEASON

GASTONIA, N. C., Feb. 26 (AP)—John K. (Buddy) Lewis, for many years one of the American League's outstanding baseball players with the Washington Senators, told the Gastonia Gazette today he was retiring from major league baseball for the 1948 season.

Buddy Lewis

Lewis said he hoped to resume his major league career next year.

He said he planned to thoroughly rest his back which he injured in a game last season and devote much of his time to the automobile agency he owns here.

Shea Comes To Terms With New York Yankees

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Frank Shea came to terms with the New York Yankees today for a reported $16,000 salary as the club prepared to leave for spring training.

Shea, who reached an agreement on the telephone with General Manager George Weiss in St. Petersburg, Fla., will be one of eight players in the group of 23 leaving Saturday.

The Yanks gave Shea a "take it or leave it" proposition last week. The husky righthander, who was the Yanks' rookie pitching star last year, said in Naugatuck, Conn., that he finally accepted that offer. He won 14 and lost 5 in the regular season and added two world series victories.

Rookie Dick Starr, who won nine and lost six for Newark before advancing to the Yanks in late season, also signed up.

Gavilan To Test "Ike" Williams In Non-Title Go

Champ Is 2-1 Choice In Fight At Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Kid Gavilan's ring rhumba meets the big test tomorow night in Ike Williams, the lightweight champion. Their 10-round Madison Square Garden bout will be non-title as Ike will be giving away about six pounds to the 2 to 1 Havana underdog.

If the flashy kid from Cuba can neutralize Ike's cold, efficient punching power, a major upset could be in the making. Seldom has a new fighter caught on with the fans as quickly as Gavilan.

Although the kid will be making his first star bout appearance in the Garden, he already is a proven drawing card. A loyal horde of transplanted Cubans rends the air with "Arribas" every time he fights. His bouncing style, with bolo punches and tricky foot work, catches the eye.

Gavilan's big hit two weeks ago against Vinnie Rossano earned him this overweight scrap with Williams. It promises to be a profitable evening for all. Garden officials estimate a $70,000 gate. The 1948 high was the $66,317 drawn last week by Beau Jack and Terry Young.

100 B. & O. Carmen To Be Furloughed At Keyser Shops

First Big Layoff In More Than Year

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—One hundred employes of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad car shop here will be furloughed March 1, according to Charles A. Steiding, chief clerk.

The reduction, Steiding explained, will be general over the system for an indefinite period although there is no lack of work, equipment or supplies here.

The notice of the furlough was posted at the local shops Wednesday, Steiding said, adding that five days notice is required before any layoff.

The furlough is the first reduction of any size for a year and will affect the men with the shortest service records, Steiding said.

Two Released From Jail

James Glass, 20, McCoole, who was sentenced to six months in the Mineral County jail by Judge Ernest A. See during the January term of Circuit Court, was released yesterday for a three-year probationary period.

Glass was found guilty of assaulting his wife, who at the time was expecting a child. He had previously been found guilty of a similar charge on two occasions. Glass was placed on probation in February, 1947, for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

In placing Glass on probation, Judge See ordered him to secure employment in Keyser or in the territory within 100-mile radius of the town, or to enlist in the armed forces. He was also ordered to pay all court costs.

His wife gave birth to a daughter while Glass was serving his jail sentence.

Also released from the Mineral County jail yesterday was Walter Haslacker, near Burlington, who was serving a 10-day sentence for non-payment of a fine on a truancy charge. Haslacker was found guilty of the charge at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle on February 18.

He was released from jail by Judge See on provision that he go to work and provide for his family and keep his children in school. He was also ordered to pay court costs.

Students Plan Play

Members of "Taps and Flats," a campus club which originated at Potomac State School last spring, are now starting work on their second production which has been entitled "The New Look."

Approval of the club was given by the faculty last year following the presentation of "Public Law 346," a student written, directed and acted musical. The organization is open to any student who participates in a production. Recruiting is now underway for prospective members with the first try-out for the spring musical held yesterday.

In charge of casting are Ken Smith, John Simons and McMillian Twigg. Mrs. Gwendolyn Gillham has been named faculty advisor for the group.

Work on the script is being done by McMillian Twigg while music for the show is being written by Wayne Shaw and Charles McColley. John Simons will direct the production.

100 B. & O. Carmen To Be Furloughed At Keyser Shops

First Big Layoff In More Than Year

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—One hundred employes of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad car shop here will be furloughed March 1, according to Charles A. Steiding, chief clerk.

The reduction, Steiding explained, will be general over the system for an indefinite period although there is no lack of work, equipment or supplies here.

The notice of the furlough was posted at the local shops Wednesday, Steiding said, adding that five days notice is required before any layoff.

The furlough is the first reduction of any size for a year and will affect the men with the shortest service records, Steiding said.

Two Released From Jail

James Glass, 20, McCoole, who was sentenced to six months in the Mineral County jail by Judge Ernest A. See during the January term of Circuit Court, was released yesterday for a three-year probationary period.

Glass was found guilty of assaulting his wife, who at the time was expecting a child. He had previously been found guilty of a similar charge on two occasions. Glass was placed on probation in February, 1947, for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

In placing Glass on probation, Judge See ordered him to secure employment in Keyser or in the territory within 100-mile radius of the town, or to enlist in the armed forces. He was also ordered to pay all court costs.

His wife gave birth to a daughter while Glass was serving his jail sentence.

Also released from the Mineral County jail yesterday was Walter Haslacker, near Burlington, who was serving a 10-day sentence for non-payment of a fine on a truancy charge. Haslacker was found guilty of the charge at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle on February 18.

He was released from jail by Judge See on provision that he go to work and provide for his family and keep his children in school. He was also ordered to pay court costs.

The organization is open to any student who participates in a production. Recruiting is now underway for prospective members with the first try-out for the spring musical held yesterday.

In charge of casting are Ken Smith, John Simons and McMillian Twigg. Mrs. Gwendolyn Gillham has been named faculty advisor for the group.

Work on the script is being done by McMillian Twigg while music for the show is being written by Wayne Shaw and Charles McColley. John Simons will direct the production.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(Special to The News)—Ed Sorocki came up to the office yesterday. Outside, the temperature was around 30 and it was raining the cold, miserable rain of a Manhattan winter. But Ed wore his regu-lar year-round costume—a thin T-shirt, slacks and shoes. He had come all the way from Brooklyn through the rain, dressed like that, so I could interview him, and en route he had had to submit to the customary, wearying indignity of an old lady seated next to him on the bus turning to him and saying. "Young man—are you crazy, dressing like that in this weather?"

The reason I wanted to interview him is because Ed Sorocki is one of those characters who go swimming off the Coney Island beach in the dead of winter.

You know; you see them in the newsreels; they have a club and they play ball on the beach while dressed only in trunks and they wallow around in piles of snow.

Here in New York we call them physical culture nuts. We laugh at them because their antics are a little off-center of what we call normal—but I wonder.

I remember meeting a New Jersey rug dealer named Coffing Arslanian, back in 1944, who lived in a tree. The tree was on top of a mountain in West Orage and I climbed a mile to see him. He was a physical culturist, too—and yet at 61, a little over twice my age, he looked just as young . . . and four times as strong and healthy.

When I got back to New York I called the well-known psychiatrist, Dr. Thomas Garrett, and did not me that living in a tree did not mean a man was daffy. "I don't blame the chap, personally," Dr. Garrett said. "I wish I had a tree."

Ever since then I have been completely cordial to physiccal culture bugs. So when Ed Sorocki turned up yesterday, I was so polite I even laid down my pipe out of regard for his sensitive lungs.

"I am such a finely-turned piece of physical machinery," Ed Sorocki explained to me, "that I can smell a stinking cigar the length of a railroad car." Ed is half-English, half-Choctow Indian, and the old lady on the bus made a big mistake. He is not young. He is 49 and a grandfather.

Ed is possibly the most talkative guy in the world and certainly one of the most amiable. He is a vegetarian and a non-smoker and looks upon cake made with white flour the way the rest of us look upon opium. Also, he has no hair on his chest. He took off the T-shirt to show me, frightening two stenographers and intriguing one other, an earthier sort.

It was inevitable, of course, that Ed was a one-time invalid. All the physical culture advocates seem to have been; they get burned by disease or an ailment early in life and the experience is so searing that they run, headlong from sickness for the rest of their days.

Ed had tuberculosis iln 1915. He recovered in two years, but still was so weak the Army turned him down in 1917 as not "fit to be shot." Later he was a taxi driver for some years and then worked for Bernarr MacFadden and other health-builders. Today he works at night pasteurizing milk for the Borden's people: During the summer he's at the beach every day and during the winters he's there every weekend.

Ed believes he's the world's greatest living blood donor, having given 262 transfusions in 20 years—or more than 51 gallons of blood. He still seems to have some left. During the recent war I donated my blood to the Red Cross twice and fainted both times, so if you think that makes him a better man than I am, Gunga Din, you are so right.

Ed sleeps in a cold room and hasn't worn a hat nor overcoat in 23 years. The burning question that I wanted to ask him was whether his wife put up with his strange life. He threw back his head and roared with laughter.

"Three times," he said. "Three times she threw me out—but now she's resigned to it. The first time was funny. I came home from the beach about 10 p. m. and I found the laundry bag outside the door.

"I knew that was unusual, because it was Sunday night and the laundry doesn't go until Monday. Then I discovered all my possessions in the bag. When I knocked on the locked door, she yelled 'Go on, ya bum ya! Pitch your tepee on the beach! I'm tired of being a beach widow.'"

Ed regards rather ruefully one of his married daughters who lives in Bridgeport, Conn. She was "Miss Complexion of 1939" and today she lives what he considers the sinful life — eating white flour and the like. But if he has lost a daughter, he has gained a son. His other daughter and her husband live with Mr. and Mrs. Sorocki in Brooklyn—and Ed already has converted the husband into a health bug.

"I am a cheap guest," Ed said to me. "I don't drink a host's liquor, eat his food or smoke his cigars. My greatest troubles are, I can't catch cold, my hair grows too quickly because I am to healthy, and I can't worry.

"My mother-in-law used to get mad at me when the rent was due and I didn't have the money. 'Madam,' I would say, 'I give you the honor and pleasure of worrying about the rent. I cannot.'"

After Ed had left the office, I meditated a moment on the good life—and reached for my pipe. It tasted strange at first but after a while the old spell worked, and there I was, puffing away like mad and enjoying sin and corruption as of old.

Series Of Tests May Give Answer To IQ Of Babies

Consist Of Reaction To Articles, Noises

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 26. (AP)—When the neighbors brag too much about their new baby, this question may stop them:

"Well, how high is his baby IQ?"

(IQ stands for "intelligence quotient," the relation of a person's intelligence to an average rating of 100.)

A group of psychologists at Northwestern University have devised a series of tests they believe will give the answer—even in infants as young as four weeks old.

Developed by A. R. Gilliland, professor of psychology at the university, the tests consist of 40 items administered by trained examiners. The tests already have been given to between 400 and 500 infants.

Examiner Keeps Chart

In the Gilliland test, the examiner keeps a chart on the various items which include:

Whether the infant compensates his head when pulled to a sitting position; closes his fingers around a rattle; blinks or averts his eyes in a strong light beam; focuses his eyes on a strip of metal tape; follows the tape when it is moved horizontally, vertically and circularly; investigates scraps of paper placed on face; reacts to ringing doorbell; watches a moving person; changes expression on seeing mask; looks to source of (rattle) sound, and diminishes activity on hearing music.

In early tests an infant often will not fix his eyes on tape. Later he will almost do so, but can only stare. Then he will follow it when it is swung parallel to his eyes. At six or eight weeks of age, he will follow the tape when it is swung in a vertical direction. Finally he will follow it when it is swung in a circle.

Variation Is Great

There is great variation in what different babies can do at any given age. This difference indicates the potential intelligence of the child in the tests.

Prof. Gilliland said the "utmost skill" was required to conduct and interpret the tests and added, "There is no use testing a baby who is sleeping or crying."

The test was developed at the request of adoption agencies. They wanted to know an infant's intelligence at the earliest possible age to facilitate adoption.

Charge Dismissed

A charge of "acting in a drunken and disorderly manner and disturbing the peace," brought against John Crabtree, Oldtown, was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in Trial Magistrates Court.

Crabtree pleaded not guilty. Court attaches said the charge was preferred by Mrs. Nettie Mencer, identified as Crabtree's landlady, following an alleged disturbance at her home February 18.

Six Men Join Regular Army

Six men, including three Piedmont, W. Va., negroes, were sent to Baltimore yesterday for processing after enlisting at the local Army and Air Force recruiting station, according to Lt. George J Gocke.

Six men, including three negroes from Piedmont, were sent to Baltimore today for processing into various branches of the Army, according to Lt. George Gocke, of the local Army and Air Force recruiting station.

Two Cumberland men, Jesse Ray Bean, 319 Broadway, and Robert Eugene Young, 320 Cecilia Street, both veterans, enlisted for three years in the Regular Army unassigned, and requested duty in the European Theatre of Operations.

Roy Thomas Spiker, East Railroad Street, Lonaconing, signed for three years in the Corps of Engineers, unassigned.

The three Piedmont men all enlisted for three years and requested assignment at the 130th Quartermasters Bakers' School, Camp Lee, Va.

FIELDS AGAIN WINS PRINT CONTEST

For the second successive month, Charles Fields won first place in the black and white print contest last night at the regular meeting of the Cumberland Camera Club at Knights of Malta Hall, Prospect Square.

His print, "Joan of Lorraine," taken at the recent Allegany High School play, was judged best by J. C. Warden. If Fields wins next month's contest he will gain permanent possession of the club trophy.

Other winners were R. P. Sitzler, second place, with "Winter Sun"; John R. King, who won third and fourth place with "In the Park" and "Christmas Card Motif," respectively; and J. B. Smith, fifth place, "The Empty Bowl."

In the color slide contest, judged by the entire club, Mr. Haggerty won first place with a slide entitled "Jefferson Memorial," while J. B. Smith placed second with his slide, "Tea Party."

Don Baker showed a set of color slides of the Near East. Jack Hirshizer won a quiz contest on photographic subjects.

Meeting Planned Tonight

Gephart Playground Association will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Gephart School. Plans for an expanded community program and improved recreation facilities for both summer and winter activities will be considered, according to E. M. Kirk, president of the association.

"We believe Cumberland's recreation problem can be solved by greater interest, hard work and a little financial assistance from the Mayor and City Council," Kirk said.

West Side Man Hurt In Family Argument

Donald S. Parker, 23, 311 Avirett Avenue, was reported in good condition last night in Allegany Hospital where he was admitted after suffering injuries in what police termed a family argument.

Parker, according to police, was struck over the head with a poker by his father-in-law, Grover C. VanMeter and suffered severe head lacerations. Police said VanMeter, charged with disorderly conduct was released from jail on $20 bond pending Parker's release from the hospital. Parker also is charged with disorderly conduct, according to police.

The injured man was attempting to intervene in an argument between VanMeter and his wife when he was struck, authorities reported.

Series Of Tests May Give Answer To IQ Of Babies

Consist Of Reaction To Articles, Noises

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 26. (AP)—When the neighbors brag too much about their new baby, this question may stop them:

"Well, how high is his baby IQ?"

(IQ stands for "intelligence quotient," the relation of a person's intelligence to an average rating of 100.)

A group of psychologists at Northwestern University have devised a series of tests they believe will give the answer—even in infants as young as four weeks old.

Developed by A. R. Gilliland, professor of psychology at the university, the tests consist of 40 items administered by trained examiners. The tests already have been given to between 400 and 500 infants.

Examiner Keeps Chart

In the Gilliland test, the examiner keeps a chart on the various items which include:

Whether the infant compensates his head when pulled to a sitting position; closes his fingers around a rattle; blinks or averts his eyes in a strong light beam; focuses his eyes on a strip of metal tape; follows the tape when it is moved horizontally, vertically and circularly; investigates scraps of paper placed on face; reacts to ringing doorbell; watches a moving person; changes expression on seeing mask; looks to source of (rattle) sound, and diminishes activity on hearing music.

In early tests an infant often will not fix his eyes on tape. Later he will almost do so, but can only stare. Then he will follow it when it is swung parallel to his eyes. At six or eight weeks of age, he will follow the tape when it is swung in a vertical direction. Finally he will follow it when it is swung in a circle.

Variation Is Great

There is great variation in what different babies can do at any given age. This difference indicates the potential intelligence of the child in the tests.

Prof. Gilliland said the "utmost skill" was required to conduct and interpret the tests and added, "There is no use testing a baby who is sleeping or crying."

The test was developed at the request of adoption agencies. They wanted to know an infant's intelligence at the earliest possible age to facilitate adoption.

Charge Dismissed

A charge of "acting in a drunken and disorderly manner and disturbing the peace," brought against John Crabtree, Oldtown, was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in Trial Magistrates Court.

Crabtree pleaded not guilty. Court attaches said the charge was preferred by Mrs. Nettie Mencer, identified as Crabtree's landlady, following an alleged disturbance at her home February 18.

Six Men Join Regular Army

Six men, including three Piedmont, W. Va., negroes, were sent to Baltimore yesterday for processing after enlisting at the local Army and Air Force recruiting station, according to Lt. George J. Gocke.

Six men, including three negroes from Piedmont, were sent to Baltimore today for processing into various branches of the Army, according to Lt. George Gocke, of the local Army and Air Force recruiting station.

Two Cumberland men, Jesse Ray Bean, 319 Broadway, and Robert Eugene Young, 320 Cecilia Street, both veterans, enlisted for three years in the Regular Army unassigned, and requested duty in the European Theatre of Operations.

Roy Thomas Spiker, East Railroad Street, Lonaconing, signed for three years in the Corps of Engineers, unassigned.

The three Piedmont men all enlisted for three years and requested assignment at the 130th Quartermasters Bakers' School, Camp Lee, Va.

FIELDS AGAIN WINS PRINT CONTEST

For the second successive month, Charles Fields won first place in the black and white print contest last night at the regular meeting of the Cumberland Camera Club at Knights of Malta Hall, Prospect Square.

His print, "Joan of Lorraine," taken at the recent Allegany High School play, was judged best by J. C. Warden. If Fields wins next month's contest he will gain permanent possession of the club trophy.

Other winners were R. P. Sitzler, second place, with "Winter Sun"; John R. King, who won third and fourth place with "In the Park" and "Christmas Card Motif," respectively; and J. B. Smith, fifth place, "The Empty Bowl."

In the color slide contest, judged by the entire club, Mr. Haggerty won first place with a slide entitled "Jefferson Memorial," while J. B. Smith placed second with his slide, "Tea Party."

Don Baker showed a set of color slides of the Near East. Jack Hirshizer won a quiz contest on photographic subjects.

Meeting Planned Tonight

Gephart Playground Association will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Gephart School. Plans for an expanded community program and improved recreation facilities for both summer and winter activities will be considered, according to E. M. Kirk, president of the association.

"We believe Cumberland's recreation problem can be solved by greater interest, hard work and a little financial assistance from the Mayor and City Council," Kirk said.

West Side Man Hurt In Family Argument

Donald S. Parker, 23, 311 Avirett Avenue, was reported in good condition last night in Allegany Hospital where he was admitted after suffering injuries in what police termed a family argument.

Parker, according to police, was struck over the head with a poker by his father-in-law, Grover C. VanMeter and suffered severe head lacerations. Police said VanMeter, charged with disorderly conduct was released from jail on $20 bond pending Parker's release from the hospital. Parker also is charged with disorderly conduct, according to police.

The injured man was attempting to intervene in an argument between VanMeter and his wife when he was struck, authorities reported.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

First Step Toward Solving Any Kind Of Problem Is To Face The Facts

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

There is nothing new in saying that the first step toward solving any kind of problem is to face the facts. But, old as it is, this elemental truth can hardly be stated too often, or too emphatically.

For however well we all know it, and however readily we admit it as a general proposition, when it gets right down to a specific problem of our own most of us will duck and dodge and run around every possible corner in order to evade meeting facts face to face.

A case in point is the position taken by one of my male correspondents in regard to his wife's drinking.

"Your recent article regarding a 'Drunken Husband' was very interesting," he writes, "and the writer, being a father and husband on the other side of the fence, would like your advice on a 'Drunken Wife.'

"We have been married about 25 years, have a family of three very fine children, two girls and a boy. Up to the last three years, everything has been very satisfactory, and no one could have asked for a finer or more peaceful home. But for some unknown reason, the wife and mother has seen fit to make the sherry bottle her boon companion, and has been inebriated practically every day and night."

Things have become so bad, this husband goes on to say, that the younger daughter, still in school, is obliged to take her books to a neighbor's in the evening, since the turmoil created by her mother makes it impossible for her to do any studying at home. The noise and abuse goes on all night, preventing the rest of the family from getting the sleep they need; then, when husband and children are out of the house, the mother spends the day sleeping off her drunk and getting ready to start things all over again the next evening.

"We all love Mother very much," the husband writes, "and have tried to help her in many ways. But she is adamant, arbitrary, and thinks everyone else is a drunkard but herself."

Having drawn such a picture, in which he presents what are no doubt the very stark and grim facts of the situation, this man then proceeds to do some quite astonishing fact-dodging.

"We have attended several AA (Alcoholics Anonymous) meetings," he says, "but they are all worse than she ever was, and she should not be classed as an alcoholic."

Now it may be true that his wife has not yet deteriorated to the point of physical, mental and moral disintegration reached by some alcoholics. But everything her husband writes about her behavior stamps her unmistakably as one, and he is simply trying to fool himself when he refuses to admit and accept that fact.

"I feel that our home is breaking up," his letter concludes, "and neither a mother nor a father should ruin the pleasant relations that have existed for so many years just because they want to be drunk and make life miserable for others. What is your suggestion?"

Well, my first suggestion is that this husband face the truth, however unpalatable it may be, that his wife is an alcoholic and that an alcoholic can be cured only when he or she, wants to be.

My second suggestion is that he have a personal talk with some individual member of Alcoholics Anonymous who would be in a position to give him some practical advice on how to handle his wife and help her to a realization of her condition and what she can do about it. I have the name and address of such an AA member in his own general vicinity who could, I am sure, give him this kind of advice. I will be glad to send him this information if he would like to have me do so and will let me know where I can address him.

Garrett County Tax Collections Reach New High

Receipts Amount To $85,000 For Year

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND — Payment of 1948 taxes reached a new high yesterday with receipts, according to Arthur H. Green, county treasurer, amounting to more than $85,000.

A large number of property owners have paid their taxes to take advantage of the five per cent discount available on county taxes until Saturday. There is no discount on state taxes.

The largest taxpayer in the county, the Pennsylvania Electric Company, sent in its check for $70,774.74, and other corporations and coal companies also paid this week, Green said.

Beginning March 1 the discount drops to four per cent and remains at that figure until the end of April.

Timber Regulations Opposed

The directors of the Garrett County Land and Timber Owners Protective Association unanimously agreed that the organization would continue to resist the regulations of the Forestry Board, according to Ralph Ault, secretary.

Ault said a large percentage of the directors attended a recent meeting in Accident with practically every election district represented by at least one director. He declared a large percentage of land and timber and also property owners seem strongly opposed to any sort of regulation by the forestry board. The directors also plan to enlarge the present organization, he said.

Pendergast Rites Held

A funeral service was conducted yesterday from St. Peter's Catholic Church for Miss Margaret C. Pendergast, 44, who died in St. Agnes Hospital, Baltimore, February 23. She was in ill health for four years.

Services were in charge of Rev. Lambert O'Hara, and interment was in Oakland Cemetery.

Miss Pendergast was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Pendergast, Corinth, W. Va. She was born in Cresaptown, and was a telephone operator in Baltimore for 20 years. She was a member of the Catholic church and the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin.

Surviving are her parents, two brothers, John Edward Pendergast, Washington, Pa.; and James Pendergast, at home; five sisters, Mrs. Frances Mulkeen, Pitchburg, Mass.; Mrs. Mary Griman, Mrs. Dorothy Pell, Mrs. Loretta Hauf and Miss Helen Pendergast, all of Baltimore.

Members of the organization will meet at Pickwick Inn Friday evening, March 5 for the dinner meeting.

Rat Poison

will be held at Oldtown for residents of that area.

McHenry said yesterday he has obtained for distribution enough poison, if properly and thoroughly used, to kill at least 25,000 rats. Two types of poison are chiefly recommended, since they were available in quantity here.

In placing the poison and participating in the campaign, McHenry said city and farm dwellers alike will be making a major contribution toward the saving of grain and other foodstuffs for shipment abroad, and will also eliminate many disease-bearing rodents, promoting more healthful surroundings.

Commenting on the two types of poison, McHenry prepared the following instructions which should be followed carefully, he said, as a matter of safety and to obtain the best results:

Two Types Poison

Rats consume Red Squill and Antu baits quite well, provided attractive foods are used with either one. Foods for bait should be selected that rats are not normally eating. Meats, fish and dog foods are quite good against rats on farms, normally subsisting on grain. Conversely, rolled oats or chicken mash would make good bait in a slaughter house where rats are normally subsisting on meat. Rats crave food they are not getting. Use this intelligence in selecting bait. Fresh foods are better than canned. Moist baits are better than dry. Fresh hamburger or fresh ground fish are best on farms. Canned moist dog food or canned salmon are next best. For dry baits, finely ground dog meal, chicken mash and corn meal can be used.

To outwit the wily rat, it is desirable to pre-bait for a few nights, that is, expose unpoisoned baits of several kinds in their runways. When it is decided what kind of food is preferred, rest a night or so and then come back with the preferred bait to which the poison has been added in its proper proportion.

During poison operations, cover all sources of food so far as possible to make the rats hungry. Empty self feeders, cover open bags of feed and grain bins, and protect garbage. Do not remove trash or block their runways until after baiting as this causes the rats to be suspicious.

Red Squill Bait

Red Squill is a rat destroyer which is relatively harmless to humans and domestic animals. Most animals except rats will not usually eat Red Squill bait. Squill has an emetic effect causing most animals to vomit the bait. Since rats can't vomit they are poisoned. Two ounces of Red Squill powder should be mixed with 18 ounces of food bait making 20 ounces of poisoned bait. This is sufficient for most farms. If not four ounces of Squill and 36 ounces of bait should be ample for any farm. Exercise caution by not breathing it or getting it on the hands or arms as it is irritating to the skin.

Lock up the dogs and cats as they might be tempted to eat such baits as hamburger or fish. Pigs are the most susceptible domestic animals to Red Squill, so baits should be placed out of their reach. Squill acts slowly, killing by respiratory paralysis.

Antu Rat Poison

Antu is the poison being used in the farm campaign. This is a new raticide developed during the war. Its toxicity is very high for the common Norway or brown rat. It is not effective against mice. It is a fine gray powder — insoluble in water, non-volatile and non-irritating to the human skin. It is usually better accepted by rats than powdered Red Squill and is about 40 times more toxic. The outstanding feature of Antu is its high toxicity to rats and relatively low toxicity to domestic animals and humans. In its pure form, however, Antu is not as safe as powdered Red Squill.

Dogs are quite susceptible to antu poisoning. Cats are somewhat more resistant. Adult poultry will not be poisoned if baits are accidently consumed. Baby chicks are susceptible. Pigs are susceptible but have to consume large amounts to cause death. Antu contains a tartar emetic causing animals, except rats to vomit. Rats can't vomit so they die. Usually one and one-half ounces are used with 30½ ounces of bait making 2 pounds. This is sufficient for most farms. It is, therefore, more economical than Red Squill as well as somewhat more effective.

Exercise Caution

Keep Antu out of the mouth. Don't eat or smoke while handling it. Wash utensils after using it. Keep poison out of reach of children, pets and irresponsible people. Lock up the dogs and cats and keep away from pigs.

With either Antu or Red Squill, place baits in teaspoon quantities where rats are known to feed — along walls, in corners, under floors, in bait boxes, etc. Bait the entire premise at one time. Make numerous bait placements in late afternoon or early evening. Collect and destroy all uneaten baits after two days. Antu kills rats by causing an acute lung dropsy. Death occurs usually within 12 to 48 hours.

If reasonable caution is exercised there will be no trouble. But should Antu poisoning occur, induce vomiting by sticking a finger in the throat, by drinking warm mustard water or by other means. Keep the patient warm and call a physician at once.

Explorers in New Guinea, four degrees south of the equator, had to break the ice in their wash basins in the morning.

Rat Poison

will be held at Oldtown for residents of that area.

McHenry said yesterday he has obtained for distribution enough poison, if properly and thoroughly used, to kill at least 25,000 rats. Two types of poison are chiefly recommended, since they were available in quantity here.

In placing the poison and participating in the campaign, McHenry said city and farm dwellers alike will be making a major contribution toward the saving of grain and other foodstuffs for shipment abroad, and will also eliminate many disease-bearing rodents, promoting more healthful surroundings.

Commenting on the two types of poison, McHenry prepared the following instructions which should be followed carefully, he said, as a matter of safety and to obtain the best results:

Two Types Poison

Rats consume Red Squill and Antu baits quite well, provided attractive foods are used with either one. Foods for bait should be selected that rats are not normally eating. Meats, fish and dog foods are quite good against rats on farms, normally subsisting on grain. Conversely, rolled oats or chicken mash would make good bait in a slaughter house where rats are normally subsisting on meat. Rats crave food they are not getting. Use this intelligence in selecting bait. Fresh foods are better than canned. Moist baits are better than dry. Fresh hamburger or fresh ground fish are best on farms. Canned moist dog food or canned salmon are next best. For dry baits, finely ground dog meal, chicken mash and corn meal can be used.

To outwit the wily rat, it is desirable to pre-bait for a few nights, that is, expose unpoisoned baits of several kinds in their runways. When it is decided what kind of food is preferred, rest a night or so and then come back with the preferred bait to which the poison has been added in its proper proportion.

During poison operations, cover all sources of food so far as possible to make the rats hungry. Empty self feeders, cover open bags of feed and grain bins, and protect garbage. Do not remove trash or block their runways until after baiting as this causes the rats to be suspicious.

Red Squill Bait

Red Squill is a rat destroyer which is relatively harmless to humans and domestic animals. Most animals except rats will not usually eat Red Squill bait. Squill has an emetic effect causing most animals to vomit the bait. Since rats can't vomit they are poisoned. Two ounces of Red Squill powder should be mixed with 18 ounces of food bait making 20 ounces of poisoned bait. This is sufficient for most farms. If not four ounces of Squill and 36 ounces of bait should be ample for any farm. Exercise caution by not breathing it or getting it on the hands or arms as it is irritating to the skin.

Lock up the dogs and cats as they might be tempted to eat such baits as hamburger or fish. Pigs are the most susceptible domestic animals to Red Squill, so baits should be placed out of their reach. Squill acts slowly, killing by respiratory paralysis.

Antu Rat Poison

Antu is the poison being used in the farm campaign. This is a new raticide developed during the war. Its toxicity is very high for the common Norway or brown rat. It is not effective against mice. It is a fine gray powder — insoluble in water, non-volatile and non-irritating to the human skin. It is usually better accepted by rats than powdered Red Squill and is about 40 times more toxic. The outstanding feature of Antu is its high toxicity to rats and relatively low toxicity to domestic animals and humans. In its pure form, however, Antu is not as safe as powdered Red Squill.

Dogs are quite susceptible to antu poisoning. Cats are somewhat more resistant. Adult poultry will not be poisoned if baits are accidently consumed. Baby chicks are susceptible. Pigs are susceptible but have to consume large amounts to cause death. Antu contains a tartar emetic causing animals, except rats to vomit. Rats can't vomit so they die. Usually one and one-half ounces are used with 30½ ounces of bait making 2 pounds. This is sufficient for most farms. It is, therefore, more economical than Red Squill as well as somewhat more effective.

Exercise Caution

Keep Antu out of the mouth. Don't eat or smoke while handling it. Wash utensils after using it. Keep poison out of reach of children, pets and irresponsible people. Lock up the dogs and cats and keep away from pigs.

With either Antu or Red Squill, place baits in teaspoon quantities where rats are known to feed — along walls, in corners, under floors, in bait boxes, etc. Bait the entire premise at one time. Make numerous bait placements in late afternoon or early evening. Collect and destroy all uneaten baits after two days. Antu kills rats by causing an acute lung dropsy. Death occurs usually within 12 to 48 hours.

If reasonable caution is exercised there will be no trouble. But should Antu poisoning occur, induce vomiting by sticking a finger in the throat, by drinking warm mustard water or by other means. Keep the patient warm and call a physician at once.

Explorers in New Guinea, four degrees south of the equator, had to break the ice in their wash basins in the morning.

First Overloading Cases Tried Here

Operators of two coal trucks found bearing alleged overloads were acquitted yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court and a fine and costs totaling $27 were suspended in the case of a third driver by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew as the result of technicalities in the resolution of the State Roads Commission.

Found not guilty on the overweight charges filed by State Troopers Milton Hart and Thomas Barton were Melvin W. Nave and Harry L. Davis.

The other driver was identified as Virgil J. Frost. The truck operators, all employed by the Howell Coal Company, 315 North Centre Street, were not present at the hearing. They were arrested Tuesday.

In the case of Frost, Magistrate Perdew suspended the fine and costs. In a notation on the docket explaining his reason for suspending sentence, Magistrate Perdew said: "This is done in view of the misleading interpretation of what the resolution of the State Roads Commission meant, as applied to vehicles hauling coal, as reported by the Associated Press, which did not make any distinction between double and single-wheeled vehicles. The truck in this case was single-wheeled."

Testimony showed that employes of the State Roads Commission posted signs along Route 40 in the Clarysville section and on Route 35 Friday night to curb the overweighing of trucks blamed for damaging highways.

The signs, it was stated, said the gross load for two-axle carriers was limited to 20,000 pounds while three-axle vehicles were limited to 36,000 pounds. Trooper Barton said the two-axle machine driven by Frost weighed 26,300 pounds, and Trooper Hart reported that the load of the Nave vehicle totaled 44,000 pounds and that of the other 45,000 pounds.

David Kauffman, attorney for Howell, argued that a recent stipulation added to the State Roads Commission resolution, made in conjunction with the State Fuel Coordinator, stated that the load of three-axle carriers was upped to 45,000 pounds for trucks traveling direct from the mines to distributors.

It was said the trucks were headed for the Potomac Edison Company without a scheduled stop at the distributors.

Howell told Magistrate Perdew he read a newspaper article and was under the impression that coal trucks were exempt from the weighing in process. No mention was made of two-axle carriers, he reported.

G. Bates Chaires, district roads engineer, appeared in court with the resolution and explained that it was set up to help long distance hauling from mines to areas hard hit for coal as the result of a shortage of box cars.

Yesterday's cases were the first to be brought into court since the weight restrictions were enforced in an effort to prevent excessive road damage because of the thawing of frost conditions.

Motorists Forfeit $79.15 In Bonds

Thirteen motorists, eight of whom were arrested by State Police in the Bowling Green section, forfeited bonds totaling $79.15 when they failed to appear yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of violating state motor laws.

Forfeiting $6.45 each for exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 220 at Roberts Place during the past two weeks were:

Raymond J. Athey, 211 Springdale Street; John A. Chapman, 431 Independence Street; Paul Heuer, 804 Bedford Street, and William R. Zinn, 808 North Mechanic Street. All four were arrested by State Trooper Thomas Barton.

Brice E. Weese, Wiley Ford, forfeited $6.45 for speeding at Bowling Green on February 17, and Wilda M. Harrison, Route 5, this city, forfeited the same amount for passing a school bus on Route 220 at Fairgo February 18. Trooper Barton made the arrests.

Charged with exceeding the speed limit on Route 40 in the Narrows on February 18, Edward F. Mooney, Dudley Street, Lonaconing, forfeited $6.45 bond. James E. Ricker, Midland, forfeited $6.45 for exceeding 30 in LaVale, and Marion Leo VanAusdale, Route 1, forfeited $5.45 for failing to halt at a stop sign in LaVale. Trooper George E. Coddington preferred charges.

Bernard N. Ruckman, Route 3, forfeited $5.75 for exceeding 30 on Route 220, and Charles Barkman, Everett, Pa., forfeited $6.45 for speeding on Route 40 at Long Hill. Both were arrested yesterday by Trooper John F. Browning.

H. S. Calaen, Bowden, W. Va., forfeited $3.45 for exceeding 30 on Route 220 last Friday. He was apprehended by Trooper Coddington.

Darrell C. McCabe, Mt. Lake Park, forfeited $6.45 for exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 220 at the Celanese plant. He was arrested February 17 by Trooper Milton Hart.

Another motorist, Richard Allen Morgan, Mt. Savage, pleaded guilty to a charge of exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 220 and was fined $5.75 by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr. Morgan was arrested last Saturday by Trooper Coddington.

In Police Court, Meyer Jaskulek, 111 South George Street, was fined $5 for speeding on Greene Street, and Charles L. Kemp, Rawlings, forfeited $10 bond on a careless driving charge preferred Wednesday. Police said Jaskulek was traveling 55 miles an hour when nabbed by Officer R. W. Lashley.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26 (INS)—When I heard that Eddie Golding was preparing a treatment of Marcia Davenport's story, "East Side, West Side," at M-G-M, and would possibly direct it, I started reminiscing.

Louella Parsons

The last picture made at M-G-M was "Riptide" with Norma Shearer and Herbert Marshall. I was going over some of my old photographs, a few days ago, and I saw one of Norma, Bart and myself rehearsing a scene from "Riptide." It was the first motion picture to be acted on the radio in preview form, and after it was done the late Irving Thalberg thought so much of it that he repeated the program as an advertisement for the picture.

That was 14 years ago—1934 to be exact—when last my friend Goulding was at M-G-M.

Dorothy Stickney (Mrs. Howard Lindsay in private life,) comes back to Hollywood in a week or so to make a movie after a five years absence. This is because my good friend, Charlie Brackett, called the Lindsays at their country home and talked a wonderful job of selling her the role of Monty Woolley's wife in "Tatlock Millions."

She should find playing a wife comes easy after originating "Life With Father" on the stage and playing it for a solid and sold-out five years.

With Miss Stickney, the cast adds up to Monty, Wanda Hendrix, John Lund and Barry Fitzgerald. Not bad.

I don't suppose there's ever been a more popular series than "Hopalong Cassidy," which has been shown all over the world. These western movies, starring Bill Boyd, made Harry Sherman a fortune. More than 70 pictures in all were filmed, many more than "Andy Hardy," M-G-M's famous family saga.

Now Harry has another western serial on his mind. He's bought the rights to W. C. Tuttle's series "Hashknife," featuring Hashknife and Sleepy. He'll give "Hashknife", the same treatment as "Hopalong."

Joel McCrea, who is going to do an Indian yarn for Sherman, is discussing a deal to play Hashknife —(What a name).

Sonny Tufts has been dieting like crazy to take off poundage—but that isn't what landed him in the Cedars of Lebanon hospital.

For several years he has been suffering severe headaches caused by an injury he received skiing seven years ago. Now his doctors tell him that his back was broken at the time, and that he should have been in a cast for a year and that it is amazing he is alive.

It seems that three weeks after the accident, Sonny got up to attend the funeral of his father and forgot all about his back. The spine grew back in place with a slight curvature.

All I can say is that Sonny is tough. Broken backs are regarded as a fatal injury in most cases.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: I am very glad Claude Jarman's option was taken up, and I want to be among the first to congratulate him and M-G-M. My little friend of "The Yearling" has been waiting for the word.

Bop Topping arrives in town tomorrow. He took the train Tuesday when Lana Turner begged him not to fly.

The Darryl Zanucks are back from Sun Valley, where, a little bird tells me, Virginia became very proficient on skis.

Someone was heckling Wally Vernon at Charley Foy's valley night club. Wally took it as long as he could, then he stopped and said, "I'm not a sunset strip entertainer, so I can't invite you outside."

Sue Carroll (Mrs. Alan Ladd in private life) has gone back into business. She has opened the Sue Carroll Studio, and has become an interior decorator. Sue is the active type that just has to work.

The fortnighter party Saturday will have Tyrone Power, the Ed Gardner's, Louis B. Mayer and other celebrities. Charlie Morrison is working hard to make it like the old Mayfair parties.

That's all today.

Mrs. Taft Guest On Meet The Press; Waring Takes Rest

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—A woman is to be the guest of Meet the Press on MBS at 10 p. m. Friday. She is Mrs. Martha Taft, wife of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. She is expected to be asked about her husband's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

After Friday's 10 a. m. concert on NBC Fred Waring is to leave his organization and take what is described as "his first vacation in more than ten years." While he is away others in the rather extensive staff will run his broadcasts, which include five AMs a week and one PM, Monday. Waring will be gone five weeks.

When Ike Williams, world lightweight champion, and Kid Gavilan, welterweight, meet before an ABC microphone at 10 p. m. Friday it will be an overweight bout.

K. T. Stevens who used to be on Broadway and has done movies will guest in the Mystery Theater of NBC at 10 The play "Double Disaster Clause."

Opinion Please, weekly discussion series of the CBS School of the Air, is to take up problems of community planning at 5. . Let's go to the Opera, will have Martha Lipton, mezzo soprano, and John Baker, baritone, as it previews for ABC at 4:30 Saturday's broadcast from the opera stage.

It is Mother-In-Law Queen For a Day on MBS at 2. In other words it will be a special mother-in-law selectee for the program's honors of varying descriptions.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Murder and Mr. Keen

"Mr. Keen, Tracer of Lost Persons" (C.B.S. 8:30 p. m. Thursdays) has a certain claim to attention, partly because he has been on the air eleven years but chiefly, to me at least, because his profession is easily one of the most curious I know. A man who earns his living tracking down people who have strayed from their normal orbit is certainly operating in a highly specialized field.

John Crosby

Mr. Keen's methods, it ought to be explained, differed greatly from those of the Missing Persons Bureau which keeps an eye out for the missing but doesn't necessarily go out looking for them. Keen, on the other hand, used to sniff around until he ran the misplaced person to earth. He used to, that is. He doesn't any more and there lies the basis of my complaint.

Right now—either because people don't get lost any more or because he got tired of the people who do—Mr. Keen is happily engaged in apprehending murderers. Now a murderer is not in the ordinary sense a missing person; or, at any rate, he is deliberately missing which isn't the same thing. As a private eye, Mr. Keen—if he has any first name I don't know what it is—is extraordinarily mild. He is a fussy, professorial, slightly dusty and immensely courteous gentleman. He addresses everyone as Mister This or Miss That with the exception of his assistant Mike Clancy who is too belligerently Irish to be called by anything but his first name.

I bring up Mr. Keen's gentle qualities because they are greatly at variance with his current activities. Once a week Mr. Keen, blinking a little but steadfast, finds himself staring down the muzzle of a gun. The man on the other end of the gun almost invariably announces that he is about to mow down Mr. Keen. According to all the regulations of the whodunit industry, the situation should be handled by Mr. Keen in person. In the nick of time he should throw a chair. But Mr. Keen isn't a man to throw chairs. In the first place, he's a thinker. In the second, he's much too nice to throw chairs. Consequently, to get him out of these predicaments, the man with the gun must stumble inadvertently over a cliff or fall down a well. He is forced by circumstances to dispose of himself since Mr. Keen is by nature incapable of disposing of him.

The whole thing makes me nervous and irritable. Some day there isn't going to be a cliff there or any well either. Then Mr. Keen will get seriously hurt. Fact of the matter is—and let's face it squarely—Mr. Keen isn't the right man for the job. He's much too kind and gentle for the murder profession. There are plenty of other people catching murderers on the air—Sam Spade, Nick Carter, Crime Photographer, Steve Wilson—all tough as nails and very, very fast with a chair. These people are in their element on the weather side of a gun. They wouldn't be happy anywhere else. Mr. Keen ought to go back to sniffing out missing people, nice people who never owned a gun and wouldn't know what to do with one if they did.

Why, the other day, the authors put the frail old gentleman on snowshoes; made him tromp for miles out to the scene of a cold and drafty murder. Probably caught his death of cold, poor thing, and was stiff as a board for weeks.

The Massachusetts House of Representatives has rejected a proposal to establish a board of censors to govern radio broadcasts, motion pictures and stage productions. The state's lawmakers decided that Massachusetts already had enough laws to protect its morals. In other words a radio comedian won't be able to leap to fame and fortune by being banned in Boston. He'll have to have some other talent besides that of arousing the moral hackles in the land of the bean and the cod.

Mrs. Taft Guest On Meet The Press; Waring Takes Rest

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—A woman is to be the guest of Meet the Press on MBS at 10 p. m. Friday. She is Mrs. Martha Taft, wife of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. She is expected to be asked about her husband's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

After Friday's 10 a. m. concert on NBC Fred Waring is to leave his organization and take what is described as "his first vacation in more than ten years." While he is away others in the rather extensive staff will run his broadcasts, which include five AMs a week and one PM, Monday. Waring will be gone five weeks.

When Ike Williams, world lightweight champion, and Kid Gavilan, welterweight, meet before an ABC microphone at 10 p. m. Friday it will be an overweight bout.

K. T. Stevens who used to be on Broadway and has done movies will guest in the Mystery Theater of NBC at 10 The play "Double Disaster Clause."

Opinion Please, weekly discussion series of the CBS School of the Air, is to take up problems of community planning at 5. . Let's go to the Opera, will have Martha Lipton, mezzo soprano, and John Baker, baritone, as it previews for ABC at 4:30 Saturday's broadcast from the opera stage.

It is Mother-In-Law Queen For a Day on MBS at 2. In other words it will be a special mother-in-law selectee for the program's honors of varying descriptions.

Murder and Mr. Keen

"Mr. Keen, Tracer of Lost Persons" (C.B.S. 8:30 p. m. IN MEMORIAM

ANDERSON—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, Margaret, who passed away one year ago today, February 27, 1947.
We saw you fading like a flower,
But could not make you stay.
We nursed you with tender kindness,
Until God called you away.
Long days, long nights, you bore your pain,
Waiting for cure, but all in vain;
God saw that; that you were suffering,
And the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed your weary eyes and whispered,
"Peace be thine."
To those who have a mother,
Tender her with care;
You never know her value,
Until you see her vacant chair.
For we had a wonderful mother—
That, mother, was you.
HER LOVING CHILDREN.

Today is a day of rememberance,
A day of sad regrets,
A day we will always remember
When the rest of the world forgets.
Sadly missed by his wife and children.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness to us in our bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Mark P. Healy. We especially wish to thank those who sent Mass Cards, floral tributes and those who donated the use of their automobiles.

IN MEMORIAM

ANDERSON—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, Margaret, who passed away one year ago today, February 27, 1947.
We saw you fading like a flower,
But could not make you stay.
We nursed you with tender kindness,
Until God called you away.
Long days, long nights, you bore your pain,
Waiting for cure, but all in vain;
God saw that; that you were suffering,
And the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed your weary eyes and whispered,
"Peace be thine."
To those who have a mother,
Tender her with care;
You never know her value,
Until you see her vacant chair,
For we had a wonderful mother—
That, mother, was you.
HER LOVING CHILDREN.

In memory of my husband, Clarke D. Rinker, who departed this life four years ago today, February 27th, 1944.
Today is a day of remembrance,
A day of sad regrets,
A day we will always remember
When the rest of the world forgets.
Sadly missed by his wife and children.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness to us in our bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Mark P. Healy. We especially wish to thank those who sent Mass Cards, floral tributes and those who donated the use of their automobiles.
HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Elsie M. Murray, Plaintiff vs. Ernest A. Murray, Defedant, No. 20515 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.
The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The bill states that the parties were married at Somerset, Pennsylvania, on the 13th day of December, 1933; that no children were born of this marriage; that the defendant deserted the plaintiff on the 28th day of June, 1942, without just cause or reason, and that said desertion has been continuous and uninterrupted since said date, is deliberate and final and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff has resided in Allegany County for more than two years next before the filing of this suit, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and his present address and whereabouts unknown to the plaintiff.
It is thereupon this 8th day of February, 1948, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 8th day of March, 1948, give notice to the non-resident defendant of the object and substance of this suit, warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 24th day of March, 1948, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.
ROBERT JACKSON, Clerk.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The bill states that the parties were married at Somerset, Pennsylvania, on the 13th day of December, 1931; that no children were born of this marriage; that the defendant deserted the plaintiff on the 28th day of June, 1942, without just cause or reason, and that said desertion has been continuous and uninterrupted since said date, is deliberate and final and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff has resided in Allegany County for more than two years next before the filing of this suit, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and his present address and whereabouts unknown to the plaintiff.
It is thereupon this 5th day of February, 1948, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 8th day of March, 1948, give notice to the non-resident defendant of the object and substance of this suit, warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 24th day of March, 1948, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

C. & W. Transit Company Asks PSC For Fare Raise

Would Hike Ticket Rate 10-15 Per Cent

The Public Service Commission has been asked to grant the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company a flat five cent increase on all cash fares exceeding 35 cents and a 10 to 15 per cent hike on ticket fares, Adolf Blunk, company president, announced last night.

Application for the increase was filed with the PSC February 19, according to Blunk, who said the new rates will become effective March 21, if approval is granted.

The company, which operates buses between Cumberland and Westernport, via Frostburg, and to the Celanese and Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plants, would increase cash rates by a flat five cents on all fares over 35 cents, Blunk explained.

The 10 to 15 per cent hike in ticket rates would apply to all types, Blunk declared, adding that the company also plans to discontinue the present system of selling four tickets for 50 cents to LaVale commuters.

Some Fares Unaffected

Discontinuance of the LaVale tickets, according to Blunk, would mean that commuters from that district would be required to pay a flat 15 cents per trip rate, the same cash fare they pay now.

Cash fares between Frostburg and Cumberland or Frostburg and Westernport would not be affected, Blunk said, since the present fare is exactly 35 cents, but fares for longer trips would jump five cents, if the application is approved by the PSC.

The increase would also affect most workers using C. and W. buses to commute between home and work at either the Celanese or Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plants, since they usually purchases tickets. Their fares would increase between 10 and 15 per cent, Blunk stated.

The increase will automatically become effective March 21, unless the PSC requests a hearing, Blunk declared, adding that he has received no indication to date that a hearing will be called.

Frank Harper, executive secretary for the Public Service Commission, Baltimore, said the C. and W. application was filed with the commission and will become effective 30 days from date of filing unless a protest hearing is requested. Harper said a request for hearing has not been filed.

Fares Increased In 1941

The C. and W. Transit Company was granted an across the board increase of five cents on cash fares in 1941, according to Blunk, who said a minor hike was also made on ticket fares at the same time.

The company is compelled to seek the increase in fare rates at this time, according to Blunk, because

Capt. Askey Will Have Charge Of S. A. Outpost

Capt. Joseph Askey, Fairmont, W. Va., will arrive here next Wednesday to begin his work as officer in charge of the Salvation Army Outpost, 511 Virginia Avenue, Maj. Elmer Wall, commander of Salvation Army work in Cumberland, announced yesterday.

Capt. Askey will succeed Capt. and Mrs. Lynn Wiseman, who will leave here early next week to assume command in Grafton, W. Va.

Assisting Capt. Askey at the Outpost will be Lt. Everett Case, Baltimore, who also has received his farewell orders and is due here next Wednesday.

Both Capt. Askey and Lt. Case completed their Salvation Army course of training at Atlanta Training College in June, 1947, in the same class as Capt. and Mrs. Wiseman.

Capt. Wiseman, who came to this city January 8, 1947, to take charge of the Outpost which had been remodeled after being badly damaged by fire, will preach his farewell sermon Sunday at 8 p. m. at the Outpost.

Blind Man Changes Business Location

Wallace E. Gum, blind proprietor of a confection stand at the County Building, Union Street, since October 28, 1946, yesterday moved his business to the Public Safety Building, Frederick Street.

Max R. Rouch, business councilor for the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, said the move was necessitated because of the reduced traffic in the county building since the draft and rationing boards there were closed.

Tentative List Of Yearly Port Fees Approved

Operation Of Field May Begin Sunday

A tentative schedule of annual fees to be charged for various types of operations at the Cumberland Municipal Airport was approved unanimously last night at a meeting of the Municipal Airport Commission in City Hall.

John DelaGrange, president of Mountain Air Service, Inc., was granted permission to begin operating the field on Sunday, a day ahead of March 1, the date the corporation's two-year lease agreement takes effect.

Aircraft sales and sale of replacement parts, $150 per year plus three per cent of the gross sales.

Service and maintenance, $500 per shop. Independent mechanics, who must be accredited by the commission, will be charged a monthly fee of $25.

Sale of parts, accessories and supplies, $250.

Sale of gasoline and oil, $300.

Flying school and aircraft rental, $500 per plane.

Rental of aircraft only, $300 per plane.

Passenger charter service, $100 per year per passenger seat.

Miscellaneous operations, such as photography and advertising, $100.

Operators handling flying school and charter rental, of aircraft, local passenger service or passenger charter service must provide adequate liability and property damage insurance.

The motion to approve the fee schedule was made by Adolf Blunk and seconded by Arthur Weber. G. Wyatt Brenaman expressed the view the proposed schedule provides a "fair basis" of fees.

A proposed budget for the 1948-49 fiscal year was submitted by Charles F. Heller, airport maintenance foreman, who estimated maintenance costs at $7,860. The figure include salaries, truck and tractor repairs, and repairs to roads and storm sewers, as well as $500 for repairs to hangars as agreed upon earlier by the commission.

Estimate Is Lower

The commission voted to recommend to the Mayor and Council that the budget be approved. Chairman Edmund S. Burke pointed out that Heller's budget estimate is about $1,200 less than his budget request last year.

Heller emphasized that his estimate does not include any allowance for clearing the main entrance road in the event of an earth slide, which he said might occur at any time because of loose earth on the hill at that point.

Oscar Gurley said he has been notified by the Civil Aeronautics Administration that funds up to $10,000 will be available within 30 days for use in making a survey at the airport regarding formulation of a master plan for future development.

The commission voted to recommend that, providing the CAA makes funds available to the city, an application be made for an amount sufficient to cover the cost of preparing such a master plan.

Burke said he has written to Robert M. Love, president of All-American, Inc., which has been granted a permit to operate here by the Civil Aeronautics Board, asking when service is likely to start and pledging the support of the commission. The chairman said he has received no reply as yet.

A letter from W. Donald Smith, suggesting a minimum yearly privilege charge of $100 for all fixed base operators at the local port, will be turned over to Secretary T. Donald Shires for reply. Brenaman served as acting secretary in Shires' absence.

Seeks Charter Service

Fred Borden attended the meeting to make application for operating passenger charter service at the airport. The commission took the application under advisement.

DeleGrange said under West Virginia state law a 15 per cent transportation tax is levied on passenger rides and charter service. The commission granted his request to adjust his schedule of charges accordingly.

DelaGrange pointed out that the tax will bring his charge to $1.75 for each passenger ride, while the PIPE PLANT SITE—Installation of equipment has begun on the new concrete pipe plant in Ridgeley, W. Va., where pipe for the new water line from Lake Gordon will be manufactured. The plant is being installed on land leased from the Western Maryland Railway Company by the Lock Joint Pipe Company, East Orange, N. J. Framework of one of the new structures can be seen on the left of the crane which was used to unload the large rolls of reinforcing steel (shown piled at the left and right) to be used in the pipes. The plant is expected to employ about 50 men and operate approximately a year.

PE, Bus Union Will Meet Sunday To Avoid Strike

Hope To Break Long Deadlock

Arranged as a last-minute effort to avoid a strike of city bus drivers, a meeting between Potomac Edison Company officials and the negotiating committee of the AFL drivers' union has been arranged for 8 p. m. Sunday, Henry W. Price, PE Cumberland district manager, announced last night.

The contract between the company and the union, Local Division 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, expires at midnight Sunday.

At the close of negotiations Wednesday, John M. Elliott, international representative of the union, said a strike of the drivers at midnight Sunday appeared "unavoidable."

Price, in announcing that the meeting has been arranged for Sunday night, declared:

"I certainly hope that a satisfactory agreement can be reached so that we will have no stoppage of transportation and that our patrons will not be inconvenienced."

There is a distinct possibility that Conciliator James A. Holden, of the United States Conciliation Service, will be present at the meeting, scheduled to be held in Price's office on Union Street.

The union membership now is scheduled to meet at 2 a. m. Monday to act on a company proposal. What effect the last minute negotiation meeting will have on this session remained a matter of conjecture last night.

Before leaving Elliott said the company made one offer to the membership of 10 cents when negotiations were first begun but explained that it was equal to only six and three-quarter cents, while the union is asking for a flat 18 cent pay hike. The company said it offered 12 cents, but Elliott said the additional two cents would result from cutting off that amount from report and turning time and adding it to the hourly rate.

Other disputed points, according to Elliott, were a union shop, an improved vacation plan and increased differential pay for shop workers on the night and cateye shifts.

Elliott said the company offer of 10 cents would be re-submitted to the membership at the Monday morning meeting but said he expected it to be rejected.

The 10-cent offer, according to Elliott, would amount to only six and three-quarter cents since the company indicated it would rescind an $85 annual clothing allowance granted in last year's negotiations.

Time Extended To File Answer In LaVale Case

Upon a petition filed by Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, Chief Judge William A. Huster has extended the time for filing answers in the suit brought by a number of residents of District 29 to have the referendum held for the LaVale Sanitary set aside.

Judge Huster, in Circuit Court, gave the defendants, Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., William H. Lemmert and James Holmes, county commissioners, and William A. Strother, tax collector, until March 8 to file an answer showing why the petition of the plaintiffs should not be granted.

The petition was filed by William A. Gunter, F. Brooke Whiting and D. Lindley Sloan, attorneys for Violet McGill, and a score of other residents of the district, who claim they shall be required to pay taxes on their holdings under the proposed Sanitary District, but will receive none of the benefits.

The Sanitary District for LaVale plan was put to referendum, as a means of providing an adequate water supply for the city's largest suburban area, proponents claim.

In the meantime, David and Harry Kauffman, attorneys, have filed a petition for intervention in the suit, and have been granted the right by the Court to become parties in the defense of the case.

The two attorneys represent Miles G. Thompson, Roy C. Lottig, Blair V. Welsh, Edward W. Dressman, Harry B. Klosterman, Thomas G. Ward, Ethel A. Bete, D. Clifford Goodfellow, Reese Hardman, Charles R. Wherrit, Dr. Emerson E. Loar, Daisy H. Barger, Elmer R. Bachtell, Jr., Waverly F. Rice, Henry H. Lowery, Charles A. Huppert, Robert H. Mayer, John W. Ritchie, John A. Chapman, Alston H. Robinette.

Frank H. Heiskell, Richard B. Young, William F. Klosterman, Claude O. Twigg, Walter F. Hymes, Margaret Lytle, Grace C. Pomeroy, E. Floyd White, Clarence W. Yergan, Elmer C. Lancaster, Anthony Wintermyer, Eugene C. Kreissig, Edna Snowden, Franklin R. Lear, Blanche S. Freeman, Gertrude Paddleford, Robert S. Klosterman and William H. Wiegand, residents and property owners of the LaVale area.

Father Reinhart Dies Of Injuries After Car Crash

Emmitsburg Priest Was Native Of Cumberland

Rev. Thomas D. Reinhart, 68, pastor of St. Anthony's Shrine, Emmitsburg, and a native of this city, died last night at 8:30 o'clock in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile crash Wednesday afternoon.

Father Reinhart suffered a head and eye injury and body fractures when his car left the road and crashed against a tree near Hagerstown as he was returning to Emmitsburg after visiting members of his family here.

He had been suffering from a heart condition for about a year and it was thought that he suffered a heart attack when the crash occurred. Father Reinhart told hospital attaches the accident occurred when he suddenly "blacked out" while at the wheel.

His condition was reported improved late Wednesday night and there was not much change in his condition yesterday morning.

He was born in Cumberland in 1879, a son of the late Francis and Mary A. Downey Reinhart.

Father Reinhart attended St. Patrick's School and Central Commercial College here before beginning his theological training in St. Charles College, Baltimore.

He was ordained in 1909 after completing studies in St. Mary's Seminary.

Surviving are two brothers, Harry F. Reinhart and Wiliam L. Reinhart, and one sister, Miss Ella M. Reinhart, all of 825 Mt. Royal Avenue.

William Reinhart is now visiting in Florida but is expected to return here by tomorrow.

Ballistics Workers Get Wage Increase

All 300 employes of the Allegany Balistics Laboratory will receive a flat $4 weekly wage increase, according to O. B. Case, manager of the laboratory.

Case said a contract was signed yesterday by the Chemical Workers Union, AFL, and the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, providing for a wage increase and a cost of living bonus.

Certain skilled craftsmen such as mechanics, electricians and other tradesmen will receive an additional three cents per hour wage hike. Two weeks paid vacations are also included.

Pastor's Condition Is Reported "Fair"

Dr. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church, who was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock after he became suddenly ill at his home, 500 Washington Street, was reported in "fair" condition late last night.

Attaches added Dr. Michael was resting fairly comfortably but said he was not allowed to have visitors. Mrs. Michael, who was admitted to the same hospital for observation about five days ago, returned to her home yesterday.

Receives Bronze Star

Robert Harrison Martin, pharmacist's mate second class, USNR, 319 Maryland Avenue, was presented the Bronze Star Medal by John L. Sullivan, Secretary of the Navy, for the President.

Martin received the award for heroic service as a hospital corpsman during operations against enemy Japanese forces on Peleliu, Palau Islands.

Temperature Reading

Weather cleared late last night after a cloudy day during which .16 of an inch of rain fell. Mercury at 11 p. m. was 46 above, with a minimum of 41 reported earlier in the morning. At 8 a. m. yesterday mercury stood at 43, but during the day climbed to a maximum of 57 above. The above freezing temperatures thawed much of the remaining ice and snow, although some snow is still reported in the mountains. The weatherman predicted cloudiness and some rain for today, with not too much change in temperature.

Myers G. Light Favors Home Rule; Questions Need Of City Manager

Street Commissioner Myers G. Light said yesterday he favors home rule but that he does not see "where and how the city manager form of government would benefit the city at all."

Light, who is running for re-election to his second term, prepared a statement in reply to a published request by Isaac Hirsch that candidates for City Council in next month's elections express their views on home rule and the city manager question. His statement follows:

"I am not in a position to argue either for or against a city manager because I do not know anything about city managership. I have never studied city managership in any city that had a previous form of government. I do not know what caused those cities to change over to the city manager form of government. They must have had cause to do it. I do not know what that cause was other than possibly there was a lot of 'dead wood' on the payrolls in those cities.

"Personally, under our present system, I cannot see anything wrong with our form of city government. Now, I realize that in order to secure a competent, efficient city manager for a city the size of Cumberland . . . a city of approximately 45,000 people . . . with an assessment value of something over $50,0000,000 . . . in order to secure a man who would qualify to run a city of this size, I would imagine you would have to pay nothing less than $10,000 a year.

"Just what would this man do in order to have his salary? We in the City of Cumberland have no dead wood on our payrolls. Every man whose name appears on our payrolls has a job to do. Possibly in some of these other cities that have changed over to city manager form of government . . . I am not in a position to say . . . but possibly they have had a lot of dead wood on their payrolls. That condition does not exist in our city.

"Before we consider any change, let us see if the change would be justified, and what I mean by this is the first thing we will have to figure on is a man's salary.

"Just how would he save that salary? Would he reduce our present Police Department, or our Water Department? Would he reduce our present Fire Department? Would he reduce the personnel in the City Hall? Would he reduce the Street, Alley and Sewer Departments? Would he reduce the personnel in our Health Department?

"As I said before, we have no dead timber on our payrolls. Just how would this man save his salary before he started to save anything for the taxpayers? I can buy material for my department, which is Street and Alley, just as cheap as he can. There would be no savings on large quantities of material. I cannot see where and how the city manager form of government for the City of Cumberland would benefit the city at all.

"Just a word about home rule. I am in favor of home rule, and this is the reason why. I feel that the City of Cumberland should make the job of Mayor and Commissioners attractive enough to induce good, sensible, sound thinking men to aspire for those positions at election time. I do feel that our city should be governed by men who do not live within our city boundaries. For instance, the legislator who lives in another part of the state, regardless of what part, has no financial, moral, or social interest in our city.

"The trouble as I see it is too much politics being played, and that is the thing we want to get away from. I feel that the Mayor and City Council whom the taxpayers and

Social Security Plan Is Reviewed By Life Insurance Underwriters

William W. Wood Jr., Outlines Program

Many persons who would otherwise lose benefits through delay in filing claims are directed to the local Social Security Administration office by insurance underwriters, William W. Wood, Jr., manager of the Cumberland office stated at the dinner meeting of Cumberland Life Underwriters Association last night in Central YMCA.

The Underwriters held a study and lecture period from 4 to 6 p. m. yesterday for the purpose of getting firsthand knowledge on the present Social Security program and how it can be made a part of the average individual's over-all insurance program.

Wood explained various phases of the government protection plan, outlined minimum and maximum benefits, and the insurance men discussed how these figures and life insurance coverage can be

Record Boom Is Seen In Flood, Dam Projects

Carroll Predicts Huge Employment

Allegany County will experience a "boom of unprecedented proportions" once the Savage River Dam and Cumberland - Ridgeley flood control projects go into full swing, Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local Maryland Employment Service office, declared yesterday.

Of course, Carroll warned, the preliminary phases of the two projects, which were approved by the United States House of Representatives yesterday, will not even take up the slack on the county's unemployment register, expected to reach 2,600 by March 1.

On the other hand, Carroll explained, Cumberland's auxiliary water line project, expected to get underway this summer, will have slight effect on the city's, let-alone, the county's unemployment problems.

Guess Not Feasible

The dam and flood projects, Carroll went on to explain, have not progressed far enough in the planning stage to permit even a guess at the actual employment figures that will result, but the resulting "boom" will easily be the biggest ever experienced in the county's history, he predicted.

Aside from allievating the unemployment problem, Carroll declared, the county's payrolls will swell to new highs and national industries seeking new locations will be attracted to the area by the initiative necessary to undertake such a program.

Cumberland, which Carroll described as the business center of the county, will feel the greatest effects of the two projects, he asserted, since much of the payroll money will eventually come into the city through the wholesale and retail trade centers.

The initial effects of the two projects will be slight, Carroll said, because most of the work will require highly skilled employes that contracting companies usually carry with them.

New Kind Of Security

The two projects, once underway, Carroll said, will give the citizens of the county a new kind of security that has been lacking here for years. The idea that the county is progressing and not lying dormant will be reflected in its citizens' actions, he stated.

The House Appropriations Committee earlier this week authorized $500,000 for the flood control project and an additional $400,000 for preliminary work to complete the Savage River Dam project.

The bill which contains both projects will be sent to the Senate today for final action before becoming effective.

Local Flood Control Measure Passes House

TO BE SPEAKER — City Attorney Thomas B. Finan will be the principal speaker at the kickoff dinner officially opening the 1948 county Red Cross fund campaign, to be held Monday night at Central YMCA. Finan was general chairman of last year's Red Cross drive.

Project Included In Appropriations

The House of Representatives yesterday approved the record $538,863,300 flood control and navigation construction program, which includes $500,000 for the flood control project for Cumberland and Ridgeley, W. Va., and $400,000 for completion of the Savage River Dam project.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall said the bill now goes to the Senate where he has every reason to believe it will be approved. He has already discussed the local projects as well as the general content of the measures with Sen. Millard E. Tydings and Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor, as well as members of the committee which will review the bill in the Senate.

Rep. Beall, who went to Frederick last night to attend a George Washington dinner, under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity in the Masonic Temple, said early passages by the Senate, and signature of the president will assure work getting underway here this summer. Rep. Beall took Rep. Percy Priest to the Frederick dinner, as guest speaker.

Covers Initial Phase Only

According to the office of the Army District Engineer in Washington, the $500,000 flood control appropriation for the Cumberland-Ridgeley project will enable the engineers to ask for bids on the initial stage and get work underway. The first part of the project calls for installation of new storm sewers and pressure conduits to prevent flash floods.

The total estimated cost of the local flood control project is $11,280,000. Of this amount, the local share is estimated at $2,310,000. Cumberland has authorization for bond issues totalling $1,500,000 and the county $1,000,000. The city has assumed Ridgeley's share of the costs.

Under the initial plan it is not known how much Cumberland will be required to provide, but the city must arrange for land and easements where new sewers and conduits are to be placed.

After the first phase of the project is completed, plans call for channel improvements of Wills Creek and the river, building of levees, and removal of the old Canal Dam.

A new industrial dam will be constructed above the junction of the river and creek.

The additional funds needed will be requested in later federal budgets, it is explained.

Savage Dam Included

The Savage River Dam project, already about 65 per cent completed, is classed as a flood control project for the Luke, Westernport, Piedmont area, and the measure provides $400,000 for completion. In addition, the Upper Potomac River Commission has $200,000 to be spent on the project.

As passed by the House, the appropriations bill provides $321,282,000 for general flood control, including $308,237,000 for new construction, $3,000,000 for planning, and $5,000,000 for preliminary surveys.

In addition, $60,000,000 is provided for flood control on the Lower Mississippi River and tributaries and $1,750,000 for the Sacramento River flood control project in California.

The waterways program approved by the House for the next fiscal year is 30 per cent greater than that for the current fiscal year, but is 20 per cent below President Truman's budget estimate.

MEAT SMOKES WRONG WAY---LOSS IS $200

A curing process got out of control yesterday in the rear of Frantz's Grocery Store, Ridgeley, W. Va., and 500 pounds of bologna became fuel for a fire that was meant only to cure it.

Ridgeley Fire Chief C. L. Rice, said the flames were extinguished when the volunteer company arrived but the bologna which was being smoked in a frame shed in the rear of the store was destroyed.

The wind blew sparks from a fire built under the meat into the frame covering, firemen said, adding there is a difference between smoked and burned bologna—about $200 worth of difference in this incident—the estimated loss, according to Chief Rice.

Coddington said he understood that the driver of the hit-run behicle stopped after the collision and engaged in an argument with the owner, but then drove away. He said the incident was not confirmed.

Police said the license tag number furnished by a witness to the accident was issued to a used car dealer in Baltimore. The vehicle was described as a 1936 Ford.

Trooper Coddington declared he did not know the extent of damage to either car, since he has not contacted the owner of the machine that was struck.

C. & W. Transit Company Asks PSC For Fare Raise

Would Hike Ticket Rate 10-15 Per Cent

The Public Service Commission has been asked to grant the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company a flat five cent increase on all cash fares exceeding 35 cents and a 10 to 15 per cent hike on ticket fares, Adolf Blunk, company president, announced last night.

Application for the increase was filed with the PSC February 19, according to Blunk, who said the new rates will become effective March 21, if approval is granted.

The company, which operates buses between Cumberland and Westernport, via Frostburg, and to the Celanese and Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plants, would increase cash rates by a flat five cents on all fares over 35 cents, Blunk explained.

The 10 to 15 per cent hike in ticket rates would apply to all types, Blunk declared, adding that the company also plans to discontinue the present system of selling four tickets for 50 cents to LaVale commuters.

Some Fares Unaffected

Discontinuance of the LaVale tickets, according to Blunk, would mean that commuters from that district would be required to pay a flat 15 cents per trip rate, the same cash fare they pay now.

Cash fares between Frostburg and Cumberland or Frostburg and Westernport would not be affected, Blunk said, since the present fare is exactly 35 cents, but fares for longer trips would jump five cents, if the application is approved by the PSC.

The increase would also affect most workers using C. and W. buses to commute between home and work at either the Celanese or Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plants, since they usually purchases tickets. Their fares would increase between 10 and 15 per cent, Blunk stated.

The increase will automatically become effective March 21, unless the PSC requests a hearing, Blunk declared, adding that he has received no indication to date that a hearing will be called.

Frank Harper, executive secretary for the Public Service Commission, Baltimore, said the C. and W. application was filed with the commission and will become effective 30 days from date of filing unless a protest hearing is requested. Harper said a request for hearing has not been filed.

Fares Increased In 1941

The C. and W. Transit Company was granted an across the board increase of five cents on cash fares in 1941, according to Blunk, who said a minor hike was also made on ticket fares at the same time.

The company is compelled to seek the increase in fare rates at this time, according to Blunk, because

Tentative List Of Yearly Port Fees Approved

Operation Of Field May Begin Sunday

A tentative schedule of annual fees to be charged for various types of operations at the Cumberland Municipal Airport was approved unanimously last night at a meeting of the Municipal Airport Commission in City Hall.

John DelaGrange, president of Mountain Air Service, Inc., was granted permission to begin operating the field on Sunday, a day ahead of March 1, the date the corporation's two-year lease agreement takes effect.

The schedule of annual fees is as follows:

Aircraft sales and sale of replacement parts, $150 per year plus three per cent of the gross sales.

Service and maintenance, $500 per shop. Independent mechanics, who must be accredited by the commission, will be charged a monthly fee of $25.

Sale of parts, accessories and supplies, $250.

Sale of gasoline and oil, $300.

Flying school and aircraft rental, $500 per plane.

Rental of aircraft only, $300 per plane.

Local passenger service (for flights in the immediate area) $100 per year per passenger seat.

Passenger charter service, $100 per year per passenger seat.

Freight charter service and hangar ground rent fees were not established, pending further study.

Miscellaneous operations, such as photography and advertising, $100.

Operators handling flying school and charter rental, of aircraft, local passenger service or passenger charter service must provide adequate liability and property damage insurance.

The motion to approve the fee schedule was made by Adolf Blunk and seconded by Arthur Weber. G. Wyatt Brenaman expressed the view the proposed schedule provides a "fair basis" of fees.

A proposed budget for the 1948-49 fiscal year was submitted by Charles F. Heller, airport maintenance foreman, who estimated maintenance costs at $7,860. The figure include salaries, truck and tractor repairs, and repairs to roads and storm sewers, as well as $500 for repairs to hangars as agreed upon earlier by the commission.

Estimate Is Lower

The commission voted to recommend to the Mayor and Council that the budget be approved. Chairman Edmund S. Burke pointed out that Heller's budget estimate is about $1,200 less than his budget request last year.

Heller emphasized that his estimate does not include any allowance for clearing the main entrance road in the event of an earth slide, which he said might occur at any time because of loose earth on the hill at that point.

Oscar Gurley said he has been notified by the Civil Aeronautics Administration that funds up to $10,000 will be available within 30 days for use in making a survey at the airport regarding formulation of a master plan for future development.

The commission voted to recommend that, providing the CAA makes funds available to the city, an application be made for an amount sufficient to cover the cost of preparing such a master plan.

Burke said he has written to Robert M. Love, president of All-American, Inc., which has been granted a permit to operate here by the Civil Aeronautics Board, asking when service is likely to start and pledging the support of the commission. The chairman said he has received no reply as yet.

A letter from W. Donald Smith, suggesting a minimum yearly privilege charge of $100 for all fixed base operators at the local port, will be turned over to Secretary T. Donald Shires for reply. Brenaman served as acting secretary in Shires' absence.

Seeks Charter Service

Fred Borden attended the meeting to make application for operating passenger charter service at the airport. The commission took the application under advisement.

DeleGrange said under West Virginia state law a 15 per cent transportation tax is levied on passenger rides and charter service. The commission granted his request to adjust his schedule of charges accordingly.

DelaGrange pointed out that the tax will bring his charge to $1.75 for each passenger ride, while the

PE, Bus Union Will Meet Sunday To Avoid Strike

Hope To Break Long Deadlock

Arranged as a last-minute effort to avoid a strike of city bus drivers, a meeting between Potomac Edison Company officials and the negotiating committee of the AFL drivers' union has been arranged for 8 p. m. Sunday, Henry W. Price, PE Cumberland district manager, announced last night.

The contract between the company and the union, Local Division 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, expires at midnight Sunday.

At the close of negotiations Wednesday, John M. Elliott, international representative of the union, said a strike of the drivers at midnight Sunday appeared "unavoidable."

Price, in announcing that the meeting has been arranged for Sunday night, declared:

"I certainly hope that a satisfactory agreement can be reached so that we will have no stoppage of transportation and that our patrons will not be inconvenienced."

There is a distinct possibility that Conciliator James A. Holden, of the United States Conciliation Service, will be present at the meeting, scheduled to be held in Price's office on Union Street.

The union membership now is scheduled to meet at 2 a. m. Monday to act on a company proposal. What effect the last minute negotiation meeting will have on this session remained a matter of conjecture last night.

Elliott, the union representative, who left Cumberland yesterday on business, will return to this city for the 8 p. m. meeting Sunday.

Before leaving Elliott said the company made one offer to the membership of 10 cents when negotiations were first begun but explained that it was equal to only six and three-quarter cents, while the union is asking for a flat 18 cent pay hike. The company said it offered 12 cents, but Elliott said the additional two cents would result from cutting off that amount from report and turning time and adding it to the hourly rate.

Other disputed points, according to Elliott, were a union shop, an improved vacation plan and increased differential pay for shop workers on the night and cateye shifts.

Elliott said the company offer of 10 cents would be re-submitted to the membership at the Monday morning meeting but said he expected it to be rejected.

The 10-cent offer, according to Elliott, would amount to only six and three-quarter cents since the company indicated it would rescind an $85 annual clothing allowance granted in last year's negotiations.

Time Extended To File Answer In LaVale Case

Upon a petition filed by Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, Chief Judge William A. Huster has extended the time for filing answers in the suit brought by a number of residents of District 29 to have the referendum held for the LaVale Sanitary set aside.

Judge Huster, in Circuit Court, gave the defendants, Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., William H. Lemmert and James Holmes, county commissioners, and William A. Strother, tax collector, until March 8 to file an answer showing why the petition of the plaintiffs should not be granted.

The petition was filed by William A. Gunter, F. Brooke Whiting and D. Lindley Sloan, attorneys for Violet McGill, and a score of other residents of the district, who claim they shall be required to pay taxes on their holdings under the proposed Sanitary District, but will receive none of the benefits.

The Sanitary District for LaVale plan was put to referendum, as a means of providing an adequate water supply for the city's largest suburban area, proponents claim.

In the meantime, David and Harry Kauffman, attorneys, have filed a petition for intervention in the suit, and have been granted the right by the Court to become parties in the defense of the case.

The two attorneys represent Miles G. Thompson, Roy C. Lottig, Blair V. Welsh, Edward W. Dressman, Harry B. Klosterman, Thomas G. Ward, Ethel A. Bete, D. Clifford Goodfellow, Reese Hardman, Charles R. Wherrit, Dr. Emerson E. Loar, Daisy H. Barger, Elmer R. Bachtell, Jr., Waverly F. Rice, Henry H. Lowery, Charles A. Huppert, Robert H. Mayer, John W. Ritchie, John A. Chapman, Alston H. Robinette.

Frank H. Heiskell, Richard B. Young, William F. Klosterman, Claude O. Twigg, Walter F. Hymes, Margaret Lytle, Grace C. Pomeroy, E. Floyd White, Clarence W. Yergan, Elmer C. Lancaster, Anthony Wintermyer, Eugene C. Kreissig, Edna Snowden, Franklin R. Lear, Blanche S. Freeman, Gertrude Paddleford, Robert S. Klosterman and William H. Father Reinhart Dies Of Injuries After Car Crash

Emmitsburg Priest Was Native Of Cumberland

Rev. Thomas D. Reinhart, 68, pastor of St. Anthony's Shrine, Emmitsburg, and a native of this city, died last night at 8:30 o'clock in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile crash Wednesday afternoon.

Father Reinhart suffered a head and eye injury and body fractures when his car left the road and crashed against a tree near Hagerstown as he was returning to Emmitsburg after visiting members of his family here.

He had been suffering from a heart condition for about a year and it was thought that he suffered a heart attack when the crash occurred. Father Reinhart told hospital attaches the accident occurred when he suddenly "blacked out" while at the wheel.

His condition was reported improved late Wednesday night and there was not much change in his condition yesterday morning.

He was born in Cumberland in 1879, a son of the late Francis and Mary A. Downey Reinhart.

Father Reinhart attended St. Patrick's School and Central Commercial College here before beginning his theological training in St. Charles College, Baltimore.

He was ordained in 1909 after completing studies in St. Mary's Seminary.

Surviving are two brothers, Harry F. Reinhart and Wiliam L. Reinhart, and one sister, Miss Ella M. Reinhart, all of 825 Mt. Royal Avenue.

William Reinhart is now visiting in Florida but is expected to return here by tomorrow.

Ballistics Workers Get Wage Increase

All 300 employes of the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will receive a flat $4 weekly wage increase, according to O. B. Case, manager of the laboratory.

Case said a contract was signed yesterday by the Chemical Workers Union, AFL, and the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, providing for a wage increase and a cost of living bonus.

Certain skilled craftsmen such as mechanics, electricians and other tradesmen will receive an additional three cents per hour wage hike. Two weeks paid vacations are also included.

Record Boom Is Seen In Flood, Dam Projects

Carroll Predicts Huge Employment

Allegany County will experience a "boom of unprecedented proportions" once the Savage River Dam and Cumberland - Ridgeley flood control projects go into full swing, Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local Maryland Employment Service office, declared yesterday.

Of course, Carroll warned, the preliminary phases of the two projects, which were approved by the United States House of Representatives yesterday, will not even take up the slack on the county's unemployment register, expected to reach 2,600 by March 1.

On the other hand, Carroll explained, Cumberland's auxiliary water line project, expected to get underway this summer, will have slight effect on the city's, let-alone, the county's unemployment problems.

Guess Not Feasible

The dam and flood projects, Carroll went on to explain, have not progressed far enough in the planning stage to permit even a guess at the actual employment figures that will result, but the resulting "boom" will easily be the biggest ever experienced in the county's history, he predicted.

Aside from allievating the unemployment problem, Carroll declared, the county's payrolls will swell to new highs and national industries seeking new locations will be attracted to the area by the initiative necessary to undertake such a program.

Cumberland, which Carroll described as the business center of the county, will feel the greatest effects of the two projects, he asserted, since much of the payroll money will eventually come into the city through the wholesale and retail trade centers.

The initial effects of the two projects will be slight, Carroll said, because most of the work will require highly skilled employes that contracting companies usually carry with them.

The two projects, once underway, Carroll said, will give the citizens of the county a new kind of security that has been lacking here for years. The idea that the county is progressing and not lying dormant will be reflected in its citizens' actions, he stated.

The bill which contains both projects will be sent to the Senate today for final action before becoming effective.

The additional funds needed will be requested in later federal budgets, it is explained.

Savage Dam Included

The Savage River Dam project, already about 65 per cent completed, is classed as a flood control project for the Luke, Westernport, Piedmont area, and the measure provides $400,000 for completion. In addition, the Upper Potomac River Commission has $200,000 to be spent on the project.

As passed by the House, the appropriations bill provides $321,282,000 for general flood control, including $308,237,000 for new construction, $3,000,000 for planning, and $5,000,000 for preliminary surveys.

In addition, $60,000,000 is provided for flood control on the Lower Mississippi River and tributaries and $1,750,000 for the Sacramento River flood control project in California.

The waterways program approved by the House for the next fiscal year is 30 per cent greater than that for the current fiscal year, but is 20 per cent below President Truman's budget estimate.

MEAT SMOKES WRONG WAY---LOSS IS $200

A curing process got out of control yesterday in the rear of Frantz's Grocery Store, Ridgeley, W. Va., and 500 pounds of bologna became fuel for a fire that was meant only to cure it.

Ridgeley Fire Chief C. L. Rice, said the flames were extinguished when the volunteer company arrived but the bologna which was being smoked in a frame shed in the rear of the store was destroyed.

The wind blew sparks from a fire built under the meat into the frame covering, firemen said, adding there is a difference between smoked and burned bologna—about $200 worth of difference in this incident—the estimated loss, according to Chief Rice.

Myers G. Light Favors Home Rule; Questions Need Of City Manager

Street Commissioner Myers G. Light said yesterday he favors home rule but that he does not see "where and how the city manager form of government would benefit the city at all."

Light, who is running for reelection to his second term, prepared a statement in reply to a published request by Isaac Hirsch that candidates for City Council in next month's elections express their views on home rule and the city manager question. His statement follows:

"I am not in a position to argue either for or against a city manager because I do not know anything about city managership. I have never studied city managership in any city that had a previous form of government. I do not know what caused those cities to change over to the city manager form of government. They must have had cause to do it. I do not know what that cause was other than possibly there was a lot of 'dead wood' on the payrolls in those cities.

"Personally, under our present system, I cannot see anything wrong with our form of city government. Now, I realize that in order to secure a competent, efficient city manager for a city the size of Cumberland . . . a city of approximately 45,000 people . . . with an assessment value of something over $50,0000,000 . . . in order to secure a man who would qualify to run a city of this size, I would imagine you would have to pay nothing less than $10,000 a year.

"Just what would this man do in order to have his salary? We in the City of Cumberland have no dead wood on our payrolls. Every man whose name appears on our payrolls has a job to do. Possibly in some of these other cities that have changed over to city manager form of government . . . I am not in a position to say . . . but possibly they have had a lot of dead wood on their payrolls. That condition does not exist in our city.

"Before we consider any change, let us see if the change would be justified, and what I mean by this is the first thing we will have to figure on is a man's salary.

"Just how would he save that salary? Would he reduce our present Police Department, or our Water Department? Would he reduce our present Fire Department? Would he reduce the personnel in the City Hall? Would he reduce the Street, Alley and Sewer Departments? Would he reduce the personnel in our Health Department?

"As I said before, we have no dead timber on our payrolls. Just how would this man save his salary before he started to save anything for the taxpayers? I can buy material for my department, which is Street and Alley, just as cheap as he can. There would be no savings on large quantities of material. I cannot see where and how the city manager form of government for the City of Cumberland would benefit the city at all.

"Just a word about home rule. I am in favor of home rule, and this is the reason why. I feel that the City of Cumberland should make the job of Mayor and Commissioners attractive enough to induce good, sensible, sound thinking men to aspire for those positions at election time. I do feel that our city should be governed by men who do not live within our city boundaries. For instance, the legislator who lives in another part of the state, regardless of what part, has no financial, moral, or social interest in our city.

"The trouble as I see it is too much politics being played, and that is the thing we want to get away from. I feel that the Mayor and City Council whom the taxpayers and
